Near Bottom of Flour Bin.

Not since the civil war, and probably not within 100 years, has the United States been so near the bottom of the national flour bin. Its visible supply of wheat (grain in mills, elevators and in transit) was down to 2,776,000 bushels on April 27, and supplies in farmers' hands are also known to be near the bottom.

A year ago the visible supply was 33,207,000 bushels, and that was considered a close margin, although it was 13 times the present holdings. We realize now more fully than ever before the tremendous value of the service that Mr. Hoover has rendered the nation and our allies. If the American people had eaten wheat flour in normal quantity the last year, one of two calamities would have resulted; either we could have sent no wheat to our allies, or wheat flour would have disappeared entirely in this country several months ago. Mr. Hoover's persistent appeals to the people to use substitutes, and his steadily tightening regulations on the mills, the bakeries and the hotels and restaurants, have enabled us to send generous supplies to our allies and tide over the shortage in this country.

And we do not forget that for that service he received only $1 a year from the government.

A Humorless People.

"Go's hand has visibly prevailed." —The Kaiser.

This is a horrible example of what can happen to a nation or to an individual that has been deprived of all humor.

The kaiser is a thick, conceited egomaniac who would froth at the mouth and fall in a fit if anyone dared to laugh at him. A thick, conceited person is without a sense of humor. If he had one, he would realize the absurdity of his own thickness and conceit.

Similarly, the German people are thick and conceited. They have stuffed themselves with the rich foods and self-adulation for so many years that they are low witted—fat-headed. They are furious when they are laughed at. They never laugh at themselves. Whatever they say is sound; whatever they do is right. So far as they are able to discover, there is nothing about themselves to provoke mirth.

That's why it is that neither the kaiser or the German people see anything laughable in the statement that God's hand has visibly prevailed, through mutilated and outraged women weep in Belgium and France, and harmless homes of England mourn mothers and children dead from aerial bombings. Poor, thick-headed, stupid, humorless Germany.—Umpqua Valley News.

Editors and Soft Snaps.

There is an opinion quite prevalent among some who have never spent much time around a newspaper office that the editor's job is quite a simple one, requiring a lot of hard work on the day the paper is issued, with the six days that follow in which to recuperate and attend the movies and afternoon teas, leaving a substitute on the job to collect the money as it rolls in. Our attention has been attracted by a want ad, which appeared in a recent issue of The Independent, published at Elizabeth City, N. J., which will effectually dispel any such illusions and which reads as follows:

"Wanted—An all round newspaper man; must write all the editorials and news for his newspaper every week; must solicit all advertising for this newspaper every week; must lay out the bulk of the ads, read proofs, lay out the entire paper, personally superintend the typographical makeup of each page of the paper.

"In addition to these duties this man must solicit subscriptions for The Independent every day in the week and write not less than 3000 subscriptions a year.

"In his spare time he must answer all the correspondence received by the newspaper, meet the payroll and read newspapers, books and periodicals to keep in touch with the world as it goes. He must also know something about the job printing business, solicit job printing for the shop and personally superintend each job. He must have a fair knowledge of printing material and machinery and be able to take the place of any man in the shop any day in the week. Should also have some experience with a camera and always be on the lookout for pictures for the paper.

"If you know of such a man send him to me and I'll give him my job for a couple of weeks. I have simply enumerated a part of the work required of one man in producing this paper. And then there are a lot of folks who think I'm a lucky fellow and make a living without having to work."

The best proof that there is no cause for anxiety in France is indicated in the action of General Petain in resuming the practice of granting furloughs to French troops. This practice was stopped at the beginning of the German offensive.

The Third Liberty Loan.

The campaign for the Third Liberty Loan has closed with some 17,000,000 Americans purchasing about $4,000,000,000 of bonds.

Hundreds of thousands of individual citizens, thousands of corporations and associations, and practically every newspaper and bank in the country gave liberally of their time, space, effort, and money to make the loan a success. The response of the people of the country was commensurate with the appeal made to them.

One great feature of the loan is its wide distribution. The farmers of the country, the people living in the rural communities, in the small towns and villages, not only subscribed liberally to the loan but subscribed promptly. In fact, to a very great extent rural communities were earlier in making up their quotas than the larger cities. Secretary McAdoo well calls this wide distribution of the loan among the people the soundest financing in the world.

The sale of the Liberty Loan Bonds is only one half of the transaction. The Government in selling the bonds is collecting money from the people. From now until the bonds are finally called in and paid for the Government will be disbursing money to the people. It is going to be of incalculable benefit not only to the individual bondholders but to the country at large that these annual interest payments and the final payment of the bonds are going to be widely distributed among the body of the people, not paid only to large financial institutions, nor paid in large amounts to the dwellers in cities, nor paid to the individual citizens, the rank and file of the American people.

The Liberty Loan is going to prove a great national blessing to the nation and to the people of the nation. Through it is to be enforced against our enemies the irresistible might of this invincible Republic, bringing victory to America and her allies and that liberty and justice and civilization which they are fighting for.

It is a great bond between the people and the government, a great bond uniting in one great effort all of our people, and bringing economy and saving and prosperity to millions of American homes.

Proper Food For Weak Stomachs.

The proper food for one man will be all wrong for another. Everyone should adopt a diet suited to his age and occupation. Those who have weak stomachs need to be especially careful and should eat slowly and masticate their food thoroughly. It is also important that they keep their bowels regular. When they become constipated or when they feel dull and stupid after eating, they should take Chamberlain's Tablets to strengthen the stomach and move the bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. For sale by Lamar's Drug Store.—Paid Adv.

IRRITABLE NERVOUS

Was Condition of Indiana Lady Before Beginning to Take Card-u-i, the Woman's Tonic.

Kokomo, Ind.—Mrs. H. Hankemeier, of this town, says: "I look so well, and am so well, that it does not seem as if I ever needed Cardui. But I was not always this way... I think I have taken a dozen bottles... before my little girl came.

I was feeling dreadfully bad, had headache, backache, sick at my stomach, no energy... I was very irritable, too, and nervous.

I began taking Cardui about 6 months before my baby came. As a result all those bad feelings left me, and I just felt grand, just as if nothing at all was the matter, and when the end came I was hardly sick at all.

Since that I have never taken Cardui at all... It has done me good, and I know it will help others, if they will only try it."

Many women have written grateful letters like the above, telling of the good that Cardui has done them. Why should it not help you, too? If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, and feel the need of a safe, reliable, strengthening tonic, we urge you to begin today and give Cardui a fair trial. Your dealer sells Cardui. EB-10
