

THIRDS OF BUREAU DESTROYS HEROIC FIGHT SAVES BUILDING TILL FIRE COMPANY COMES.

Fire started from the accidental filling of an unused oil tank, which had a pipe line running into the basement, and disconnected over the stove, with a fire in it, caused several hundred dollars of damage in the McGee apartments Monday.

Mrs. W. G. McGee, who was alone at home, owing to a trip of Dr. McGee to Portland, telephoned to the oil company to have her new fifteen gallon tank filled. She had just had a new burner installed. The old tank, which fed the old burner, had been disconnected, and the burner removed, but the tank was still in place on the back porch. When the oil man, Ben Vantress arrived.

Mrs. McGee was in the house, and hearing him rattling the old tank, called, "Don't fill that tank, it's disconnected!" He called back to her, "I've already filled it."

Then she ran out and told him it was disconnected and there was a hot fire in the stove in the basement under the place the pipe ended. He ran down stairs, and called back the basement was full of flames and smoke.

Then the real fight began. They brought blankets and rugs, some of them new, down into the basement, and spread them over the stove to smother the flames. Several times they had all the fire out, and then a quantity of oil would fall from the pipe and the blaze would fly up so fiercely hot that it drove them from the basement. Mrs. McGee and Mr. Vantress worked valiantly, as did some of the roomers. Mrs. McGee's sister called the fire department, and they arrived in time to put out with chemicals the blaze that had stolen through the floor, and inside of a collapsible bed, that was folded against the wall.

This fresh danger was discovered, when it was thought the fire was under control, by Mrs. McGee's mother who is past 70 years old, who had been here only a month, visiting her daughter. She entered the room to remove the clothes from the smoke, and when she opened the door, a flame shot up behind the bed, and started eating through the second floor. The cries of the old lady for help brought in a fireman who put out the blaze with an extinguisher. The bedding in the room, the mattress and the pillows were all burned by the flames.

If it had not been for the fight of Mrs. McGee and Mr. Vantress, the excellent construction of the house, and the concrete floor in the basement, the whole building insured at about $6000 would have been burned.

Mrs. McGee said after the fire that she was so thankful that it was not worse, she couldn't feel badly over having had a fire. The fire was really no one's fault. Mr. Vantress merely filled a tank he had been in the habit of filling, and Mrs. McGee had not had time to remove the old tank, and the accident happened.

The volunteer fire department deserves a great deal of praise for their work, as they handled the hose and apparatus like veterans, and doubtless share in the honor of saving the building. W. H. Harris, supreme instructor of deputies, of the United Artisans, who was at the apartments says he thought they did excellent work.

Thrilling Scenes in 'The Hun Within'

To be thrown from a swiftly moving automobile down a steep declivity into a river is a dangerous experience even in motion pictures, but this is one of the gripping situations in "The Hun Within," a special Paramount-Artcraft picture, which will be shown at the Gem Theatre next Tuesday, July 22. The actor who undergoes this harrowing experience is Douglas MacLean, who, in this picture, plays the part of a United States secret service operative. He is trailing Hun spies who are determined to destroy American transports at all hazards.

Mr. MacLean, one of the best known actors on the screen, vests this character with unusual dignity and power. He is in love with Beth, a patriotic American girl, who treats him coldly, because she fancies that she loves Karl Wagner, the son of a German-American, who later turns out to be a German spy in league with the Kaiser's agents operating in this country.

Beth overhears a plot which incriminates and simultaneously destroys her love for the man to whom she has pinned her faith. How she foils this plot, although herself made prisoner by the spies, threatened with death, and how she finds happiness in the love of the Secret Service agent, are told in a series of captivating and highly exciting scenes.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. W. G. McGee and family wish to thank the volunteer fire department and the others, especially Mr. Vantress and Mr. Rinehart, who fought so hard to save their house from fire Monday, July 14.

Mrs. W. G. McGee and family.

Tillamook's Prize Industrial Team Returns from Trip.

Marie Gienger, Pauline Gienger, and Gladys Klinehan, Tillamook's prize winning canning team, champions of the state returned from a two weeks stay in the valley at O. A. C. which trip they were given for winning in the state fair contest last year.

Dillow Smith and Evelyn Glad also returned. Mr. Smith won a prize for the best kept dairy herd record in the state, while Miss Glad for the finest plans for the rural home beautiful.

The canning team will make a trip to Spokane August 30 to compete in the interstate fair and the winner at that contest will go to Chicago next year to compete for the national championship. Helen Cowgill of O. A. C. will come over a week before the girls leave and help them with pointers as to methods, etc, and will accompany them to Spokane.

Viola Dana Seen in Play of Parisian Life.

Viola Dana, the clever and fascinating little Metro star will be the attraction at the Gem Theatre next Saturday, July 19 in an original play entitled "The Parisian Tigress."

The story is that of a young girl of noble birth, left in babyhood in the care of strangers, who grows up in the slums of Paris into a wild and untamed child of the gutter, dancing for a living in the cafes of the Latin Quarter. Her dancing partner is a young Apache of whom she lives in constant fear.

Adventure comes to the girl when an aristocratic though impoverished artist finds her and conceives the idea of having her impersonate the long lost daughter of his wealthy friend so that he can reap a rich reward.

How romance comes to her when the mystery of her birth is cleared and she again enters the sphere of life to which she was born, is cleverly and entertainingly told in a manner which brings both laughter and tears.
