

THE MANSLAUGHTER CASE

Judge Bagley's Remarks When Passing Sentence.

Judge Bagley, when passing sentence upon A. S. Nordlund, who was found guilty charged with manslaughter in knocking down and killing Mrs. Lela Oberteuffer, said:

You have been convicted by a jury of your peers of the crime of manslaughter—under ordinary circumstances a serious crime and a grave consequence—but the crime of which you stand convicted in this instance is one, however, not of the heart or of the mind, for you were not actuated by any evil intent or wrongful purpose or base design to injure another, but is a conviction of criminal carelessness and recklessness in the doing of an act lawful in itself, conduct that is too often the rule in relation to the use of agencies that are liable to produce harm and injury to others in the absence of want of care and circumspection. The Court has no intention of lecturing you upon your conduct and its consequences, except to say, that if the snuffing out of a human life and the consequent proceedings through which you have passed does not prove a valuable and lasting lesson by which you should profit in the future, anything the Court might say would be unavailing for the purpose of demonstrating the lesson that should be learned from the example caused by your careless conduct. Acts of carelessness and negligence involving the safety of human kind are too frequent, and your present situation should be a warning and object lesson to deter others from a too little regard for the life and limb of others. You have had my sympathy both as a court and as a man, throughout the proceedings, because I realize the absence of criminal intent and purpose places your conviction upon a different footing from the ordinary crime involving intent, purpose, design or malice, and that sympathy augurs well for your immediate future. The near past, however, should never be forgotten by you. You should always bear it in mind whenever you have under your control any agency that has a tendency to be harmful in connection with carelessness or reckless conduct. The Court, however, will give you an opportunity to live down, by upright conduct, the record of your conviction. It is the judgment of the court that you be imprisoned in the Penitentiary of the State of Oregon, at Salem, Oregon, for an indeterminate period of time of not less than one year nor more than ten years, and that you pay a fine of two thousand dollars, and in default of the payment of this fine, that you be confined in the county jail of Tillamook county one day for each two dollars of the fine remaining unpaid. The Court will not at this time deprive you of your liberty but will give you an opportunity to reinstate yourself in the estimation of your fellow citizens, and you will, therefore, be paroled upon the penitentiary sentence and fourteen hundred dollars of the fine upon payment to the Clerk of this court of the sum of six hundred dollars, and upon the further condition that you live in the future an upright and law-abiding life, and that you report to the State Patrol Board at Salem, Oregon, and to the judge of this Judicial District in writing until you are relieved therefrom by order of the Court, quarterly on January 1st, April 1st, July 1st and October 1st, your place of residence, postoffice address and occupation and the name of your employer. And you will understand that if you shall at any time violate the terms of this parole, or shall be guilty of violating any of the laws of the United States or of this state, or of any municipality therein, your parole will be revoked and you will be required to suffer incarceration for the period of the time required by the sentence just imposed upon you. Your future welfare and redemption from the stigma of the record of your conviction rests with yourself. Do you accept the terms of the parole?

A—Yes.
Upon payment to the Clerk of this court of the sum of six hundred dollars you will be discharged subject to the terms imposed and by you accepted, and your bondmen will be exonerated from liability.

CHEESEMAKERS HAVE BANQUET

In any way in such condition that it will not make a first class cheese without a loss of yield as well as quality.

And we do further pledge ourselves to co-operate with the Tillamook County Creamery Association in all matters reasonably pertaining to our position, working conditions and product and in all ways to uphold the high standard of Tillamook County's Famous Cheese.

This concluded the program, when Toastmaster Jones called upon several others who made short talks.

Announcing Three Informal Events
For Saturday, March 8th.
Spring Millinery Opening
Displaying New Spring Fabrics
Showing Ladies' New Spring Apparel

You are cordially invited to attend these three Informal Events on Saturday, March 8th and view for the first time our extensive assemblage of the New in Spring Fabrics, Spring Millinery, Spring Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts, Petticoats and Footwear.

To say that our showings this year were chosen with exceptional care is putting it very mildly indeed. Never in the store's history have we spent so much time and effort in securing only the most fashionable and authoritative styles and weaves for the coming Season's wear.

Millinery.

The Millinery Dept. will make its opening bow on Saturday, March 8th. This popular Dept. of the store will again be under the management of Miss Rundlett, who will be remembered for her clever Millinery Creations in this store during the Fall of 1918. Miss Rundlett has been spending considerable time in choosing and designing models for the coming season and we predict the most charming selection of Chapeaux for this Spring you have ever been invited to inspect.

We are confident of your approval of our selections and we would urge you to come to the store on Saturday and the following days and view at your leisure the complete showings prepared specially for your discriminating selection.

Any alterations required on garments sold in our Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Department will be made by Mrs. Katherine Puffer who has just recently taken over the Dressmaking Department on the Balcony which includes Hemstitching on all fabrics.

Ready-to-Wear.

"Chic," "Charming," "Smart," "Exquisite" are the exclamations we expect to hear when our new spring Models in Wearing Apparel are presented for the first time on Saturday, March 8th. And they are without a doubt the prettiest and most pleasing styles ever presented for milady's choosing. Miss Smock just recently of Olds, Wortman & King's and previously for six years manager and buyer in a prominent Cloak and Suit House in Medford will be in charge of the Dept.

Spring Fabrics

Again have we found La Porte Fabrics the prettiest, most practical and most desirable for this season's wear. We urge you to come to the store to view the lovely shades in new Chiffon Taffetas, Shanghai Silks, Novelty Silks and Novelty Voiles as well as a wide assortment of Wash Fabrics of all kinds.

And for Trimming purposes we exhibit an excellent selection of Fringes, Military Braids, Soutache Braids and "Zion" Laces.
