JACKSON SCHEME REPUDIATED

In Home of Journal, Chamber of Commerce Rejects His Measures.

Sam Jackson, self-appointed guardian of the public weal, has decreed through the columns of the Portland Journal, that the delinquent tax publication law and the statute defining legal rates, shall be cast in the discard at the coming election. This is in effect the mandate published each day in the Journal, and in place of the present statute, Mr. Jackson will "substitute" a couple of pet measures of his own.

The citizens of Oregon, as a consequence, are debating on whether they should follow Mr. Jackson's injunction, or whether it would be safe to figure out their voting privileges in accordance with mandates of their own consciences. If they are at all hesitant to comply with the Jackson edict, it is probably because they realize Mr. Jackson is an old hand at telling folks how to cast their ballots and that his desire in the matter do not always coincide with the views of the citizens. This was notably the cause of a few years ago when Mr. Jackson attempted to foist off single tax in Oregon.

The two measure in question are now being considered by the voters of the state, and it seems to be the well defined consensus of opinion in every section, that the present laws are equitable. It is further conceded that the delinquent tax law is more than a mere administrative law in that it specifically renders a public service which cannot be overlooked by any fair minded citizen—and the taxpayer in particular.

The present tax publication law provides that mail notices be sent out to the taxpayer. This fact you do not see mentioned in the columns of the Journal. Then, after failure of mail notice, the tax lists are to be published. Thus is the delinquent taxpayer protected as far as possible. Jackson's law would abolish the publication altogether, and leave the delinquent at the mercies of the tax title grabber. Such is the practical working of the Jackson amendment. His other bill is to cut down the present legal rate of five cents per line—now in force in practically every state in the union.

Unfortunately for Mr. Jackson the voters of the state are able to reason things out for themselves. They love suggestions but not mandates as to how they are to cast their ballots.

For weeks Jackson's Journal has been given orders to the Oregon electorate on the Jackson pet measures. Strange to relate, however, the Portland Chamber of Commerce, at its weekly luncheon this week, unanimously turned down both of the schemes. They evidently figured that there was no justifiable reason at this time for punishing either the taxpayers or the press, so they went on record as unqualifiedly rejecting the Jackson bills.

It must have been a sorry day for Mr. Jackson and his Portland Journal, when the "home town" folks turned against him. Incidentally no mention of the action was made in the Journal.

Tons of Supplies.

Every week more than 500 tons of supplies for the boys overseas leave Atlantic ports for France. These supplies are shipped by the welfare agencies working for soldiers and sailors. To maintain this work and to increase it to meet the needs of the two million men over there, a united campaign for funds will be made by the United War Work Campaign. The sum of $170,500,000 must be raised in the week of November 11th.

Popper, Help Me!

An American soldier in France is author of the following, which is entitled "The Clown Prince to His Pa."

Dear Papa—I am writing on der run as der brave and glorious soldier under my command h've not seen der Rhine for so long dat they have started back dat way and of course I am gojing mit dem. Oh, papa, der has been some offel dings happened here in France. First I started in my big offensive which was to crush de little American, but dey know so fool about military tactics dat dey will not be crushed like I vant 'em. I sent my men in ter fight in big waves and ven dey got to de Americans dey all say "Boo" as long as dey could holler. Vell, according to vat you half always told me der Americans have turned and run like blazes. But vat do you tink? Dem fool Americans don't know anything about war, instead of running de odder vey, dey come right toward us. Some of dem was singing something about "Ve Won't Come Back Till It's Over Oder Dere," or some odder foolish song, and some of dem were laughing like fools. Dey are so ignorant. But dey are aful reckless mit dere guns, and ven dey come toward us it vas dat my men took a notion dey wanted to go back to de dear old Rhine. Ve don't like de little odd dirty Marne river anyhow. And, oh papa, dem Americans use such offel language. Dey know nothing of Kultur, and say such offel dings right before us.

And dey talk blasphemy, too. Vot you tink dey said right in front of my face? One big husky from a place they call Arizona, he said—ho papa, I hate to tell you vat an offel ting he said—but I cant help it; he said "To hi—I mit der Kaiser!" Did you ever hear anything so offel? I don't tink anybody would say such a offel ting. It make me so mad. I couldn't stand and hear such an offel ting so I turned round and ran nit der odder boys. Was I right? And, oh papa, you know dem breast plates you sent us—can you send some more to put on our backs? You know we are going de odder vey now, and breast plates are no good, for de cowardly Americans are shooting us right in der back. Some of our boys took off der breast plates and put 'em behind, but de fool Americans are playing "Der Star Spangled Banner" mit machine guns on dem plates.

Can't you help us? You remember in your speech you said nothing could stand before the brave German soldiers. Oh, papa, I don't believe dese ignorant Americans ever read your speech, for dey run after us just like ve vas a lot of rabbits. Vot you dink of dot? Can't you send dem some of your speeches right away? Dey don't know how terrible we are. Can't you move my army back to Belgium vere ve von our glory? My men can vip all the vimeun un children vot Belgian can bring us. But dese Americans are so rough and ignorant. We cant make 'em understand dot vot ve are de greatest soldiers on earth, and ven ve try to sing "Deutschland Ueber Alles" dey laugh like a lot of monkeys. But ve are getting de best of de Americana. We can outrun dem. Papa iv ve are not de best fighters on earth, we are sure de best runners. Nobody can keep up mit us ven ve tink of de dear ol Rhine, and my army never did tink so much of dot der old river. Let me know right away vot to do by return postoffice. Willie.

ELECT DEMOCRATS REQUESTS WILSON.

President Makes Appeal to American Voters.

Following is the President's appeal: "My fellow countrymen: The Congressional elections are at hand. They occur in the most critical period our country has ever faced or is likely to face in our time."

"If you have approved of my leadership and wish me to continue to be your unembarrassed spokesman in affairs at home and abroad, I earnestly beg that you will express yourself unmistakably to that effect by returning a Democratic majority to both the Senate and House of Representatives."

"I am your servant and will accept your judgment without cavil, but my power to administer the great trust assigned me by the constitution would be seriously impaired should your judgment be adverse, and I must frankly tell you so because so many critical issues depend upon your verdict."

Plain Truth Held Necessary.
"No scruples of taste must in grim times like these be allowed to stand in the way of speaking the plain truth."

"I have no thought of suggesting that any political party be paramount in matters of patriotism. I feel too deeply the sacrifices which have been made in this war by all our citizens, irrespective of party affiliations, to harbor such an idea."

"I mean only that the difficulties and delicacies of our present task are of a sort that makes it imperatively necessary that the Nation should give its undivided support to the Government under a unified leadership and that a Republican Congress would divide the leadership."

"The leaders of the minority in the present Congress have unquestionably been pro-war, but they have been anti-administration. At almost every turn since we entered this war they have sought to take the choice of policy and the conduct of the war out of my hands and put it under the control of instrumentalities of their own choosing."

Unity of Command Desired.
"This is no time either for divided council or for divided leadership. Unity of command is as necessary now in civil action as it is upon the field of battle. If the control of the House and Senate should be taken away from the party now in power an opposing majority could assume control of legislation and oblige all action to be taken amidst contest and obstruction."

"The return of the Republican majority to either house of the Congress would moreover be interpretive on the other side of the water as a repudiation of my leadership."

"Spokesmen of the Republican party are urging you to elect a Republican Congress in order to back up and support the President, but even if they should in this impose upon some credulous voters on this side of the water, they would impose on no one on the other side. It is well understood there as well as here that the Republican leaders desire not so much to support the President as to control him."

Allied Viewpoint Considered.
"The peoples of the allied countries with whom we are associated against Germany are quite familiar with the significance of elections. They would find it very difficult to believe that the voters of the United States had chosen to support their President by electing to the Congress a majority controlled by those who are not in fact in sympathy with the attitude and action of the administration."

"I need not tell you, my fellow-countrymen, that I am asking your support not for my own sake or for the sake of a political party, but for the sake of the nation itself in order that its inward unity of purpose may be evident to all the world."

"In ordinary times I would not feel at liberty to make such an appeal to you. In ordinary times divided counsels can be endured without permanent hurt to the country. But these are not ordinary times."

Support Appealed For.
"If in these critical days it is your wish to sustain me with undivided minds, I beg that you will say so in a way which it will not be possible to misunderstand either here at home or among our associates on the other side of the sea. I submit my difficulties and hopes to you."

HAYS FLAYS PRESIDENT

For Appealing to People to Return Democrats to Congress.

New York, Oct. 27.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, made public here tonight a statement in which he replied in behalf of his party to President Wilson's appeal to the nation to return a Democratic Congress. In his statement Mr. Hays said:

"President Wilson has questioned the motives and fidelity of your representatives in Congress. He has thereby impugned their loyalty and denied their patriotism. His challenge is to you who elected those representatives. You owe it to them, to the honor to your great party and to your own self respect to meet that challenge squarely, not only as Republicans, but as Americans. I, as your chairman, call upon you to do it."

Accusations Held Unjust.
"Mr. Wilson accords the Republicans no credit whatever for having supported the 'war measures' proposed by his administration, although they have done so with greater unanimity than the members of his own party. Despite that fact that he accuses them of having tried to usurp his proper functions."

"At no time in no way have they tried to take control of the war out of his hands. The President knows that. The country knows it. You know it. A more ungracious, more unjust, more wanton, more mendacious accusation was never made by the most reckless stump orator, much less by a President of the United States for partisan purposes. It is an insult, not only to every loyal Republican in Congress, but to every loyal Republican in the land. It fully merits the resentment which rightfully and surely will find expression at the polls."

Republicans are Pro-War.
"Mr. Wilson grudgingly admits that the Republicans have been 'pro-war'. Then why does he demand their defeat? Because they are still pro-war. Hardly that. No. It is because they are for peace though, not without, victory. Because they do not believe lasting peace can be obtained through negotiations; because they consider that 'U. S.' stands for unconditional Surrender as well as for the United States. The Democratic party does not. Mr. Wilson does not. There is the issue as clear as the noon-day sun. The country will decide."

Only Rubber Stamps Wanted.
"Mr. Wilson wants only rubber stamps, his rubber stamps, in Congress. He says so. No one knows it better than Democratic Congressmen. He calls for the defeat of pro-war Republicans and the election of anti-war Democrats. He, as the executive, is no longer satisfied to be one branch of the government, as provided by the constitution. Republican Congressmen must be defeated and Democratic Congressmen must, as they would, yield in everything. That is evidently the idea—the idea of an autocrat calling himself the servant, but bidding for the mastery of this great free people."

"Republicans in Congress have seemed to him good enough when they assented, as they did assent, with highest patriotism, and sometimes against their best judgment, to his proposals. Republicans at home have seemed to him good enough to send fully a million of their sons into battle, to furnish at least half of the money for the winning of the war, but they are not considered good enough to have a voice in the settlement of the war."

One-Man Rule Scented.
"But Mr. Wilson's real purpose has nothing to do with the conduct of the war. He has had that from the beginning, has it now, and nobody dreams of interfering with his control. He wants just two things: One is full power to settle the war precisely as he and his sole, unelected, unappointed, unconfirmed personal adviser may determine."

"The other is full power as the unembarrassed spokesman in affairs at home, as he actually demands in his statement, to reconstruct in peace times the great industrial affairs of the Nation in the same way, in unimpeded conformity with whatever unlimited government-ownership notions, whatever hazy whims may happen to possess him at the time, but first and above all, with absolute commitment to free trade with all the world, thus giving to Germany out of hand the fruits of victory greater than she could win by fighting a hundred years."

Voters to Decide Issue.
"A Republican Congress will never assent to that. Do you want a Congress that will? Germany does."
"Mr. Wilson forced the Republican party to lie down or fight. I say fight. Answer with your votes!"

"Mr. Wilson is for unconditional surrender—yes, for the unconditional surrender to himself of the Republican party of the country, of the allies—all to him, as the sole arbiter and master of the destinies of the world. Do you stand for that? Answer with your votes!"
