

Correctly refined

Zerolene is correctly refined from selected California crude oil. It is the product of the combined resources, experience and equipment of the Standard Oil Company.

By exhaustive study and actual tests the Standard Oil Company Board of Lubrication Engineers has determined the correct consistency of Zerolene for your make of automobile. Their recommendations are available for you in the Zerolene Correct Lubrication Charts. There is a separate chart for each make of car. Get one for your car. At your dealer's or our nearest station.

Profit and Loss in Peacemaking.

It is now possible to compute with substantial accuracy the profit and loss of the diplomacy in which the president has been unjustifiably engaged for the last six months. The balance sheet runs substantially as follows:

Great Britain Wins:
Guaranteed and undiminished control of the seas;
Virtual control of the League of Nations, with six votes to the one of the United States or any other power;

The major part of the former German colonies;
Confirmed possession of Egypt;
Greatly increased influence in the East;
Reparation for injuries and losses to civilians.

France wins:
Alsace Lorraine;
A barrier all along the Rhine against another German attack;
Reparation for injuries and losses to civilians.

Belgium Wins:
Additional territory;
Restored independence;
Reparation for her injuries and losses in the war.

Italy wins:
Restoration of Italia Irredenta;
Security for her Alpine frontier;
Control of the Adriatic Sea;
Reparation for injuries and losses in the war.

Japan wins:
Former German islands in the Pacific;
Control of China;
Increased influence in Asiatic Russia.

Woodrow Wilson wins:
A place in history as the founder of the League of Nations which threatens his country with undoing.

The United States loses:
Her independence and sovereignty;
The Friendship of Italy, Japan and China;

The power of self defense;
Self-determination of the size of her army and navy.
The right to make treaties at will;
The right to mind her own business.

Who Represents the United States?

(By Jonathan Bourne, Jr.)

One of the outstanding features of the treaty of peace is the immense accretions of territory that the British Empire is to receive under its terms. Few people realize the tremendous extent of the dominions of the English Crown. With the British Isles as a nucleus, comprising an area of about 120,000 square miles, the English government started on a policy of expansion about the middle of the eighteenth century. For over a hundred and fifty years that policy has been steadily pursued until, at the beginning of the war, the Empire included the enormous area of 13,153,712 square miles. Exclusive of the polar regions, this represents almost one quarter of the total land area of the world. A glance at the figures will show how completely the British Empire overshadows all other large holdings of territory. At the beginning of the war they stood as follows:

|----------------------|------------|
| British Empire | 13,153,712 |
| Russian Empire | 8,647,657 |
| France | 4,983,086 |
| United States | 3,743,602 |
| Brazil | 3,292,000 |
| German Empire | 1,236,600 |
| Of the German Empire | 1,028,620 |

square miles of territory was represented by colonies that have been lost as the result of the war. Paris dispatches tell us that Lloyd George, Clemenceau, and Wilson have put their heads together and decided to fate those colonies. According to their decree mandatories have been granted as follows:

|--|---------|
| To England, German east Africa | 384,180 |
| To Union of So Africa, German Southwest Africa | 322,450 |
| To New Zealand, German Samoa | 1,000 |
| To Australia, German islands south of Equator | 95,450 |

|--|---------|
| Total to British Empire | 803,080 |
| Disposition to be recommended by England and France: | |
| Togoland | 33,700 |
| Kameruns | 191,130 |

|---|---------|
| Total yet to be disposed of | 224,830 |
| To Japan, German islands north of Equator | 710 |
| To Japan, Shantung | 10,000 |

Under the above arrangement, in which the American President has co-operated, the British Empire is to be given the directing influence at once over 803,080 square miles of territory, and, in all probability, will also get a large slice if not all of the 224,830 square miles that remain to be distributed by England and France. It is safe to say that 1,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface will be added to the already tremendously swollen holdings of the British Empire. It is true that the English influence is to go under the name of "mandatory", but everybody knows that a mandatory will be but the stepping stone to complete control in the not distant future.

The cost of the war to England has been great, but with this enormous addition to her domain, together with the share of the German cash indemnity that she will receive, and the destruction of the naval merchant marine and trade interests of her chief European rival, the Empire will not only be compensated for her war expenditures, but will show in valuable possessions, a substantial balance on the credit side of the ledger.

Laughter of the Gods.

(By Wm. H. Whitlock, in the New York Sun.)

Says Lloyd George to Clemenceau: "This is the biggest joke I know. He thought that he could run this show. He thinks he ran it too, by Joe! Well, let him think, we've got the dough— His vanity was flattered so! Ha! ha! ha! heigh! heigh! ho! ho!"

Says Lloyd George to Clemenceau. Says Clemenceau to Tokio: "My laughter seems to grow and grow. Until my tears begin to flow; I call this treaty really beau. The Fourteen points have come to woe.

He doesn't yet suspect it, though— Ha! ha! ha! heigh! heigh! ho! ho!"

Says Clemenceau to Tokio: Says Tokio to Sinnino: "With satisfaction I'm aglow, My gains stand neatly in a row. And of them I shall ne'er let go: We gained Our Points by lying low. We put one over on him, Bo— Ha! ha! ha! heigh! heigh! ho! ho!"

Says Tokio to Sinnino. Says Sinnino to Georgio: "The time has come for me to crow, I've got Fiume now in tow, And doubtless too, the Trentino, So I can say Adaggio! Which means in English, let's go slow! Ha! ha! ha! heigh! heigh! ho! ho! Says Sinnino to Georgio.

"U. S." Means Real Protection

Out in the open, where seas sweep the deck or wharf, where the gale flings broad the icy waters, fishermen who know values wear U. S. "Protected" rubber boots. These boots will keep your feet and legs dry and warm.

Comfort, economy, durability—these are the qualities that make "U. S." the best boots for you.

U. S. "Protected" rubber boots stand the hardest tests of service. They are built for double-duty, reinforced where the wear is greatest. The Government probably used more U. S. "Protected" rubber boots during the war, than of all the other makes combined.

Every pair of "U. S." bears the "U. S. Seal"—trade mark of the largest rubber manufacturer in the world. Look for this seal when buying rubber boots. It means real protection for your feet and pocketbook.

There's a kind of "U. S." specially suited to your needs. Your dealer has it or can get it quickly.
