Editorial Snap Shots.

Wouldn't it jar the snap shot man if one of the churches sent in a page advt. the same as one of the Eugene churches is doing to advertise their services.

Pull down those old frame buildings in the business section of the city. That's the way to make a clean, wide-awake, progressive city, and a good preventative to fire.

That's tough on the new executive board of the Tillamook Red Cross, for it is composed entirely of men folk. The board will have to get in and dig as there are no ladies on the board to pile the hard work onto.

This is plain proof that Tillamook cheese did not receive a square deal at the State Fair. At the county fair the cheese that obtained a score of 97 points was sent to the State Fair, whereas received only 51 1/2 points. From the same batch, a cheese was sent to the National Dairy Show at Chicago, and in competition with cheese from all parts of the United States, it received 95 1/2 points. The snap shot man thinks the State Fair managers had a pretty bum cheese judge. He was no doubt a fine gentleman, but knew very little about cheese, hence it looks that Tillamook cheese did not get a square deal.

We propose capturing the county commissioners and judge and treating them to an automobile tour of the south end of the county when the roads get nice and juicy with mud and the wheels try to find bottom. Some day they may wake up and learn that there are roads and people in this end of the county and it may be too late.—Enterprise.

The Cloverdale sheet every once in a while takes a shot at the county court and threatens vengeance. It is one thing to sit in an office and criticize, but if the Cloverdale scribe knew some of the difficulties that the county officials have had to contend with he would be a little more considerate. True, there is general disappointment that the contractors for the five miles of hard surfaced road did not complete the work, but the county officials should not be blamed for that as it is the state highway commission who is in charge of that work.

We do not want anybody to think we are criticizing the county school superintendent or the teachers for holding annual teachers institutes, for the law compels the superintendent to call an institute and the teachers to attend it. We have contended a good many times before that we think it altogether out of place, directly the school gets started after a long summer vacation, to close them down so that the teachers can hold an institute. That is one reason why we have criticized the annual teachers' institute in this county. If it is the right thing to close the schools for teachers' conventions, why stop there? It would be just as logical, after county officials are elected to close up the court house for the best part of a week so that the new county officials could hold a conference, or after the county gets its road crews together to stop work for a convention.

When a business man employs a person for special work, it is presumed that he is competent and experienced in that line of business. The same rule should apply to teachers, for a large amount of the taxpayers' money is used every year for the maintenance of normal schools, the Agricultural College and the university to prepare teachers. A good many teachers agree with us, while there are others who do not, but we want to make it plain that we are not criticizing anyone, simply the law that makes it imperative to hold teachers' conventions, for we cannot see any good in allowing 2000 children of this county remain in idleness while about 50 teachers hold a convention, and we think most of the parents agree with us. It's the law however, and we think we are within our rights when we criticize that law as not exactly the proper kind of a law. All we need add, if a county institute is held we hope the teachers will have a profitable time.

High School Notes.

Enthusiasm seems to be the keynote of high school life this fall, not only in athletics but scholarship as well.

Last week the girls organized an athletic club. The club is going to be one of the "peppiest" in the school. The members decided to call their organization The Girls' Athletic Society. The officers elected are; President, Betty Lantz; Vice-Pres., Eugene Swanson; Sec-Treas., Fay Brewster; Manager, Audrey Earl.

Football teams are to be organized by the Seniors and Sophomores, and the Juniors and Freshmen. There are some good players on both sides and it is expected that there will be some good games. The teams are practicing every day and in about three weeks the first game will come off.

Those having made an average of ninety or more in their subjects are: George Mae Carlin, Glen Conover, Theodore Powers, James Sharp, Ramona Halton, Lolita Johnson, Mildred Johnson, Gladys Klinehan, Elita Sheets, Emma Groat and Grace Joliffe.

Wednesday evening the debate club met and read their constitution which was drafted by Betty Lantz, Letha Carr, Clayton Hadley and Thomas Large. It was approved by the club and went into immediate effect.

A committee was appointed to fix snappy and artistic notices on the board. They were Betty Lantz, Theodore Lisberg and Harry Elliott. Another committee was appointed to get new members for the club. They are Clayton Hadley and George May Carlin. A debate will be given on Wednesday by Clayton Hadley and Audrey Earl affirmative and Thomas Large, negative. This is the first debate to be given and is expected to be a good one.

Death of Robert George Jackson.

Robert George Jackson was born in St. Lawrence, N. Y., September 26, 1842, and lived there until he was fifteen years of age. At that time the family moved to Wisconsin, but in the autumn of 1862, they journeyed across the plains in a prairie schooner, drawn by an ox team, and took up their residence near Denver, Colorado. Six years later the brothers, John William and Robert, went to California where the latter engaged in the mining business. In 1883, Robert came to Tillamook County, Oregon, where he resided about twenty years but, since 1903 his residence has been in British Columbia and eastern Oregon. During the past three years he has lived with his brother William, near Monument, Oregon, and, in a helpless afflicted condition seven months ago, he was brought to his daughter's home in Tillamook. There he has been cared for by his brother and daughter and kind neighbors until the end came last Friday morning.

During his lifetime, Robert Jackson had read several infidel works, but in the past few weeks all influences of those teachings vanished from his mind and, when he was visited by christian friends who pressed upon him the need of salvation by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, he was ready to accept the true religion and did so. Several days after this

"The Forbidden City."

Norma Talmage the beautiful Select star, will be presented by Joseph M. Schenck in her latest Select Picture "The Forbidden City" at the Gem Theatre, Sunday October 26. This is a Chinese story by George Scarborough.

The story begins with Wong Li, a Chinese mandarin, learns that his beautiful daughter, San San, has married secretly to John Worden, a young officer attached to the American consulate. He spirits San San away during her husband's absence, and Worden is never again able to find her. As Wong Li has been in disfavor of the royal court, he offers San San to the Emperor. The emperor accepts his daughter, but when he learns that San San has given birth to a half American baby girl he orders both Wong Li and San San killed. The baby, Toy is saved.

Later in life after Toy has grown to beautiful womanhood, she makes her escape to Mantia, where she becomes a Red Cross nurse. Here she meets and falls in love with Lieut. Philip Halbert. The two plan to marry, but when the governor John Worden, learns that Halbert is about to marry a Chinese girl, he sends him away on a distant mission. In the meantime the governor becomes seriously ill. Toy is his nurse, and as he partly recovers he finds out that she is the daughter of his Chinese wife Then Halbert returns and the governor gives his consent for their wedding, which is celebrated at his bedside.
