On Monday the city council passed an ordinance, adding influenza to the list of dangerous diseases, and gave the mayor power through this ordinance, on the recommendation of the city health officer, to declare quarantines and regulate other matters in connection with the work of eradicating disease.
The Spanish influenza situation in this county continues to be serious, with cases on the increase. It is such, that acting on the advice of the City and County health officials the school board decided to postpone opening the city schools indefinitely. This was a very wise action, as so many parents did not care to send their children to school under present conditions. The public cannot be too cautious at the present time, in its efforts to avoid this disease.
Because of the "Flu" the Fairview school board decided not to open school board decided not to open Clover, Netarts, Maple Leaf, Tillamook City schools, Hunt school and Bay City schools have remained closed. Some of the schools opening in other districts the attendance was only about one third to one half of the enrollment, the parents objecting to sending children to school under existing conditions.
The monthly meeting of the directors of the Tillamook Creamery Association was held on Monday at the office of the Sec., Carl Haperlach, at which fifteen of the directors were present. Routing matters were taken up. All expressed themselves as being satisfied with the present cheese outlook as far as prices and stocks on hand were concerned. Nothing has been done yet about advertising for another year. It was decided to ask for bids on boxes for another year.
The following delegates from Marathon Lodge K. of P. will leave Monday to attend Grand Lodge which will convene in Portland, Tuesday, Dec. 10. T. B. Handley, E. W. Stanley and H. T. Stafford. There will be a class of Tyros go out at the same time to join the Knights of Kharassan or "Dokies" the sunshine lodge of the Knights of Pythias, among them will be Geo. B. Foster, H. J. Hickerson, R. L. Shreve, Dr. E. W. Barnum, Dr. R. W. Donohoe, Albert K. Stanley, L. V. Everhardt and A. Basch. LETTERS FROM TILLAMOOK BOYS.
Letter From a Tillamook Boy in Siberia.
Waldo Doughty son of Mrs. L. E. Doughty, of Bay City writes the following interesting letter from Siberia:
Co. B. 31st Infantry, A. E. F. Siberia.
Dear Mother:—Well, it's Sunday again, a nice bright sunshiny day. I got your letter of Aug. 28th, yesterday. It sure seemed good to hear from home again after two months. I suppose it won't take the mail so long to reach me after you get my address. Mail day, which of course doesn't come very often, is sure a great event here.
I was sure surprised to hear that you hadn't killed your fat hog yet, as I thought we had him the other day for dinner, at least the pork that day tasted natural.
I did my week's washing and mending yesterday afternoon, I'm getting to be quite an expert at those two arts now, though it took me quite a while to learn.
The weather is still fine. It is almost the same kind of weather that you are having over there this time of year.
The country too looks much like home, plenty of hills, water and green grass. About the only difference is that there are no trees at all in this part of Siberia.
I suppose (though I have heard nothing about it) that the Fourth Liberty Loan drive is now over, and that it, like the three preceding loans was greatly oversubscribed. I took a hundred dollar bond, we were not compelled to do so, but I thought I could easily spare the money and that it would likely come in handy when I get back to the states. You see we get a twenty per cent raise in wages for overseas service. Also we haven't the opportunity or inclination to spend as much money as we did in the States. Then too a great many things are cheaper here than they are at home. For instance I can buy a whole pound of tobacco for two rubles, (twenty cents), about one tenth the price it is over there.
Our quarters are sure fine. We are in an old Russian barrack, the building, which is about sixty by three hundred feet, is built of brick. The walls are thirty inches thick, and there are eighteen stoves in the building. The stoves are about three feet in diameter by ten feet high. If we go into winter quarters here we will sure be comfortable alright.
There is an old church here that we use for a mess hall. There are four steeples on it, they are odd shaped. Probably you have seen pictures of steeples like them. The one at the front of the building has a plain cross but the three in a group at the back each have a triple cross, the lower cross bar of which is set almost a right angle with the other two. There is also a crescent at the bottom of the cross.
Well it's almost "chore" time so I had better bring this to a close.
Good-bye,
Waldo Doughty.
Tom Coats Writes From France.
October 28, 1918.
Dear Papa:—In again—the hospital, I mean. This time I am sick—or at least I was. Feel all right now, though. The trouble being here now is that the fellows back with the outfit are getting leaves and here I am where we get none.
The last trip to the lines was a bad one. We were driving the Germans, of course, and, as usual they had lots of machine guns and the advantage of wonderful defensive positions. But it takes something more than machine guns and positions to stop Americans, and that something is what the Germans have not got—better men.
For myself, I saw the last fight (trip to the lines, I mean) from a different angle than the others. I went over the top the first day, but the rest of the time I was a "runner" (one who carries messages) between regimental and battalion headquarters, and later between advanced and rear regimental headquarters.
From this position one knows what is going on in the whole sector his regiment holds, and more, rather than only what takes place just in front of him. He doesn't get to shoot or bayonet like those in the lines, but he does have to "run" barrages, and is often exposed to snipers and machine gun fire. It has its dangers and its times of comparative safety.
The worst trip I had was one in which I had a trip to make to a new advanced regimental P. C. (post of command) to which no runner had yet been. It had moved up during the night to the front line—and moved the front line ahead with it. Important message had to get there, and I was given the message, and two guides to a place almost a kilometer (as the crow flies) away, through the woods, from the place where I had to go—and shown the approximate position on the map. When we started it was so dark you couldn't even see the sky line, and here I had nothing but a compass to guide me through the thick underbrush, part of which had never been covered by our skirmish line, straight toward the German lines. Luckily it was light enough to see by the time I reached our line, but a trip like that is not an every day occurrence. I had plenty of use form my compass that time.

Just before I came here I got a letter from you containing a copy of the first I wrote from the last hospital. Glad you like some of my efforts, but I would call the best rather poor excuses as literary epistles from one who should be able to write.
I don't like to say much in letters, though I would like to tell you what I see. I fear I cheat you all—but to one who has been here it is so impossible to write anything which begins of be real, that to attempt anything only discourages. When we get home, and get the aid of questions, etc., we may do better, but for the present we sit and wait. A man here does not like to think about war enough to write much about it anyway.
I think it is about time for dinner, I hear the dishes rattling anyway, so will close. I will be able to write again before long though.—Tom.
France, Nov. 7, 1918.
Dear Papa—Now I am in a convalescent camp. It has an advantage over the hospital in that one can usually get more to eat, but of course it is not so comfortable.
I ran across Alfred Nolan here a couple of days ago. I was certainly surprised. I did not know where he was in France, in what outfit, or whether he was here or not.
He looks just as well and husky as ever, and takes things just the same. He has stopped more bullets than I, but they never hurt him much. He is O. K. anyway.
The war is looking pretty good just now—and believe me! we are fighting some battles around this camp. A million rumors a day start, and there are more battles here than the ordinary person could imagine the Americans in. Rumors are causing some wonderful cures too. The other day some one started it that Germany had surrendered. One of the fellows going about camp on crutches found himself to be all right at once, tucked the crutches under his arm, and started to walk after his shoes.
Well, when Germany 'comes through' with what we want, we fellows over here will be as glad as any I guess, for we are not naturally 'blood-thirsty' as we may seem to the Hun when we meet him on the field.
Some day I will be a millionaire, I guess; that is, if I get paid. I have been with the company just regularly enough to have missed a few pay days, so that now I have four months pay coming—and a fifth in sight. I am not 'broke' though, for it has been a long long time since I was where I could spend any money.
My pen is 'on the bum,' so that I can hardly write, but I will try again before long anyway.—Tom.
