Farnum in "True Blue" at the Gem Theatre, Friday March 21.

This is a William Fox Production and is said to be fully the equal of "Les Misrables," "A Tale of Two Cities" and "When a Man Sees Red." In "True Blue" Mr. Farnum portrays the part of a western ranch owner—a human, manly man. The story is out of the ordinary and deals with a phase of life new to the cinema.

An English remittance man, suddenly becoming possessed of title and estates, deserts his American wife and young son, to return to England to reclaim his inheritance. He does not take them with him for the reason that he believes he married "beneath his station." This young son grows up on a ranch in the boundless west and becomes the central figure in this drama of life. The character is played by William Farnum. Over in England the titled father, on learning of the death of his American wife, has married again and has another son—a dissipated, profligate young man.

Through a strange series of incidents the half brothers are brought together on the western ranch—one with deep resentment in his heart; the other weak and unconscious of the relationship. William Farnum as the strong brother begins the reformation and regenerative of his weak relative and this accomplished, sends him back to his people in England—a man.

Running through the entire production is one of the sweetest love stories ever produced—a story that brings the half brothers into apparent rivalry for the hand of a charming young woman.
To be shown at the Gem Theatre one night only, Friday March 21.

A Romance of the War.

"The story came to me," says Charlotte H. Crawford, of Washington, D. C., in the Red Cross Bulletin.

"from a Red Cross searcher, who got it from one of the glorious 'fifty thousand'—a young American Lafayette, who volunteered back in 1914. The boy had gone through the first gas attack at Ypres and was one of the few who came alive from that murderous yellow cloud. I give the memory as it was repeated to me:

"I have seen the Ypres when you could cross it dry skod on bodies. I have seen such deeds of heroism in action as make any story of old-time prowess seem tame. But there's one thing that I saw, not action, that chokes me up every time I think of it.

"There were two British lads in the regiment next to us, two brothers. They were both fine fellows, but the oldest one was just about the finest chap I ever knew. They had both loved the same girl back home, it seems, and there had been a pretty hot rivalry between them. Well, just before they were sent out, she decided one took it standing like a man, of course. But anyone could tell he was desperately hard hit. We always knew from the way he fought when his brother had had a letter.

"They both got hit in the same action. There was a system then (and maybe now, for all I know) of tagging the men for Blighty with blue tag, let's say (I think it was blue, but it doesn't matter.) Of course, only the most serious cases were sent across the channel, only the men who were thought too bad to pull through without the very best of care. It was the older brother who got to Blighty. His brother who lay next him at the casualty clearing station was tagged to go to some hospital in France. During the night, while his brother slept, the older one changed the tags. The younger one went home and married the girl during his convalescence. The older one died before they could rectify the mistake."

Where Most Sickness Begins and Ends

BY FRANKLIN DUANE, M. D.

It can be said broadly that most human ills begin in the stomach and end in the stomach. Good digestion means good health, and poor digestion means bad health. The minute your stomach fails to properly dispose of the food you eat, troubles begin to crop out in various forms. Indigestion and dyspepsia are the commonest forms, but thin, impure blood, headaches, backaches, pimples, blotches, dizziness, belching, coated tongue, weakness, poor appetite, sleeplessness, coughs, colds and bronchitis are almost as common. There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to take, for it is made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this standard medicine, and it is good to know that so distinguished a physician is proud to have his name identified with it. When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines. If piles are torturing you, get and use Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment. The quick relief it gives is hard to believe until you try it. If constipated, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken while using Anodyne Pile Ointment. Few indeed are the cases which these splendid remedies will not relieve and usually overcome. They are so good that nearly every drug store has them for sale.

To the Dairymen of Tillamook.

This is of vital interest to you.
You lose cows at calving time.
You lose mares at foaling time.
You lose horses from colic, distemper, broken legs, and a hundred different causes.
The average age of your stock is but seven years, according to statistics.
Our average rate is about seven per cent.

Therefore, you can carry death-from-any-cause insurance about fifteen years before you would pay in premiums as much as you would draw out.
Will your animals be alive in fifteen years?
With seven years the average, the charges are against you.
If you lose, and borrow the money to replace a dead animal, you pay nearly this rate of interest, and then have to pay the principal also, but if you are insured we give you the money with which to buy another.
