Condemn the Mob Spirit.

Patriotic law-respecting people cannot too severely condemn lawless actions like that reported from San Jose Cal., where a mob masquerading as "Knights of Liberty" hanged a victim to a tree till he was unconscious and they spirited him away. Another victim of the same mob was tarred and feathered and then chained to a cannon in San Jose park.

The victims were charged with disloyalty and may or may not have been guilty of that offense. But there can be no question about the disloyalty of the members of the mob. True loyalty upholds the law and respects the courts. True patriotism reveres our orderly institutions and will not bring them into disrepute. Genuine patriotism takes a pride in the fair fame and good name of its community.

Mobs that engage insubordinate patriotism are almost invariably made up of reckless, hot-headed men; town loafers and drunken failures are invariably drawn into them. If the truth were known about the San Jose "Knights of Liberty" it would be found that they were largely composed of slackers of one kind or another—men who ought to be in uniform or engaged in some useful work for the winning of the war. Lacking genuine patriotism they indulge in the bogus variety.—Spokesman Review.

WHAT THE EDITORS SAY.

A law has been introduced in Congress to compel the publication of all newspapers in the English language. Mighty good idea. Those who are not willing to learn to read the English language can easily stay where the language they prefer is printed. Nothing will help along the melting pot more than to make it necessary for immigrants to become proficient in the language of the country of their adoption.—The Sentinel.

The municipal council has decided to send several cases of good wine to the French artillerymen who are counterattacking the German long range gun, remarked a Paris dispatch. This gift of appreciation will be all right, providing the French soldiers only see one gun at a time after imbibing freely of the liquor. Good, old wine has a tendency to make some people see double—and feel doubly well—for the time being.—Umpqua Valley News.

The outlook of both fall and spring wheat is splendid. The authorities estimate that the yield this year may be close to 900,000,000 bushels. At the same time crop conditions in the allied countries are far better than last year and the probability is that all restrictions on the use of flour will be removed soon after harvest begins or as soon as the yield is assured. Fruit in almost every section of the western coast is setting nicely, and a large crop seems assured at the present time.—Telephone register.

The Government within the last week commandeered all the wool and rubber stocks in the country, and assumed complete control of the sale and handling of the same. Prices of wool are fixed on the basis of July 31 of last year and the clip this year is to be included. Speculation in rubber had become active and the price was being rapidly forced up. The first result of the government's action was the reduction of ten per cent, from the prices of the day previous. Rubber is also placed on the list of restricted imports, for the purpose of conserving ship space. The commission ought now to wake up and fix the price on corn and other wheat substitutes and fish.—Telephone Register.

Congress added some very necessary teeth to the espionage law last week and provided a means of dealing with the yellow dogs and enemy sympathizers who have been skating on thin ice but who have been careful not to bring themselves within reach of laws which did not contemplate the possibility that a snake that had been warmed and fed would strike at its benefactor. Hereafter circulation of disloyal rumors, opposition to Liberty Loan and other patriotic activities, prediction of allied defeat, excuse of enemy atrocities and gloating over temporary enemy successes will be an unprofitable pastime, and loyal citizens will no longer be tempted to take the law in their own hands.—Independent.

Should Heed Roosevelt's Counsel.

Speaking with characteristic vigor and earnestness in Boston, Thursday, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I say solemnly unless we hurry the preparation we may be too late. Make it a million and a half men now and announce that we intend to place 5,000,000 troops in the field. Many of our cantonments are vacant. Every one of them should be used to the limit during the spring, summer and fall months—and build new ones if necessary."

The American people owe an attentive ear to Mr. Roosevelt's counsel, for its sagacity and rugged patriotism have been proved beyond a doubt. When other eyes were clouded, his vision was clear, when other hearts were timid, his heart, was strong. When other minds were befuddled, his mind was wise.

He was for protesting against Belgian wrongs in 1914, but was hoisted down.

He urged vigorous preparedness in the first months of the war and was roundly abused for it.

He pleaded for the draft nearly four years ago.

He urged that Von Bernstorff be given his passports, that vigorous action be taken against German spies and pro-German traitors. He has been a powerful molder of thought and patriotism and a potent spur to action.

If the nation had responded more quickly to his counsel there would be no danger now of America being too late. The war would be over and won.—Spokesman Review.

Across the Seas they Call.

Across the seas from every war-torn nation in the Allied cause there come the call for Red Cross help.

It comes from soldiers who have grimly faced the gleaming bayonet steel and poison gas and screaming shells, and who now lie with parching throats and throbbing wounds.

It comes from soldiers sick with fever, pneumonia, tuberculosis.

It comes from soldiers crippled, mutilated, blinded, who can no longer fight and must be taught and trained for useful occupations.

It comes from the underfed, shivering, helpless prisoners in the German prison camps.

It comes from little children, orphaned, homeless, slowly starving day by day, by tens and tens of thousands.

It comes from mothers in the pillaged zones of war whose hearts and souls have been made numb with horror.

From all these millions of suffering human beings there comes across the seas the call for help—help that because of the frightful burdens placed upon our allies cannot be given unless it be provided by the American Red Cross.

Another hundred million is needed to "carry on."

What will America's answer be?

Helps Widows and Orphans.

Your Red Cross is all American, largely volunteer organization, authorized by Congress, headed by President Wilson, audited by the War Department, enthusiastically approve by your Army, your Navy, and your Allies.

The work covers both military and civilian relief in every war-torn Allied country and full reports of all expenditures are continually being published, or are available through the chapters.

It stands beside our boys in training here or "over there."

It watches beside the pillows of battle-broken men, and offers rest and sympathy to war-torn fighters on brief respite from the front.

It carries food and clothing to hungered mothers and little ones in ruined villages.

It helps rebuild the scattered pile of brick and stone they once called "Home."

It brings back to the hopeless mother's arms her long lost child.

It helps care for the orphans of the men who died that civilization might live.

It helps care for the thousands that have fallen prey to dread tuberculosis.

It nobly represents in deeds of mercy, relief, and restoration the more than twenty million members that have made its great work possible.

Will you do your share to keep this "Hand of Mercy" at its work?
