

Quantity Production

The fundamental reason for America's conquest of world markets is quantity production. That it is possible to produce a quality product on a quantity basis is a truism nailed down and demonstrated by the war. Liberty Motors are an example.

There will be more Bethlehem Motor Trucks exported during the coming year than any manufacturer whose truck sells for six thousand dollars will build. Two thousand to England alone. Another triumph for quantity production. Bethlehem Motor Trucks are neither underbuilt to meet a price nor overbuilt to justify a price. The enormous number of Bethlehems built in a year means a low production cost, a low sales cost and a low list price. Bethlehem Motor Trucks are willing to be judged as all motor trucks should be judged—on their ability to transport and the cost per ton mile of that transportation. Buy your Motor Truck on Facts.

If Europe wants to borrow more money of us the best procedure is not to declare that if we do not furnish it Europe will go bankrupt. That sort of talk never makes good collateral for a would-be borrower at a bank.

Public Questions are Ably Discussed.

St. Paul (Minn.) Daily News asks: "How often must a pusillanimous cheek be turned toward a deliberate aggressor before his offense is catalogued as culpable? Is the government withholding its wrath until an agent of the United States is tortured? The tone of Mr. Lansing's latest note has been characterized as 'strong'. Words have variable meanings now days. A warning in the spirit of don't you dare insult me for the fiftieth time is of the sort which disturbs neither chronic bad boys nor chronic bad nations."

Montgomery (Ala.) Adviser, one of the leading democratic newspapers of the South, frankly says the Democratic party can't afford to have the league of nations made a campaign issue for the simple reason that on that issue it would have division and good trimming. The Adviser says: "There are thousands of good Democrats throughout the country who have sincerely opposed the embarkation of this country upon an unknown sea of internationalism, and who earnestly object to our being involved in European affairs. The party itself, at least in sentiment, would divide upon the issue which the Republicans are adroitly endeavoring to force into the campaign. The Adviser, for one, would rather see the league of nations dead and safely buried than have it as a troublesome and dangerous issue in the next campaign."

Judge Albert R. Anderson, of the federal court at Indianapolis, thinks the mine operators and mine workers appear to be in "cahoots to bleed the public." Judge Anderson who recently ordered the rescinding of the strike order, expressed himself in the course of examination of Alonzo Newcomb, a miner, during a session of the court. "Doesn't it seem that you are all in a conspiracy to milk the public?" Judge Anderson asked Newcomb. Newcomb said the mine workers are paid only 48 cents a ton for the coal they mine, while they have to pay the operators $2.20 a ton for that coal on top of the mine, and besides have to haul it themselves. "Ought not all of you come down all around?" Judge Anderson asked, and Newcomb said, "I guess you are right." "Isn't it true that you say the mine operators get so much that you want part of their profits?" persisted the Judge. Newcomb said this also seemed to be the case, whereupon Judge Anderson remarked that it appears as though both factions in the coal trouble were "in cahoots to bleed the public."

The Philadelphia Inquirer asks what will the Democratic government, "which has so tamely submitted to so many examples of Mexico's contempt for the aforesaid administration, do about the latest most flagrant Carranza flout?" and answers: "It will send more letters to Mexico." The Inquirer argues: "Ever since President Wilson took office, in March, 1913, he has been writing letters off and on to Mexico. Of course the Lusitania discussion took up most of his spare time for nearly two years. He wrote and he wrote and he wrote—and got nowhere. Germany flouted him and played with him, and we got into war only when submarine outrages could no longer be endured. Germany now so accustomed to the Wilson correspondence that she paid scant attention to it. Mexico lighted its cigarettes with Wilson notes and letters until they ceased arriving due to the president's engagements across the Atlantic. Now the correspondence has been resumed, and Mexico hears that the administration is surprised and incensed to learn of the reimprisonment of Consul Agent Jenkins. Quite so. That note contains the same old ring of the past—'Naughty! naughty! papa will slap!' But papa never does slap. There's the trouble.

William Howard Taft: "The disposition of small local groups of American Legion men to take the law into their own hands, to regulate by force what shall appear upon the stage in opera or in a play, and to suppress by threatened or actual violence of which they do not approve, should be discontinued and restrained. It is lawlessness awakening the sympathy of the people that is most dangerous to the state and our liberties. It is in the teeth of the lessons our boys had and followed in their service during the war. The law should take its course. Protest by the legion or its local divisions against any official negligence or inaction calling for quick attention and effective prosecution, will achieve every legitimate purpose. The legion, if it keeps within the law, can carry such weight in influencing popular judgment that no municipal, county or state officer will dare incur its condemnation. But if local groups of the legion are permitted to organize themselves into vigilance committees, to act in disregard of law and lawful authority, they will lose and ought to lose, their influence."

Some of the very politicians and office holders who have been petting and feeding the socialist snake in this country are now loudly calling upon the people to help them save the country from the fangs.
