Pauline Frederick in "Resurrection."
Miss Frederick will be seen in her new photoplay, "Resurrection," a picturization of Count Leo Tolstoy's famous novel. In this picture Miss Frederick is seen as a half Gypsy Russian girl, who after her betrayal by a dissolute Prince and favorite of the Czar, becomes a social outcast and lives the delightful life of a Magdalen. She is convicted of a crime of which she is innocent, and banished to Siberia. The man who is responsible for the wreck of her life is seized with remorse and offers to marry her, but recognizing the inequality of their social positions, she refuses this offer, because of her love for a simple peasant whose friendliness and protection of their dreary march across the Siberian wastes had won her love.
Miss Frederick is capably supported in this unusual photoplay by such sterling screen players as Robert Elliott, John Sainpolis and Jere Austin. As Prince Nekudov, a dissolute Russian Prince who later finds his soul, Mr. Elliott is seen to great advantage, while the portrayal of the role of Simonson, a peasant, by Mr. Sainpolis, is highly artistic. Mr. Austin is well cast and the support generally is of a character which adds much to the attractiveness of the great photoplay.
The scenes are thrilling, the action dramatic and rapid, and in all other respects, "Resurrection" which will be shown at the Gem Theatre next Sunday, October 6th, is a photoplay, which once seen, may be viewed again and again with profit.

Zweifel Not Guilty.
Federal Judge Wolverton Saturday drew a jury panel of 40, from which jurors will be selected to try the case against Rudolph Zweifel, of Tillamook, who is charged with conspiracy to violate the regulations issued by the food administration relative to food hoarding. Fred Kebbe, Sr., and Fred Kebbe, Jr., who were indicted with Zweifel, pleaded guilty and were fined $500 each.
The trial of Zweifel commenced on Tuesday, in the Federal Court at Portland, who was represented by Attorneys Johnson & Handley, of this city. The government subpoenaed Sheriff Campbell and the defence summoned Thad. Robison, F. R. Beals, S. M. Batterson and Frank A. Rowe.
The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Coming—"When a Man Sees Red."
"When a Man Sees Red," the special $200,000 picture delux which was William Farnum's last in the West, and which director Frank Lloyd brought East with him, will be shown at the Gem Theatre next Tuesday, October 8. All the scenes were completed on the Pacific Coast and at the William Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal., but the cutting and editing has been done in New York City, while Mr. Lloyd was working with Mr. Farnum on a new production.
Both director and star are enthusiastic over "When a Man Sees Red." Mr. Lloyd is of the opinion that Mr. Farnum as well as himself has done even better work than in "A Tale of Two Cities," the remarkable seven reel version of Dickens' classic.
"When a Man Sees Red" is, of course, of a wholly different character. To use a word which has been employed so frequently without real justification, it is gripping in the extreme. Mr. Farnum has a role of the type in which he stands unrivaled—that of a strong, rugged, clean-cut man. In this feature he is the sturdy sailor who battles his way to victory against almost overwhelming odds.
To The Voters of Tillamook County.
Having been requested to run for the office of county treasurer by a number of prominent citizens and large taxpayers as well as by a number of women in different parts of the county, I have decided to become a candidate for that office, and kindly ask your support and vote at the coming election to be held on November 5, 1918. I will prove that a woman can make good as a county official by putting in a good honest day's work, and if I am favored by being elected to that office, I will also agree to do the recording work, thus saving the taxpayer's one county official.
Respectfully yours,
Canzada Everson.

Perfect Spaghnum Moss Bailer.
The new sphagnum moss bailer perfected by Professor J. W. Hotson was tried out recently at the Kleep moss sheds at Ilwaco, Wash. This is a wooden machine, simply constructed and patterned much after the ordinary hay bailer. It will hold about two and one half sacks and packs a bale 16 by 20 inches weighing 30 pounds.
The bailer can be easily operated by women and as there are some 700 sacks of moss dried and ready for shipment it is expected that next month will prove a busy one for the Ilwaco enthusiasts.

INCENDIARY FOREST FIRES.
Several Fires Start in Nehalem Country and Bad Fire on Kilchis.
What was hardly ever known before in Tillamook county was forest fires starting up at this season of the year, when most everybody had come to the conclusion that there were no more danger of forest fires this year. The timber men had withdrawn their fire wardens, and no one dreamed of there being any further likelihood of fires getting started in the timber. But the weather during the whole year had been freakish and unusually dry, for in August, usually the driest month in the year, there was a good downpour. Since then the weather has been dry with occasional east wind. The usual September rains failed to make their appearance. This made the risk of forest fire loom up again, and last week several fires started in the Nehalem country. On Friday afternoon a fire was started at Lynbrook near the railroad, and it soon got into the green timber and burnt over a big stretch of timber.
The most serious fire was up the Kilchis river where it did considerable damage. A large number of men were taken there to fight fire from the saw mills and logging camps by John Aschim the fire warden.
There are numerous reports that the fires are of incendiary origin. One mysterious incident connected with the fire on Kilchis river have not been solved. Early Monday morning a woman on the Tillamook line called up Bay City on the telephone, asking the operator to tell W. S. Cone and Mrs. Russell Hawkins that the Tilden claim was on fire. This appears to have been the first intimation that a fire had started there, although the fire seems to have been started Saturday. Upon Mr. Cone going to the Tilden claim he found that seven fires had been started about 500 feet apart, which however did not run, but burned small patches. Upon an investigation being made further up the river where the ground was dry, other fires had been set out and these did considerable damage, the extent of which is not known here at present.
The fire wardens are keeping tabs on everyone traveling over the roads in the north part of the county, and even County Commissioner H. V. Alley, County Commissioner, who was not known to the fire wardens, on his way to the city to attend the meeting of the court, was held up and had to give an account of himself.
TILLAMOOK WINS AT FAIR.
Cheese Gets First and Second Prizes School Exhibit Obtains 3rd Place. Also Wins Canning Contest.
Tillamook County's booth at the State Fair last week was a very creditable production, winning first prize in the coast county division. It was no easy matter to assemble the different articles because there was no county fair to select from, but County Agriculturist Jones managed to turn the trick and succeeded in obtaining a sufficient variety of articles to land the prize. Although other county booths had a larger variety of fruit, cereals and corn, Tillamook County's booth loomed up fine with a good display of cheese, which is always most attractive and interesting to visitors at the state fair. What however appeared to interest visitors also was the large bunch of sphagnum moss which was in a conspicuous place. Very few persons had seen sphagnum moss grow, and they looked in wonderment at the moss, felt it and asked all manner of questions, some of which seemed ridiculous to those who know about how and where it grows. Mrs. Jones helped her husband arrange the booth and this may account for the artistic manner in which everything was put on display.
Tillamook Cheese First and Second.
Tillamook cheese captured first and second prizes in the dairy department. Albert Wade, of Cloverdale, being 1st with 96 points, and Hugh Barber, of Fairview, second with 95 1/2 points. The third prize was won by cheese made in Wisconsin, the score being 95 1/4.
The School Exhibit.
County School Superintendent G. B. Lamb, with Mrs. Lamb, arranged the Tillamook County school exhibit and it was a very creditable showing, being fortunate in obtaining the fifth prize. Considering that there is a great deal of difference in the products of the coast counties to that of the Willamette Valley and Eastern and southern counties, this county did wonderfully well in obtaining the 5th premium. The school exhibits should be divided into three divisions, the same as in the county exhibits. The school booth had a large quantity of loose sphagnum moss and it kept Mr. and Mrs. Lamb busy all day explaining to people how it grew and was also a drawing card at the school booth.

Noah Richards obtained 3rd prize for potato growing; Evelyn Glad 1st prize in farm and home handicraft; and in the pig contest Wesley Tippin, of Garibaldi won second prize.
Tillamook Win Canning Prize.
Tillamook County won the contest for girls canning at the State Fair, competitions ending Friday night. Gladys Klinehan, Marie Geinger and Pauline Geinger made up the victorious team, and as Oregon champions these girls will compete at Spokane next Fall and will be given summer courses at Corvallis next year. Should they win at Spokane then they will compete at Chicago. Other counties finished as follows: Wasco, second; Polk, third; Coos, fourth; and Baker, fifth.
Red Cross Calf Brought $350.00.
The Guernsey calf given to the Tillamook branch of the American Red Cross by Jos. Durrer, was auctioned off at the State Fair on Friday and was sold for $350.00. This will go into the funds of the local Red Cross.
DEATH OF H. B. MILLIS.
Tillamook Young Man Victim of Spanish Influenza.
It was with profound regret, news reached this city Friday evening that H. B. Millis was critically ill with Spanish influenza at Camp Colt, Pennsylvania, and the next morning the sad news of his death reached this city.
He had recently joined the tank company in Portland, and was sent to Seattle, Wash, and from there he went to Camp Colt, Pennsylvania.
He was just the type of young man to navigate a tank, being courageous and full of dash and determination, and had his life been spared he would have made it interesting for the blood thirsty Huns. It was his ambition, after he made up his mind to enlist, to see active service on the Western front.
Young Millis was a very popular young man and for a number of years was the deputy county Assessor under Assessor C. A. Johnson, and was a splendid county official, doing his work well and accurately, while on the base ball field he was the life and inspiration of the home team, being the pitcher.
He married Miss Vida Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers, who is now deputy county clerk, and the young couple were thrifty and industrious and highly respected by all who knew them. The death of Howard is to be deplored, for it severs two happy lives that were devotedly attached one to the other, and deprives Tillamook County of a splendid young man.
Millis was a member of the Masonic, K. of P. and the Oddfellows lodges in this city, and carried a life insurance in one of the old line companies.
Several letters received from him previous to his death complained of the cold and insufficient blankets to keep him warm at nights.
Although two telegrams have been sent to Camp Colt, no answer have been received as to when the body was sent and when it will arrive in this city.
About Moss Picking.
To the Editor Tillamook Headlight.
I want to say in behalf and defense of my family in regards to the inexperienced moss pickers at the last drive, we were unexperienced but we followed instructions and my family of five gathered 100 sacks, besides the men folks carried out sacks part of the time, and we picked six sacks from one bog where some experienced pickers left. We thought we were doing our bit.
