POLITICAL CONSPIRACY.

Yamhill Editor Throws Some Light on West's Frame-Up.

The accusation has been made that a political triumvirate existed in Oregon whereby it was desired to control the election of Ben Olcott for governor and Charles L. McNary for Senator, against all comers. Developments the past week go for an appearance toward confirming the suspicion. Ex-Governor West has returned from Washington, where it was surmised he had gone to arrange with Will K. King some compromise which would open the field for Mr. West to be a candidate for the senatorship. Republicans thought it strange that after all the pledges Mr. West made to his friend McNary months ago and at the time of his appointment to the office, that he would not enter the field, he should change his mind and come out openly against him. But this he did in an announcement from Washington that he would be a candidate. He now returns from the capital city and makes the proposition that all quit the field but McNary, and that if the others are "game" he will be. He congratulates Senator Huston on his withdrawal from the contest, and also the committee of Portland republicans who secured the withdrawal in the interest of securing one of two republican candidates. Here is Mr. West's statement made on his return home: "I am a strong believer in the Hooverization of candidates. If we are to cut down on expense on account of the war, there is no reason why we should cut down on candidates also, and, to show my sincerity in this direction, I wish to suggest that, inasmuch as Senator McNary is giving the president his unqualified support in his prosecution of the war and is most active in his endeavors to advance the interests of the people of Oregon, Mr. Stanfield, Mr. King and myself also withdraw from the contest. Such action on our part would leave Senator McNary free to devote his entire time to the duties of his office without the inevitable distractions due to his participation in the senatorial campaign and put him in a position where he could better serve the people of Oregon and the nation at large in the serious crisis through which the country is now passing. In making this suggestion, I feel that I would be making a greater sacrifice than Mr. Stanfield for I know that I would beat him at the general election where he to be nominated at the primaries May 17 next. Senator Huston has shown that he is a good sport, and that they say that Bob is also, and, in making this suggestion to him, I am giving him a good chance to demonstrate the fact."

In other words, Mr. West sets himself up as a candidate contrary to his promises to his friend McNary, increases the number of candidates and then proposes to Hooverize in the interest of his friend Senator C. L. McNary, who professes he has had nothing to do with the scheme to control the politics of the state by combining his own movements with the men of opposite faith. We wish that we could believe this, but we very much fear that McNary is in collusion with democrats to hold his own place. West's action smacks very strongly of a desire to camouflage Oregon republicans into support of McNary that they may be saved from being beaten by West. If we mistake not the scheme is too diaphanous to hoodwink the republicans of the state. They have been fooled in the past by democratic trickery, but it wasn't quite as transparent as this plan, and they have learned to watch Mr. West with more discerning eyes.

Now, how appareth the good sense and smiling countenance of our friend Stanfield? His reply marks a shrewd man, quite equal to cope with the machinations of the infallible Oswald. Here it is: "Believing that the republican voters of the state of Oregon would not look with favor upon Oswald West naming the senatorial candidate for the republican party, and inasmuch as I have received many thousands of letters and other assurances from the republican voters assuring me of their support, I must respectfully decline the proposal of Mr. West that all other candidates withdraw and give a clear field to C. L. McNary. I feel that I have the confidence of the republican voters and the people of this great state that I will serve them honestly and efficiently as a Senator and at this critical time they are inclined to support a man from the business walks of life, Oswald West has heretofore asserted that he only desired to be a candidate that he might oppose me if I should be successful in defeating McNary in the primaries. His interference is intolerable to me, as I believe it is to the Republican voters of the state, and I will welcome the opportunity to oppose him in the general election if he should be successful in defeating his democratic opponent, Mr. King."

We submit that Mr. Stanfield's reply to such an unworthy scheme as West puts up stamps him as a citizen of honor, who prizes as its true worth his free American citizenship which permits to every citizen the right to ask the suffrages of the people on his merits, and without being dictated to by a coterie of smooth politicians who seek to place themselves in office indefinitely by creating a machine of control and blindly leading the voters of the state into their trap. After this episode R. N. Stanfield should loom larger than ever in the minds of the good people of Oregon and should get their hearty support. We need men in the United States Senate who are above such party politics for personal preferment. Mr. Stanfield wants to be senator in the interests of his state. He knows its resources, and knows that in the past it has come far short of getting its desire in government activities in Washington.—Telephone Register.

HUSTON RETIRES FROM RACE

Democratic Party Exist Only for Benefit of a Few Bosses.

The reply of Mr. Huston to Mr. Killingsworth follows:

Your letter of the 1st inst, received and in reply will say; I did not withdraw in favor of either of the other candidates and at the time I withdrew it was not my intention to make any expression as to my choice as between Mr. McNary and Mr. Stanfield. I find, however, that many others like you have gained the impression from the articles in the Evening Telegram that I withdrew in favor of Mr. McNary, and this impels me to say that I have made up my mind to vote for Mr. Stanfield. There are several minor reasons which influence me in some degree, among which is this: I have a very strong conviction that Oregon has been discriminated against by the National Government in many ways. Mr. Stanfield shares this feeling and promises, if elected, to correct it as far as it lies in his power to do so. Senator McNary denies that any such discrimination exists. He was quoted in a dispatch from Washington to the Oregon Journal as saying that he "took no stock in the statement that there had been discrimination against Oregon." Of course, if he believes there has been no such discrimination he will make no effort to remove it.

Mr. West Opposed.

My principal reason, however, is this: I am not willing that Ex-Governor West shall dictate to the Republican party who its candidate shall be. It is well known in Oregon that there has been, for the last eight years, a bi-partisan combination for the purpose of controlling the principal offices in the state and giving them to a chosen few in each party. I had always believed that Senator McNary was a member of that combination. I am sure that it was this belief that defeated him for renomination for Supreme Judge. It is now denied, and it is just possible that I may be mistaken. There are some things, however, about which I am not mistaken, Governor West appointed Mr. McNary to the Supreme bench. When Mr. McNary was defeated for renomination Governor West "hollered his head off" for a re-count, claiming that it would show McNary to have been nominated.

Four or five days before Senator Lane died, when arrangements were being made for Senator McNary's appointment, Governor West was on the ground flitting back and forth between McNary's office and the Statehouse. When Mr. McNary was appointed Governor West came out and endorsed the appointment, saying that it was a splendid one, and that he would not be a candidate against Mr. McNary. He has repeatedly stated since that time that he was going to force the republican party to renominate McNary. Every time he returns from Washington he is interviewed in the Journal and tells what a wonderful Senator McNary is making. When ever he spoke before any of the civic bodies of the state he went out of his way to praise McNary, and finally, after Governor West had filed as a candidate for Senator, himself, he gave an interview in Washington which was published in the Oregon Journal, in which he said: "While I have little fear of the people's verdict in this contest, large sums of money are being spent to defeat the present incumbent. In that event the game will be open and I hope to be in a position to take a hand."

"Non-Partisan" Bared.

These acts and this language are only susceptible of one interpretation and that is that Senator McNary is perfectly satisfactory to Governor West and the bi-partisan combine. To construe it otherwise and to say, as has been said by The Evening Telegram and other McNary organs, that Governor West's actions were intended to injure Senator McNary is to impute to him conduct so treacherous and ungrateful as to place him beneath the contempt of mankind if it were true. I do not think Governor West's worst enemy believes him capable of such conduct.

The Democratic party in Oregon exists only for the benefit of two or three men. Every Democratic who is not within the charmed circle has no more chance of preferment than a "rabbit". If the Republican party has fallen so low that it cannot nominate a man of its own choice but must accept the dictates of ex-Governor West, or any other member of the bi-partisan combine, it is time for it to go out of business.

As a protest against this, I shall vote for Mr. Stanfield. It is not my purpose in saying this to attempt to dictate in any way to my friends as to how they shall vote. In supporting me they exercised their own free choice and they will continue to do that now as I am out of the race. I only make this statement as showing the reasons which impel me to vote for Mr. Stanfield.

Why is Oregon's Self Appointed Boss Afraid of Stanfield?

ROBERT N. STANFIELD,
Farmer, Stock Raiser and Producer.

Believing that the Republican voters of the State of Oregon would not look with favor upon Oswald West naming the Senatorial candidate for the Republican party.

And inasmuch as I have received many thousands of letters and other assurance from the Republican voters assuring me of their support, I must respectfully decline the proposal of Mr. West that all other candidates withdraw and give a clear field to C. L. McNary.

I feel that I have the confidence of the Republican voters and the people of this great state that I will serve them honestly and efficiently as a Senator and at this critical time they are inclined to support a man from the business walks of life.

Oswald West has heretofore asserted that he only desired to be a candidate that he might oppose me if I should be successful in defeating McNary in the primaries.

His interference is intolerable to me, as I believe it is to the Republican voters of the state, and I will welcome the opportunity to oppose him in the general election if he should be successful in defeating his Democratic opponent, Mr. King."

R. N. Stanfield.

Mr. Stanfield makes the above reply to the proposal of Oswald West that all candidates for senator withdraw in favor of Mr. West's candidate. The whole activity of the Democratic machine is attempting to stem the tide of dissatisfaction against their candidate now in the senate is laid bare in this last supreme attempt of Mr. West to bolster up a forlorn hope.

The question is, do the people and the Republicans want this sort of bossism in Oregon, or do they want 100 per cent Americans and 100 per cent Republicans, such as Mr. Stanfield, a successful, energetic, patriotic self-made man whose every act has added to the progress and growth of Oregon, a man who gets results, accomplishes something, who has worked and knows how to work and who will work.

Which do you want? A man who can stand on his own feet, or one who cannot?

Stanfield is 100 per cent American and 100 per cent Republican and he would support the President in winning the war.
