For Colds, Catarrh or Influenza.

Do you feel weak and unequal to the work ahead of you? Do you still cough a little, or does your nose bother you? Are you pale? Is your blood thin and watery? Better put your body into shape. Build strong!

An old, reliable blood-maker and herbal tonic made from wild roots and barks, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This "nature remedy" comes in tablet or liquid form. It will build up your body, cure your cold, and protect you from disease germs which lurk everywhere. One of the active ingredients of this temperance alterative and tonic is wild cherry bark with stillingia, which is so good for the lungs and for coughs; also Oregon grape root, blood root, stone root, Queen's root, all skillfully combined in the Medical Discovery. These roots have a direct action on the stomach, improving digestion and assimilation. These herbal extracts in the "Discovery" aid in blood-making, and are best for scrofula. By improving the blood they aid in throwing off an attack of influenza. Catarrh should be treated, first, as a blood disease, with this alterative. Then, in addition, the nose should be washed daily with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Send 10c for trial pkg. of Medical Discovery Tablets or Catarrh Tablets to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

RAN TRUE TO FORM

Nothing Really Remarkable About This Tree.

Considering Its Variety and the Place Whence It Comes, It Could Hardly Avoid Having a Criminal Nature.

The Boston Globe, in its "Odd Items" column, prints an item about a tree which absorbed some of a rail fence. We have lost the item, so we don't know where this tree was, or is, but it couldn't have been anywhere near Harmony, Me., says the Lewiston Journal. If it had, the owner never would have had the nerve to mention it in the face of the remarkable performances of a tree that stood on the land of a relative of ours.

Our relative had been a soldier in his youth, and when he bought this farm he brought to it a number of shrubs, trees and flowers collected in his wanderings about the earth. This particular tree of which I speak was of the Thibetohunnish variety, and came from Prussia.

It grew rapidly after it was set out and crowded out all other growing stuff for 20 feet around. In ten years it was three feet through, and in 15, four feet through at the base.

The peculiar thing about this tree was not its rapid growth, however. Let us explain. Our relative built a barbed-wire fence by this tree and to save driving a post nailed it to the tree. Well, the ends of the fence began to disappear. Our relative thought someone was snipping off the ends of the wire for some reason. His wife was of the opinion that the wire had too much wood in it and was shrinking in the dews and rains. In any case from 10 to 20 feet of the wire would disappear every night.

My relative finally gave it up, and in about two weeks the wire had disappeared entirely and the mystery was greater than ever. We simply couldn't trace it.

Then we began to miss articles left near the tree. A hired man left a scythe in its branches one night. The next morning it was gone.

Some one left a pail near by and that disappeared.

Finally the matter was brought to a climax when the blooded bull calf which had been tied to a stake near this tree vanished during the night.

About this time my relative noticed that there seemed to be an extraneous growth of some sort of about six feet above the butt of the tree. He began to have his suspicions about this tree. He determined to sacrifice the tree to satisfy his curiosity. He got an ax and chopped it down. Inside the tree was the scythe, hundreds of yards of barbed wire, the partially dismembered carcass of the calf, pails, stones, a pair of overalls, one overshoe and many other articles.

The tree had a criminal nature and developed a kleptomaniac streak. Everyone was glad to see that tree cut down.

Flower Language.

In remote Alpine hamlets and villages, especially in the Bernese Oberland, there still exist ancient and pretty customs of proposing marriage by a language of flowers. If a maid accepts a bouquet of edelweiss from a man she at the same time accepts him as her fiance, the idea being that the man has risked his life to obtain the flowers for the woman he loves.

Another method which exists in the canton of Glarus is for the young man to place a flower pot containing a single rose and a note on the window sill of the girl's room when she is absent from home, and wait perhaps days—for a reply. If the maid takes the rose the young man boldly enters the house to arrange matters with her parents, but if the rose is allowed to fade away the proposal is rejected without a single word having been exchanged between the couple.

They and We.

A wounded corporal in a hospital told how, while on patrol duty, he had seen the body of a noncommissioned French officer hanging by the feet, his face bashed in with muskets.

"My men and I were furious," he said, "and made up our minds that we'd do the same thing to the first German we caught. That night we found two Germans hidden in a barn. We fell on them and then as they were hungry we gave them bread. We could not do what they did, for we are not of the same race."—Every-body's Magazine.

Fowls Plucked With Vacuum.

A machine of the vacuum type for plucking fowls is described and illustrated in Popular Mechanics magazine. With it, it is said, a person can remove all the feathers, dry, from an average-sized bird in about five minutes. A motor-driven fan creates suction in a large flexible tube, at the free end of which is a special plucking apparatus. Once loosed, the feathers pass through the tube into a large receptacle overhead.

No Honeymoon Trip.

I attended a wedding of a dear girl friend whose father was a well-to-do farmer. After the ceremony we girls crowded around the blushing bride and she was asked where they expected to go on their honeymoon trip. She replied: "We aren't going to take a trip, for the money we would spend will buy a nice cow."—Chicago Trib-une.

WHAT THE WORLD WAR COST

Ability to Meet It Consists in Country's Productive Power Exercised to the Limit.

The ultimate factor in war finance is not the dollar, but what the dollar can buy—at the moment when it is necessary to use it. The economic burden of a war is not borne by capital, that is, the stored-up savings invested in railroads, factories and banks, but by the productive power of the country, engaged in unproductive consumption. For war is waste, observes the April La Revista del Mundo.

When estimating the financial ability of a nation to make war a consideration of her wealth does not tell the story, just as a consideration of population, which would give Russia the first place, would be altogether false. It is the ability of a nation to master and mobilize her dollars and send them into the trenches and make them fight, that reveals her financial power as a military nation. Germany, with her long preparation, her autocratic government machinery, was able to conscript all production for war purposes, and mass her economic strength almost as speedily as she massed her fighting men.

Great Britain and the United States, not being versed in the science of war did not understand this factor. The economic resources of these countries were not mobilized and massed all at once, but each government was forced to take over more and more of the machinery of production as war needs became increasingly great. These two countries, with bulldog, but mistaken, determination, clung to the slogan, "Business as usual," as long as it was possible to do so. The business men of those countries believed that so long as there was plenty of money in circulation every one would be able to turn to, buy government bonds and thus assist in the business of war. But this fallacy is akin to the common one of mistaking dollars for wealth.

The cost of the war, as nearly as it can be estimated in money, shows the national debt which each belligerent now carries ranges from 4.6 per cent of the national wealth (in Japan) to 80 per cent of the national wealth (in Hungary). How these staggering liabilities are to be met is the problem for the future; but the United States, with a debt amounting to 6 per cent of her national wealth of $250,000,000, is in the favored position undoubtedly, facing unprecedented possibilities in credit expansion.

Threw but Seven.

The quartermaster's department in Hoboken is anything but a place of joy. It is where the effects of many thousands of doughboys who "went West" are sent for distribution. Each pitiful package or bundle or box is checked up and sent to the nearest relative. Occasionally, however, the solemnity of the situation is relieved by the laughter of some returned hero who comes to the depot to announce that he is not dead and to claim his precious belongings. The other day a busy negro appeared, wearing three gold chevrons and a wound stripe, laughing heartily at the thought of him being reported dead. As if any old Hun could kill him! He told a tale of terrible fighting and suffering, all the time smiling cheerfully, and allowing as how he hoped his personal effects would be located. A small package, with his name on it, was at last found and opened for final checking. It contained a wad of money and the tools which had helped to enrich the dark man—a pair of dice. There was much laughter, hearty handshakes and back slapping, when the soldier was handed the money and the African golf outfit, which only threw seven.—New York Sun.

Bedouin Bards.

The descriptive power and fidelity of Arabic poetry in setting forth both the life of the people and the scenery of the clime are remarkable. It conjures up visions of tawny brows, flowing beards, soft eyes, picturesque turbans, pawing chargers, and patient dromedaries. We seem to be there. It is the land of the date tree and the fountain, the ostrich and the giraffe, the tent and the caravan. It is the home of the simoon and the mirage. It is the world of the desert and the stars. Hospitality waves her torch through the night to win the wanderer to be a guest. The very picture, embodiment, breath, blaze, of all this is in the lyrics of the Bedouin bards. The richness of their language, and something of the character of the people who use it, are shown in the fact that it has 80 names for honey, 500 for the lion, and a thousand for the sword!—William Russell Alger.

Take No Chances.

The following interesting bit of information is from Safety Engineering: "Not every one understands how inflammable and explosive chlorate of potash is. One man learned in a peculiar manner. He was carrying chlorate of potash tablets in a small bottle in his coat pocket; the cork presumably became loosened and fell out. Entering a street car, he knocked the ashes from his pipe, as he supposed, and put it in his pocket. In a few moments there were spurts of blue flame, and the tablets went off. For a time the man was in danger of being mistaken for an enemy alien carrying bombs. The mystery of the explosion was solved by finding small particles of glass wedged in the clothing around where the bottle had been. Other than the shock to his own nerves and those of the passengers the only damage was to his clothes which were burned badly."
