"Alice in Wonderland."
 Tillamook Women's Civic Improvement League have made arrangements to produce "Alice in Wonderland," a most wonderful photo play at the Gem Theatre, on Friday evening, Jan. 18, the proceeds to go to the Tillamook Red Cross.
 "As Punch and Judy is known as the Adam and Eve of vaudeville, so is "Alice in Wonderland" known as the perfection in child literature. It seemed a pity yesterday to see thousands of children turned away at one of our local picture houses where this famous story was billed to be given. Of course, when a theatre is packed with people, those coming later have no other alternative than to remain outside. Being a holiday, of course, had something to do with bringing the children out, but no one ever dreamed that every youngster, it would seem, in the city would be attracted by Alice and her Wonderland. It was the Regent theatre—seating 2,500—where Alice was billed and both streets leading to it were blocked with children. They came in autos and farm wagons, and worst of all the trolley cars leading into the city were packed with youngsters, who had to return home disappointed. What a pity that moving pictures houses do not cater more to children and use their screens for such wholesome stories as "Alice in Wonderland." Give patrons less blood and thunder scenes and more of the sweeter things of life. Yesterday's experience should be enough to convince any maker of films what is most desired."—The Paterson Call.

I. O. O. F. Lodge to be Instituted At Wheeler.
 About one hundred members of the various lodges of Cloverdale, Beaver, Tillamook, Bay City will join in instituting an Oddfellows' Lodge at Wheeler on the night of Thursday, January 17th. A special train has been arranged for which will leave this city at 5:30 p. m., and which will return to Tillamook as soon as the lodge is instituted. The Bay City team will put on the initiatory degree, Cloverdale team will put on the 1st degree; Beaver team will put on the 2nd degree; and Tillamook team will put on the 3rd degree. It is expected that the Grand Lodge officers will be present and it is desired that all brothers of the order that can will make it a point to join the party. The instituting of the Wheeler lodge is the culmination of the desires of the County Convention which was held in Beaver in October, when a committee was appointed for the preliminary work. Bro. John Aschim, county president, has worked untiringly and sacrificed considerable personal time and expense to carry these plans to perfection.
 The Wheeler I. O. O. F. lodge will have a start of about 50 charter members and in the very near future will institute the Rebekah degree for the ladies of that locality. The principle movers in the lodge work at Wheeler have completed plans where they will erect a fine hall at a cost of $800, which is financed by the members. The building will be located on the best corner of Wheeler and the ground floor of the building has already been leased for a term of years.

TILLAMOOK HOTEL COMPANY MUST PAY BILLS.
Case Growing Out of Receivership Decided by Supreme Court.
 John Leland Henderson vs. Tillamook Hotel Company, et al appellants; from Tillamook County; appeal from decree settling final account of receivership of hotel property; opinion by Justice Benson, affirming Circuit Judge Belt.
 This is an appeal from a decree of the trial court settling the final account of the receiver appointed to take charge of the hotel property of the defendant corporation, with directions in the order of appointment "to act as such until the further order of this court, with full power and authority to take immediate and exclusive charge of the business and affairs of said defendant corporation, and to manage the same according to the orders, and directions of this court from time to time to be made herein, and to take such necessary steps as may be necessary to procure sufficient funds to meet and liquidate running and current expenses of the defendant corporation, and pay the claims of A. H. Gaylord and the said C. J. Carlton, and other urgent demands against the same, and is hereby given power and authority to negotiate a loan upon the credit of the defendant corporation and its assets, etc."
 In obedience to this order the receiver took possession of the property on May 5, 1914, and conducted the business thereunder until August 2, 1914, when, upon the reversal of such order by this court, the receiver was removed and directed to return the property to the defendant corporation. Thereafter, an accounting was had wherein the trial court made and entered a decree thereon as follows:
 "Based on the findings of fact and conclusions of law heretofore found and made in this case, it is by the court ordered that the receiver A. H. Gaylord pay to the defendant Hotel Company the sum of $422.00.
 "That the said Hotel Company thereupon transfer and assign to the said Gaylord all his claims and interest in the claim now shown upon its books against one E. F. Helliers for $133.00 on account of draft cashed by the said Gaylord while receiver.
 "That the said A. H. Gaylord have and recover of and from the plaintiff in this cause for his services as receiver the sum of $455.00, the further sum of $79.00 for his services in keeping account of the receipts and disbursements of the defendant company prior to his being appointed receiver, and the further sum of $289.00 on account of said Gaylord and Carlton as expert accountants, the further sum of $32.15 for premium on bond, labor and expert accounting and for publication of notice of hearing of final report, and that this shall be a full, final and complete settlement of all matters herein connected with the said receivership."
 From this decree defendants appeal. Benson J. The evidence taken upon the accounting in this case is very voluminous and is rendered vague and confusing by what we mean an unnecessary elaboration of petty details. From it all, we gather that the receiver took charge of the property on May 5, 1914, at which time he received with the business cash to the amount of $132.40, bar supplies $1034.72, and dining room supplies $94.60. When he was removed on August 2, 1914, he returned to the defendant Hotel company cash $654.97 bar supplies $1121.29 and dining room supplies $118.17. According to his own contention, he paid $2504.37 of bills incurred by the defendant prior to his appointment, of which defendants concede the payment of $1710.75. This discrepancy will be referred to later. He also incurred new obligations in conducting the business, which are still unpaid, to the amount of $2336.81. The total cash receipts, including the money on hand on May 5, 1914, were $7604.64 and the receiver accounts satisfactorily for $6933.31, in the shape of necessary disbursements, in addition to the sum of $654.97 paid to defendants on August 2, 1914. The trial court properly disallowed some of the disbursements and, as disclosed in the decree, ordered him to pay to defendant the further sum of $442, and gave judgment against the plaintiff for the receiver's compensation and other items of cost. The appeal of defendant appears to be based entirely upon the theory that the appointment of the receiver was a void act and as a necessary sequence that the receiver himself was a trespasser. This contention is without merit. The petition for the appointment was included in the complaint for an accounting and the allegations were sufficient, if true, to justify the action of the court. The appointment was made with notice and after the defendants had filed their answer. It is true that this court subsequently held that the action of the trial court was erroneous and directed that the receiver be removed, but did not declare the appointment void, nor was it so in fact.
 The decree was reversed because the evidence failed to support the allegations of the petition. This being true, it follows that the receiver is not in any sense a trespasser. In High on Receivers we find this statement of the law:

 "An order appointing a receiver is a cause in which the court has full jurisdiction, affords protection to the receiver for all acts done under and in conformity with such order, even though it is afterward reversed for error."
 This doctrine is supported by Beach on Receivers. The court therefore very properly allowed as credits to the receiver, all disbursements made in paying the debts of the defendant corporation and in carrying on the business.
 The discrepancy referred to, supra, arises from the fact that the receiver continued to do business with certain firms who had accounts with the defendant corporation prior to the appointment, to whom there were unpaid balances due. New liabilities were thus incurred and the dispute arises upon the question as to whether subsequent payments to such firms were applied to the old or new obligations. The new accounts are a proper charge against the defendants, since the supplies thus purchased would have been a necessary expense, even if there had been no receivership.
 It follows that it can make no material difference to the defendants whether the payments in question were applied to the new or old accounts since both are their obligations. We find no substantial error in the record and the decree is therefore affirmed.
Facing the Inevitable.
 The "Publishers Auxiliary," a newspaper published in the interest of the country daily and weekly press throughout the United States sums up the future of these publications in the following war-time language:
 "The farmer is getting over 38 per cent more for what he has to sell than he was getting a year ago, but is still paying the same price for his newspaper that he paid a year ago.
 "The groceryman is making a profit on an 18 per cent average increase in the price of everything he sells, but is still paying the same price for his advertising and for his newspaper.
 "The clothing merchant is making a profit of more than a 17 per cent average increase on everything he sells, but is still paying the same price for his advertising and his newspaper.
 "It is only a question as to how long the publishers who have not raised their rates can keep up a losing game, how long they can continue playing the role of philanthropists. In time they are bound to be driven to one or two alternatives. Either they must raise their rates, or they must go out of business and leave their fields to men who will ask a war-time price for a war-time product.
 "There is a considerable number of men in the country newspaper business who have not been afraid to ask what their product—their advertising and subscription—is worth, and they have found that there was no difficulty in getting fair prices. The Publisher's Auxiliary has told of the experiences of dozens of them, has told how they not only did not lose business by the raise, but in many, many cases were congratulated on making the raise. But with all of this there are hundreds, thousands, almost, who will not profit from the experience of these men and do the thing they know they must do if they are to continue in business.
 "You, Mr. Publisher, who have not raised your price, just put yourself in the position of the groceryman of your town for a minute. As the groceryman you have been selling sugar at, let us say, 5 cents a pound. You were then buying it at 3 1/2 cents a pound. The war caused a jump in the price of sugar and instead of costing you 3 1/2, it cost you 6 cents a pound. Would you continue selling it at 5 cents, or would you do just what the groceryman did do, advance the price to cover the advanced cost plus a proportionate profit?
 "So far as receipts and expenditures are concerned publishing a newspaper is just like any other business—if you do not get for your product what it costs you to produce it you are going broke.
 "And that is just what is going to happen to the newspaper publishers who do not raise their prices to cover their heavy increase in costs."
 Newspapers that have not raised the price of advertising or subscription are confronting a serious situation, that is the country newspapers with fairly good sized circulations. Our rates are exactly the same as when we took hold of the Headlight 20 years ago, and to give some idea of the cost of paper these days, our paper account for December was $168. It is double what it was two and a half years ago, but this is only a criterion of what country newspapers are up against. We hope the prediction is not true that if country newspapers fail to raise their rates they either will have to suspend or go into bankruptcy. That don't look very encouraging to the snap shot man.

Pay Up.
 Having sold my interest in the Tillamook Feed Co., all accounts up to Jan. 3rd, 1918, are due and payable. We ask that immediate settlement be made so that the business may be closed up.
 Respectfully,

ENGINEERS OPPOSE TO DEEPER NEHALEM
Report to Congress Declares That Facilities are Adequate at Present
 Washington, Jan. 8.—The secretary of war has transmitted to Congress the report of the examination and survey of Nehalem Bay and river in connection with the proposed improvement of deepening the channel from the mouth of the river to Wheeler. The report says that the commerce of the river is small, existing facilities are adequate and further expenditure is not deemed advisable at the present time.
