TILLAMOOK PEOPLE TO BE HIGH FLYERS.

Aeroplane Coming in Saturday Night Finds Most People Want to Go.

As some one sarcastically remarked, "The nearest you'll be to Heaven, and maybe the last chance" was here Sunday, when E. D. Cook, and V. L. McCroskey came in over the mountains in an aeroplane Saturday night, and Mr. Cook busily took up passengers most of the day Sunday. Mr. McCroskey, who is a University of Oregon student at Eugene, collects fares and acts as manager while Cook goes the driving.

Sunday one of the oldest men in the state to go up, if not the oldest was taken up, when George Randall, 96, went up. Mr. Randall says it was a fine smooth ride. Margaret Coates, the first girl to go up here was taken far out over the ocean, going to Seal Rocks past Netarts, then they swung in towards shore, and passed over Bayocean and to Barview, and then home.

The excitement of hunting a hawk from an aeroplane was enjoyed by one rider. When up with the aviator they noticed the hawk, and away they went after it, chasing it down the bay, dipping when it dipped, shooting up when it went up, and having a general dizzy time.

150 D. O. K. PLAN TO GO TO ASTORIA CONVENTION.

K. of P. Band Will be Taken Also, Slogan is: "Tillamook, the Land of Trees, Cheese and Ocean Breeze."

The local order of the D. O. K. K. of the Knights of Pythias are planning a big celebration at Astoria the 30th of this month, when the Astoria D. O. K. K. will hold a big initiation of their tyros. The Dokeys will leave Tillamook at about 8 o'clock Saturday morning and the big time will last over Sunday.

Between 100 and 150 are planning to go, according to the officers and committees in charge. A big boost for Tillamook is the idea of the Dokeys, rather than a boost for the D. O. K. K., and they will start a campaign there to have the state convention of the K of P. and Dokeys meet in Tillamook in 1920. The banner of the D. O. K. K.s, which they are putting on the front of their machines show what they are boosting. The pennants read, "Tillamook, the land of trees, cheese and ocean breeze."

This slogan should be heralded far and wide, and the D. O. K. K. may will be thankful for taking it along with them to Astoria, where people from all over the state will be gathered and will see it. Twenty-five tyros will also be taken from Tillamook to be put across the burning sands of Khorassan.

The Tillamook County Dairy Association has donated a couple of triplets to be taken to the banquet, where they will be divided up and eaten. All for Tillamook, and Tillamook helps the Dokeys is the way the signs read. Every D. O. K. K. is most earnestly urged to make the trip by the local officials, as it all makes Tillamook and her D. O. K. K. show up better.

Saturday morning the crowd will leave here at various times along during the arly hours of from eight till ten, and they will gather together again at Seaside, and make the trip as a body from there on to Astoria and they are planning on hitting the old town with a big whoop and roar. The local K. of P. band is being taken, so we may rest assured Tillamook will be heard from.

Tent Meetings.

The meetings in the large tent on the Chautauqua grounds are continuing with interest and success. Rev. Flanery, the evangelist has given interesting and helpful messages and much good has been done.

Rev. Mrs. Wells, of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Ross of the same city, Rev. J. P. G. Lowe, of Portland and others, have been welcome visitors at the meetings. Rev. C. Howard Davis of Portland, the recently elected superintendent of the North Pacific District, spent several days at the ser-VICES and preached on Sunday afternoon and evening with pleasure and profit to his audience. Meetings every night at 7:45 and the usual Sunday services.

AVIATOR GETS LOST IN FOG.

His Passenger is Perfectly Calm, While he is Glad to Come Down.

Tuesday night, Lt. E. D. Cook, of Salem, and Lyle McCroskey, business manager for the concern, not being thoroughly acquainted with Tillamook's incoming fogs, made one trip after the fog had started along up the bay quite well, and was around the Netarts mountain. It seemed but a minute's time after he had sailed majestically up into the air before the fog closed in over the field.

He saw that it had but knowing the country real well, and having given all passengers more than their ten minutes, he flew around in a circle, and then started back to the field. He found the Wilson river road, and started down it flying quite low toward the field. But he had never noticed before how many houses there were along the road before you get to the fairgrounds, and decided he had passed the field and turned around and went back.

Then was where his training showed up finely. A clump of trees suddenly rose up out of the fog directly in front of them, and he just skimmed over them, barely missing the top of one. His passenger can be thankful she had such a level headed pilot. For not at all deterred he turned back then and made a beautiful landing in the field in the thick fog, calling out gladly "Here we are." They were gone about 15 minutes, while of course he could have turned east, and landed in some distant field in ten or fifteen minutes that would have been free from fog, he didn't like to, and there was no real necessity, as his good judgment shows.
