Banker Frank A. Rowe and R. H. Cady, the Wheeler merchant and druggist, were in the city on Wednesday. Frank informs us that he is going to resurrect his white elephant the Wheeler Reporter, and that Mr. Nunn, of Manzanita, will run the newspaper. As the Reporter suspended it will not be a legal newspaper until 12 months expire.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haberlach returned from a trip to Portland on Tuesday, where Mr. Haberlach had gone on cheese business. Mr. Haberlach report the cheese market in good condition, but hardly expects an advance at this time. A number of stores have featured Tillamook cheese lately, selling same at 35c. This has done a great deal toward cleaning up the stocks and the market today is in good condition.

NORDLUND FOUND GUILTY.

Charged with Manslaughter in the Killing of Mrs. Lela Oberteuffer

The trial of August Selin Nordlund took place on Monday at the court house before Judge G. R. Bagley. He was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter in knocking down and killing Mrs. Lela Oberteuffer with his automobile on the evening of the 9th of December last, on the main road between this city and the depot.

It took the whole of the morning to select a jury and visit the scene of the accident, the following persons being selected on the jury: C. W. Dawson, E. R. Ayer, John Graf, H. S. Davidson, Claude M. Lane, Frank Hunter, J. Beebeiser, C. L. Alley, Jas. Goldsworthy, J. H. Rosenberg, T. A. Porter and H. A. Innaman.

District Attorney T. H. Goynes prosecuted the case and Attorney H. T. Botts represented the defendant.

The substance of the indictment is as follows:

August Selin Nordlund is accused by the grand jury of manslaughter as follows: The defendant on the 9th of December, 1918, did wilfully, unlawfully, feloniously, negligently and involuntarily kill Lela Oberteuffer while the defendant was driving an automobile along and on a public highway in the night time, without due caution or circumspection, the automobile striking Lela Oberteuffer in such a manner that she was thrown upon the pavement forcibly and violently that she was mortally injured and died within a few hours thereafter from the effect of the injuries.

That the negligence and failure of the defendant to then and there use due caution, circumspection while driving the auto consisted of the following acts and commissions. First. Defendant was not using any care, or watching, or paying any attention to see or ascertain where he was driving, or what was in front of him.

Second. The brakes of the auto was defective that it could not be properly controlled.

Third. The windshield of the auto was closed and in such condition on account of the water, dirt, mud and moisture thereon that the defendant was unable to see what was on the highway immediately in front of the auto, and notwithstanding his knowledge of these facts, he kept the windshield closed and did not attempt to open it or to put it in any better condition.

Fourth. The defendant was driving the auto at a speed of from 12 to 15 miles an hour, and knew that he was driving his auto at such speed, and notwithstanding that he knew that he was unable to see through the windshield he utterly failed and neglected to attempt to do so until after he had driven the auto into and against the body of Lela Oberteuffer, and by reason of said negligence, lack of care, caution and circumspection the defendant killed Lela Oberteuffer.

A large number of witnesses were called by the state, and these included Mrs. Bessie Lamar, Mrs. Nancy Wilson, W. J. Himes, Dr. R. T. Boals, John Clancy, R. N. Henkle, Kathleen Mills, James Campbell, Ethelyn Crawford, S. A. Brodhead, T. J. Harris, A. M. Austin, A. W. Plank, C. C. Jensen and C. V. Stoker, each of whom gave the jury a correct account of what happened at the time of the accident and immediately after.

The defense called M. D. Ackley, W. B. Alderman and Warren Foland and the defendant took the stand in his own behalf. He admitted that he could not see through the windshield, and did not see the deceased in the road, but claimed that he looked out on the side of the auto, and was not travelling more than 12 miles an hour.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, recommending the defendant to leniency.

The penalty in a case of this character is from one to fifteen years in the penitentiary and a fine of $5,000.00.

Wednesday afternoon the judge passed sentence upon the defendant, and imposed a sentence of 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. He was paroled on the penitentiary sentence on condition that he pay $600 and report quarterly.

GREAT SCENES IN "FEDORA"

Pauline Frederick at The Gem Theatre Sunday March 2.

The famous play of Victorien Sardou, the great French playwright, served as starring vehicles for such talented players as Sarah Bernhardt and the late Fanny Davenport for many years. The picturization of several of the more notable of these plays by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation with Pauline Frederick as the star, has attracted much attention everywhere, and chief among these in point of beauty and effectiveness is "Fedora," which will be shown at the Gem Theatre, Sunday March 2.

This is an unusually strong photoplay, and the story affords Miss Frederick one of the finest portrayals of her career in the silent drama. It is a story of Russian love and political intrigue, and, like most of Sardou's creations, the theme is intensely tragic. The story concerns a Russian princess whose fiancée, Count Vladimir Androvitch, is slain by Boris Ipanoff, a jealous husband, and she pursues the supposed murderer to Paris, where she obtains a confession from him, or rather a complete justification. She finds herself in love with Ipanoff, whom she had sworn to bring to justice, only after she had placed the police on his track, and after she had caused the arrest of his brother in Russia as an accomplice.

She weds Ipanoff, but later he learns of the part she had taken in the tragedy of his life, and when his brother is drowned in his dungeon and his mother dies from the shock, he attempts to strangle his wife. She eludes him and swallowing poison dies at his feet.
