It is getting along about the time of the year when the Portland Journal published a lot of lies and persisted in doing so as to the signing of the armistice.

Now that the Governor has proclaimed Armistice Day, November 11, a legal holiday, and the event will be celebrated in all parts of the state, Tillamook City should have a celebration befitting the occasion.

Armistice day is Tuesday, November 11, and is a legal holiday. Wear a Red Cross 1920 membership button that day, which will be a sign of your patriotism on this great national event.

This is another reason for the high cost of living. Circuit court used to convene twice a year and a week's session at each term would dispose of the business. Now we have four terms and several adjourned sessions. The October term just over took 22 days with two condemnation suits sent to another county to be tried and other cases held over.

The sugar famine in the United States is attributed principally to the failure of President Wilson to pay any attention to the request of the U. S. Sugar Equalization Board to buy the Cuban crop, as was done last year. But Mr. Wilson has his eyes too far off the ground, of course, to give consideration to such small matters as the food necessities of the mere American people.

President Wilson showed exceedingly poor judgment when he vetoed the prohibition law, not only so, but he disappointed many of his best friends. Somehow, the president has not been using good judgment of late, especially when there is such an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the entire country remaining "dry". If the president did this with the hope of the democratic party obtaining the "wet" vote at the next election he is going to be fooled.

The McMinnville News-Reporter says: "The News-Reporter has received commendation for not carrying cigarette advertisements. We did not know our readers were quite so observing. For their benefit let us say we turned down three contracts for cigarette advertising."

Gee Whiz, we almost had a duck fit when we read this, for in the same issue of the News-Reporter we observed there were cigar, tobacco and plug cut ads. What's the difference Bro., and why draw the line between cigarettes and plug cut?

The dairymen of Tillamook county appear to be taking more interest in the Pacific International Live Stock Show, which is to be held in Portland, November 17-22, and from what we can gather Tillamook county will have quite a large number of dairy stock and hogs on exhibition, besides a good display of cheese. Up to the present time 46 head of stock have been entered from this county and 15 head of hogs. The Pacific International Live Stock Show is the biggest stock show in the northwest and will attract people from all parts of the Pacific Northwest. Probably Tillamook County will get a square deal at the show, which it did not get in the cheese exhibit at the State Fair.

Talk about the high cost of living, the government seems to be doing its best to keep up the high cost of living. For Secretary of War Baker last April, ordered the sale in Europe of a billion dollars worth of supplies, including foodstuffs, shoes, clothing, textiles and other necessities of life, and ordered that it be sold at a sacrifice in order that it might not be brought back to the United States. Pursuant to these orders surplus commodities in France which had cost the government $1,425,000,000 were sold to the French government for the sum of $400,000,000. It is recalled that the Secretary of War also prevented the sale of surplus supplies in this country amounting to $120,000,000 in value until compelled to do so by the action of the Republican House and Senate. He had directed the Quartermaster General to give a written pledge to the American Cannery Association not to sell 200,000,000 cans of vegetables on the American market.

Fifty five senators have decided to Americanize the League of Nations covenant, notwithstanding the protest of President Wilson and his blind followers in the democratic party. This goes to prove that more the league of nations covenant is discussed, less friends it obtains, for there are provisions in it that should and must be changed. The president cannot fool the people all the time, for they are now aware that the peace treaty could have been signed last March but Mr. Wilson went back to France determined to block the peace treaty and incorporate in it the league of nations covenant. In the unsettled state of affairs in the United States and the whole world this was a foolish thing to do, and nobody but the president is responsible for the present unrest and unsatisfactory conditions existing today in the United States. That is generally admitted by every fair minded person. It is now up to the president and the democratic party whether they will accept the league of nations covenant now that it is to be Americanized by the Republican party. The president has a following of 41 in the senate opposed to reservations, and they can defeat the league covenant if they so desire, for it takes only 33 votes to do so. Well the President and Democratic Senators do so, seeing that the President made the statement that the covenant was not to be changed in any particular, even to the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t"? The President attempted to force the senate to accept the covenant, but the Republicans have seen fit to Americanize it before accepting it.

A Mistake.

President Wilson assumes a heavy responsibility in his veto of the prohibition act. Clearly, he has undertaken to restore in the "wet" states a short "wet" period before constitutional prohibition can become effective. Logically he must, and supposedly will, now end the war-time prohibition by declaring demobilization complete and restoring the status quo in the breweries and distilleries and the surviving saloons of the country.

If the stores of liquor lawfully manufactured and still on hand could be disposed of in any way except through the medium of the saloon, or of public sale to any and all comers, the president's astonishing act would have produced no great commotion. But the reopening of the saloon, once effectively and wisely closed, means an orgy of drunkenness, dissipation, waste, idleness and criminality in metropolitan centers, and a demoralizing and wretched experience whenever the saloon is tolerated. In times so tense and uncertain it is an unhappy and unfortunate reversion to old dangers, now greatly aggravated by the reckless and restless temper of many men and some women.

The president has sought to render a service to the makers and owners of stores of liquor. But in doing it he has served the country ill. It would be better, far better, to pay these men out of the government treasury for their losses, and turn their whiskey, beer and wines into the gutter than to permit it to be passed out over the old-time and sadly disgraced bars.—Oregonian.

Rap is Taken at Baker's Bargains.

Senator Sherman, of Illinois, read into the Congressional Record a story printed in the Washington Post, showing how Europe is still being offered big bargains by Secretary Baker, while keeping up the cost of foodstuffs at home, and followed it up with a few remarks of his own bearing upon the subject.

"Just now when the housewife cannot buy a pound of sugar in Washington," said Senator Sherman, "when prices are soaring beyond the reach of ordinary incomes, when fruit cannot be preserved for lack of sugar, it will interest the long suffering public to know that the army surplus of government supplies in the United States is proposed to be sold to the people in Europe."

"Here are $2,000,000 pounds of sugar which will be shipped from this country and placed at the disposal of consumers in Europe. And a large number of other things are to be sold all of which is calculated to arouse some interest among American consumers."

"Secretary Baker says he is doing this so as not to disturb market conditions existing at this time in the United States. The prices we have in this country today ought to be disturbed, and must be, if any relief is to come to the consumer. We have been investigating for two months and there can be no relief unless there is a lowering of prices to levels which the sale of these commodities in the United States, instead of abroad would tend to produce."

At nearly every convention some agent of the administration bobs up with a resolution endorsing the league of nations. Whenever there is real debate and deliberation, the resolution is defeated, but advantage is taken of the fact that few men feel like getting up and fighting over a fool proposition when it is presented in an affirmative form by some glib-tongued propagandist. The administration has made a business for two or three years of working resolutions through religious, educational, business and other conventions and is rather expert at the job. But as expressions of opinion these resolutions usually violate the sentiments of the delegate body and are simply rammed through because the crowd is always rather helpless unless somebody starts a fight.

It's a queer thing that an administration which says it has ninety percent of the people with it and acts as if it believed it is unable to get the voters to act that way in any of the elections that have been held since the unanimity is supposed to have set in. The Seventh Alabama is the last district to record the tremors of an approaching political earthquake.

PROFITEERS IN TAIL WONT CUT H. C. L.

President Butler of Columbia University Says Saving Only Remedy

San Francisco.—President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, speaking here before the Commercial Club, said, "punishing profiteers is a good thing, but it won't reduce the cost of living, if we had all their hoarded goods it would do little good."

"Only the operation of inconvertible economic laws can bring us back to tolerable conditions. The remedy is to save, to practice public economy and private thrift. We must save and invest in productive industry. Borrowing for non-productive reasons mean bankruptcy."

In the opinion of the best economists in the United States the people's greatest weapon against high prices is the Government's Thrift and War Savings Stamps. Every family should have a budget, just as every successful business has a budget. The first thing on that budget should be the amount to be saved from the weekly or monthly income—not the amount to be spent. Make what you save govern the amount you spend, not the amount you spend govern the amount you save.

War Savings Stamps bring 4 per cent interest, compounded every three months. Hit high prices below the belt by investing in United States securities. The dollar you save today will be worth twice as much five years from now.

HAND GRENADES USED 500 YEARS AGO IN BATTLE

Government Giving Away Bombs Intended for Doughboys' Use

Washington.—Hand grenades, which the Government will shortly make available to thrifty individuals through banks and trust companies as souvenirs of the Great War, date back five centuries as war weapons. They were known to have been used in 1427 at the siege of the Fortress of Casanagore, on the River Po, the defenders using a glass bottle filled with powder.

The term "grenadiers" grew out of the training of the best qualified among the soldiers of Louis XIV. in 1765, to hurl these grenades. In English history, as well, the grenadiers are found from the Seventeenth Century on. The Russo-Japanese war, however, developed the grenade into the effective weapon it proved in the Great War. Jam tins, tomato cans, and other metal receptacles were salvaged from scrap heaps and filled with powder. These were the immediate forerunners of the modern cast iron, corrugated TNT grenades, known as the Mills Defensive Bomb, which caused so much destruction when hurled into a German trench or dugout. It is the Mills grenade with the TNT removed that the Government is putting out now as savings banks.

Ask any bank how to get one. You don't have to pay a cent for it.

NOW AND THEN

What is a dollar? Foolish question—you say? Not at all these days of H. C. L. and profiteering. Certainly a dollar isn't what it was ten years ago. It isn't what it will be five years from now.

A dollar is what you can get for it in beans, butterfies, or bunk—no more or no less. A dollar wouldn't be worth anything if you couldn't get anything for it.

Ten years ago you bought, we'll say, bunk at one dollar a share. Now bunk costs two dollars a share. That doesn't mean that bunk has doubled in value. It means that your dollar is worth half what it was ten years ago.

This is, therefore, not the time to spend your dollars. They will bring you only half what they are worth. This is the time to save them.

They will bring more later on. That is the history of dollars. Values run in cycles. As sure as you are living five years from now a dollar will be worth more than it is now, probably twice as much. So when you save a dollar now you are really saving two dollars. True? Dollars as you would any other commodity. Buy them when they are cheap.

Stick every dollar you can into War Savings Stamps now. Carrying 4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly, a War Savings Stamp bought this month for $4.25, will be worth five dollars January 1, 1924. By 1924 the dollar will be worth twice as much as it is so you will really have ten dollars for the $4.19.
