Editorial Snap Shots.

It is to be hoped that there is no more "bootleg" hanging around that put one of our docile citizens on a rampage, for the stuff must have contained some high explosives by the way he performed and destroyed things.

Who said that prices are going up? The barbers are charging 75c. for a shave and hair cut. When the snap shot man first came to the state the first hair cut and shave cost him $1.00. Everybodys doing it, however—raising prices.

The young men who stole the section boss' hand car on the railroad committed a most serious offense, for their thoughtlessness might have caused a train wreck and the loss of many lives. They succeeded in getting off with a light fine, and it is hoped it will be a good lesson to them not to repeat their foolish acts.

The Roosevelt Highway committee at Washington put up a wonderfully good argument in favor of the Hawley bill for $2,500,000 for the Roosevelt Highway. And it is reported that it greatly impressed the road committee, so much so that it won the endorsement of some members of the committee who were opposed to the appropriation.

It was hardly fair for the Sheridan correspondent of the Oregonian to give Tillamook roads a black eye and scare people from coming here because contractors have parts of the road into this county torn up. That is the same trick that was used years ago when people living at Sheridan discouraged people from coming to Tillamook.

That was a hard crack Commissioner Benson threw at the cement trust when he said: "We believe the cement combine is robbing the state out of money, and we think the cement men are thieves." Well, if that's so, why don't the federal authorities round them up and put them where they belong? It was the cement combine that backed most of the propoganda against patent pavement companies.

Why does Governor Olcott hang on to two jobs? We thought when he was holding down the office of secretary of state and was a candidate for Governor he showed a greedy disposition. And this greedy disposition is again manifest in holding down both those offices at the present time. Had anyone else assumed the office of governor, they would have relinquished the secretaryship, but not Olcott, however, for he greedily hangs on to both positions, which should not be forgotten by the voters when the gentleman runs for office again.

There appears to be a well founded rumor that as soon as the government relinquishes control of the railroads, the Hills system will push their road into Tillamook county at the first opportunity over the Wilson river route. As Government control of the railroads has plunged the United States into debt to the tune of $10 billion dollars, or a per cent of $100.00 for every family in the country, the sooner the government turns the railroads back will be a blessing. If the government hangs on to them it will require another loan drive to make up the enormous deficit.

The spruce production of the north west is to be investigated for there are reliable reports that the government has been bucconed out of large sums of money. Our impression is that the government is to be blamed, for instead of obtaining the services of the mill and logging companies of the northwest, a lot of politicians obtained soft jobs and officers were placed in charge of rived spruce camps who did not know the difference between a hemlock and spruce tree. What was a most foolish thing was sending western men, who were used to logging and milling to the front, and sending barbers clerks etc. from the East to the West and placing them in logging camps. It is a well known fact that rived spruce camps were an exceedingly expensive undertaking and millions of feet of good timber have been left in the woods which is now a fire trap, not only endangering the lives of many persons, but should a fire once get started in these abandoned rived spruce camps it is going to do millions of dollars worth of damage in this county. It is to be hoped that this investigation will not turn out like the Hughes' investigation when President Wilson quashed the proceedings against the guilty persons.

We have always been suspicious own that the highway the north part of the county was by way of the beach, for the reason. The State Highway Commission takes in the situation from a state point of view, while we in Tillamook consider it from a local point of view. There is another consideration, and that is the relative cost of both routes, which will evidently determine the vexed question when it comes up before the Commission to decide. Unfortunately for the beach route the property owners failed to provide a road when the property was platted. The new survey along the beach parallels the railroad on the east side and goes through lots that have been sold to different parties, and what it will cost to obtain a right of way is not known. The State Highway Commission instructed the engineer's department to give an estimate of cost of both routes, and when that is available we believe it will surprise most of us Tillamookers by the great difference in the cost and saving of five miles or more in distance. It is true that the 1917 law designated that the highway should go by way of Wheeler and the beach, and this, no doubt, will be made a strong point of by those who favor the beach route, but the expensive piece of road work between Rockaway and Brighton, which is all new work, will handicap the beach route. It will be unfortunate for the county if the beach route is not selected, for 90 per cent of the auto travel into the county is for the purpose of getting to the different beaches. If some mutual agreement could be made between the county court and the commission on a 50-50 proposition to build and hardsurface the road from Garibaldi to the county line we are inclined to think that this would be the best for the county as well as the state, but until such time as the estimate of both routes are available it is hard for the commission to decide. We hope the commission will soon decide the question and whatever it is we must all abide by the decision in the best of humor.

When the Tillamook County Creamery Association decided to expend a large amount of money for advertising purposes, it was only natural to suppose that people with all kinds of advertising schemes would become greatly interested in the association and the dairymen of Tillamook county, with the idea of getting them to subscribe for this, that and the other thing. The association has reached that stage right now, for every once in a while some promoter appears on the scene with a scheme to finance something outside of Tillamook county. If something is not done, the association will be pestered to death with promoters and advertising sharks, who are usually good talkers, and for that reason the association should formulate some kind of policy to protect the dairymen from these schemers and promoters. A large amount of money has been sent out of the county to help promote institutions in other places, and we are going to raise our voice in protest, for the reason that the money would do more good at home building up fair grounds and a stock pavilion in Tillamook County. Just take a look at the present fair grounds and see what a deplorable looking place it is. Our advice is to stop subscribing for institutions in other counties until such time as Tillamook county has an attractive fair grounds and live stock pavilion. Something like $3000 was raised for the Oregon Dairy Council, the State Chamber of Commerce wanted $1005.00 and Tillamook's quota for the Pacific International Livestock Exposition was $2,500.00. In a few weeks some other fellow will appear on the scene who will want to pull the dairymen's teats for a few thousand more, and this thing is going to continue until the association takes the bull by the horns and jabs the "lid" down tight on promoters and advertising schemers. Probably our ideas may not coincide with some of our citizens, but after they have had their eye teeth cut they will come to our way of thinking in a few years, which is first, last and all the time for the upbuilding of Tillamook county. Not some other county. The snap shot man has always contended that it is not necessary to go outside the county for brains to advertise the county or the dairy industry. There is plenty of it right at home.

Cloverdale's Blatherskite.

If the Cloverdale rattle brained preacher thinks he is helping the road situation in the south part of the county by continually keeping up a snarl he is badly mistaken. Those who pull together are the best friends of good roads in Tillamook county.

That Cloverdale cracked brained preacher is talking a good deal about the devil. No doubt his santanic jealousy is highly delighted when he sees ordained ministers of the gospel make such a big jackass of themselves writing foolish twaddle. If this is the 20th century Christianity, then the recording angel has his hands full recording what Bro. Blatherskite will be called to give an account of when the great white book is opened.

Of course no one could expect anything else from the Cloverdale blatherskite when he started to "knock" the Bayocean road, making the untruthful statement that it was being built for rich Portland people. For what purpose and for whose benefit was the road to Pacific City built? Maybe it was built for some rich Tillamook people and for the people who come there from the Willamette Valley to enjoy their summer outings. But no one here is "knocking". As the Cape Mears light house is now without a road to haul in supplies, the bridge at short beach having been condemned, it surely is a most unchristian act of an ordained minister of the gospel to oppose the building of a road that will be a direct benefit to the lighthouse service and the mariner who is outside being buffeted about near dangerous rocks and treacherous shore.

No one could expect anything different from the Cloverdale rattle brained preacher when he said: "The Roosevelt Highway seems to be doomed." That appeared to be the impression of a good many persons when the measure was placed on the ballot, but it was a lot of Tillamook boosters who helped make it the most popular measure on the ballot and it carried by the largest majority of any measure. The committee that appeared before the road committee made a good showing and used good arguments, and it is our impression that Oregon is going to get the $2,500,000.

Wonder whether the Cloverdale sky pilot gets down on his marrow bones and prays that heaven bless the punk sermons he has been preaching to the snap shot man? It wouldn't be a bad idea, however, if these punk sermons were read at the next Baptist conference just to show what a feather-brained individual the Cloverdale divine is proving himself to be.

Jersey Breeders Take Notice

On account of sickness in the Better family the next meeting will be held at the farm of Wm. Maxwell, Thursday, July 31st. Every member must try and be present and others that are interested in the Jersey breed, as there are important matters to come before the meeting.

Notably Fine Picture.

There have been few pictures presented in this city this season which have more attractive qualities than "Women's Weapons," Ethel Clayton's new Paramount photoplay which is the main feature of an attractive bill at the Gem Theatre, Wednesday, July 23rd. The role portrayed by Miss Clayton is an unusual one and affords her numerous opportunities for the display of her exquisite artistry. The picture is one that once seen is not soon forgotten. Miss Clayton's support is excellent in every respect.

"Fuss and Feathers" at the Gem

The romance of the mining camps still exert a powerful sway over the hearts and minds of old and young alike. There is something alluring about the search for wealth hidden from the view of men, but which when found, often proves the moral and physical ruin of the finder. This was not the case however, with Susie Baldwin, an uncouth girl of Starvo-camp, after her father had struck it fabulously rich. What happened to Susie is told in thrilling style in "Fuss and Feathers" which will be shown at the Gem Theatre next Monday, July 21. She went to San Francisco with her father to sell their mine to the president of a mining corporation and the doors of romance are opened wide to her. How she was snubbed by the wife of a wealthy mining man and how she resented this treatment, ultimately to find love, happiness and contentment, is told in series of unusually interesting scenes.

First Annual High School Alumni Banquet.

One of the largest parties held this season was that of the High School Alumni association at the Tillamook Hotel Friday night. About fifty people were in attendance and enjoyed the charming affair. A delicious five course dinner was served, after which the evening was spent in making toasts, and pleasant conversation. Before the banquet began a short business meeting was held at which the following officers were elected for the coming year: Mr. Cloyd Dawson, president; Mrs. Mable Dawson, Mr. Client King and Mr. John Ashim vice-presidents, and Miss Nell Gaylord, secretary-treasurer. During the banquet, Reed Bain acted as toast master, and Professor O. V. White and wife were patrons, and patronesses for the occasion. One member of each of the graduating classes was supposed to give a toast, but some of the classes had no members present.

Those who made toasts and the classes they represented are as follows: John Ashim, 1908; Cloyd Dawson, 1910; Floyd Eberman, 1912; Blanche Lucas, 1913; Verle Stanley, 1914; Tom Coates, 1915; and Bernice Nelson, 1918.

The tables were beautifully decorated with red and cream colored roses, and the informality of the dinner made it a success, that will make the next one something to be looked forward to. It was decided last night to have a banquet every year at the close of the school term.
