The United States has a delegation of 10,000 at the Paris peace conference. Mr. Wilson is one and the other four are ciphers.

The fifteenth point is that the Fourteen points, like the "he kept us out of war slogan" were intended as a platform rather than as a program.

President Wilson says we are now about to venture on uncharted seas. It would be a good time, then, to begin sailing by the compass rather than the weather-vane.

President Wilson, a Paris cablegram announces, has prevented the contemplated publication of the full text of the peace treaty terms. "Open covenants openly arrived at."

President Wilson told a Paris audience that he "utters the thoughts of the American people". In evidence we offer Mr. Wilson's 1918 campaign letter as exhibit A.

A Democratic exchange says Mr. Burleson is the weakest man in President Wilson's cabinet, but, really, there couldn't be any weaker man in that cabinet.

The Koreans and Chinese now understand that the way to spell one of the fourteen points is "freedom of the seas." and Japan is about to get a piece without victory.

Samuel Gompers has telegraphed to Mexico his protest against certain legislation now proposed by his old friend Gen. Carranza. Arn't we the busy little international butters-in these days?

There are those who have the suspicion that running this country is about as big a job as the American people want to tackle, and a bigger job than the present national administration knows how to handle.

Government ownership of railroads in the United Kingdom has resulted in increased rates, poorer service and an annual deficit of a half billion dollars. Socialism works the same way in all languages.

Senator Lewis says he was surprised by the sentiment adverse to the British-Wilson covenant in the west. Senator Lewis is like a good many other people,—he mistook propaganda for sentiment.

The reason Mr. Burleson hasn't been able to get by with his administration of postal, telegraph and telephone affairs is that, unlike some other people, his flow of language isn't free enough to make black look whiter than white.

Attorney General Palmer says that the Democratic party deserves credit for winning the war. The soldiers who did the fighting stand corrected. The war was won, not by the warriors at the front, but by the politicians three thousand miles in the rear.

Women voted in Michigan at the recent state election. As compared with 1916 the Democratic vote fell from 283,993 to 221,831 and the Republican vote rose from 337,962 to 506,342. Evidently the women of the country have not forgotten that "he kept us out of war" slogan.

The Townley outfit turned against the Versailles treaty when they discovered the size of the indemnity Germany was going to have to pay, and not while it was only known that the United States was going to have to trade its own rights and interests for the nothing we went to Paris to get.

The people would like to see the Senate begin at the beginning by making inquiry as to the authority under which President Wilson proceeded in undertaking to form a world constitution without this country having either assented to such a constitution or delegated him to write it.

In a recent week the Washington departments let out 1,084 employes and added 1,590 new ones. The progress of demobilization of the job holders under a Democratic administration is like that of the famous frog who got out of the well by making one jump up and slipping two back.

Henry Morgenthau couples commendation of the league of nations with the statement that there are going to be more European wars and we must get ready for them. In other words the league of nations will not stop war, but will make it certain that when there is one we will be in it.

Secretary of the treasury Carter Glass, in a public statement, refers to "the spirit of exaggerated importance and insufferable personal vanity" which he says characterized the retiring head of the War Risk Bureau. These are characteristics which under the present national administration, it is all right for a subordinate to admire, but not to imitate.

Oswald Garrison Villard, of the Nation, has decided that President Wilson is "an arrogant autocrat and a compromising politician." What, then, shall be said of the editor of the Nation, who has been whooping it up for Wilson for six years and never found this out about him until the terms of the treaty with Germany were made public.

The institutions and instrumentalities, supposedly non-political, in this country which are being utilized at this time for administration propaganda are going to do themselves more harm than they will do the administration good. There is such a thing as pushing propaganda to the point where the people revolt against it. Witness last November election results.

The Social Democratic League of America, composed of the administration Socialists headed by Charles Edw. Russell, Wm. F. Walling, J. G. Phelps Stokes and Frank Bohn, has issued a statement commending the pending covenant for a league of nations as "good socialist policy". At any rate there are some people in the country that are not being fooled.

Vice President Marshall during the campaign of 1916 had a very pathetic speech in which he showed how many widows and orphans we would have if we didn't have Mr. Wilson to keep us out of war. Now he wants to send an army to conquer Russia. Give some of these mild mannered fellows a taste of blood and they get worse than Jack the Giant Killer's ogre.

The Springfield Republican, an administration organ, thinks that the overwhelming Republican victories in St. Louis, Chicago and Baltimore give evidence of the existence of a proletariat in our great cities. If the misnamed Republican will take another good look it may be able to see the funnel shaped cloud that indicates the approach of the Republican cyclone.

The world is afflicted at present with too many people uttering grandiloquent phrases about the big programs, and too few people devoting themselves to the little details of in-ching the world along toward a better day as the job will finally have to be done. In other words, we are long on architects and blue prints and short on carpenters and bricklayers.

The Merlin Tagliche Rundschau lets the cat out of the bag in bewailing the unexpected attitude of President Wilson toward Germany at the peace conference. It says: "This man was reelected president, thanks to the German Americans, with the connivance of our foreign office." Evidently the Germans, too, took that "he keeps us out of war" stuff seriously.

Happily, says President Wilson, there is no secrecy or privacy about the proposed alliance with France and England to defend France against Germany without reciprocal agreement to defend us against anybody. Happily the Constitution of the United States makes secrecy or privacy in the making of treaties impossible because of the necessity of securing ratification by the senate.

"The workers demand", says the "Rev." Irwin St. John Tucker, "that our country be restored to us." Like a good many of the loose tongued persons who talk this way, the Rev. Tucker never worked. Moreover the people who work in this country constitute an immense majority of the population, and do not need to have the country "restored" to them, because they have the means of controlling it under our form of government.

At the instigation of general officials some of the organizations of railway men are sending petitions to Congress urging government ownership of railroads, "all earnings beyond a fixed percentage of dividend to be divided equally between the employes and the government." Judging by the results up to date the division of the losses of the railways at freight and passenger rates prevailing before they were McAdoo-ed would deprive the railroad employes of all their pay.

The effort to launch a distinct black man's party, now being undertaken by administration politicians as a means of diverting some of the Republican vote and putting the haters and the baiters of the negro in power, is a scheme well calculated to still further segregate the negro and make him the target of race persecution. However, the motive inspiring those who are fostering this movement is not to help the black man, but to save the public jobs for Democracy.

Former secretary of state William J. Bryan, in an address before the Presbyterian General Assembly assured his audience that the league of nations would keep us out of war. Four years ago Mr. Bryan was going about the country declaring that if this country failed to engage in preparedness that would keep us out of war. Yet the lack of preparedness not only did not keep us out of war, but it cost us billions of dollars and thousands of lives. Still Mr. Bryan continues to get the applause of the sentimentalists, who are ready for anything from sixteen-to-one to the Versailles covenant that is advocated on the ground that it is going to bring on the millenium.

Change of Location.

The building owned by F. R. Beals, located on the corner of 2nd Ave. & 4th St., occupied by the Tillamook Tire Co. and Mrs. E. F. Rogers' Millinery Store, is being moved this week to the corner of 3rd Ave. and 3rd St., across the corner from the Tillamook Hotel. The old building will undergo a thorough repairing and painting, and the same business lines will be carried on, only in a more extensive way.

The same plan of square dealing and abiding by the Golden Rule will go forward that has built up these businesses to its present magnitude, and, in fact, only time will tell of the development of these businesses in Tillamook. We certainly appreciate our patrons and will try to do all within our power to satisfy them. We will be glad to meet all of our customers in our new location and many new ones. We are here to stay, and will save you money in your purchases. Both phones will be installed again as soon as possible.

Gosh! How my back aches!
 After influenza or colds the kidneys and bladder are often affected—called "nephritis," or inflammation of the kidneys. This is the red-flag of danger—better be wise and check the further inroads of kidney disease by obtaining that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Pierce's known as "Anurie" (anti-uric), because "Anurie" expels the uric acid poison from the body and cures those pains, such as backache, rheumatism in muscles and joints.

Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists; or under the eyes in bag-like formations.

Dr. Pierce's Anurie is many times more potent than lithia and often eliminates uric acid as hot tea melts sugar.

Madera, Cal.—"I recommend Dr. Pierce's Anurie very highly. I have suffered for the last three years with catarrh of the bladder, having tried every remedy I heard of but without relief. I saw 'Anurie' advertised in the paper and like a drowning man grabbing at a straw I thought I would try it also, which I did with great success, as it relieved me almost immediately before I had taken all of the trial package, and having great confidence in the remedy I immediately sent to the drug store and bought a package. I can say to all suffering from any disease of the kidneys or uric acid troubles, try this remedy and suffer no longer. I have great faith in Dr. Pierce's remedies."—S. P. Henley.
