Clothes, consisting of Ladies' Cloaks,
Suits and Dresses to be Sold
at Any Price.

As the Goods Must be Sold, any Reasonable offering will be Accepted.

This will be surprising news to the many thousands of customers who aided me during the many years I have been successfully selling clothes for ladies and men in Tillamook. But the present time conditions are such that I desire to withdraw from the mercantile business. However, complete withdrawal from business depends somewhat on the clothing market at the present time. Wages, material and expenses are approximately 100 higher than they were in 1914, yet the wholesale price of Ladies' Clothes is approximately 300 per cent higher. This condition is unfair and unjust, and I desire to DISCONTINUE and close the door of my store Jan. 17th, and if in the meantime the market should return to normal conditions I expect to buy new stock and continue the business, or possibly re-enter business whenever it does become normal, but for the present I expect to sell my entire stock at any price and retire until that time arrives.

Thanking the many thousands who have contributed to my success in the past, and inviting you now to come and supply your needs while the prices are less than I could purchase the same stock at wholesale, I beg to remain, as ever,
Yours for good clothes service,

R. M. GOLDEN.
