

Tillamook Headlight.

TILLAMOOK, OREGON, FEBRUARY 26, 1920.

Tillamook Jottings.

When it is time to re-tread buy a "Hood", sold by J. C. Holden.

The smoke stack of the Coast Power Co., which collapsed a few months ago is being replaced.

C. W. Miller, who was bookkeeper for the Coast Lumber Co., was back in Tillamook this week on business.

Henry D. Davis Lumber Co., vs. Silver Spruce Co., is a suit filed in the circuit court to recover $1097.15.

Carl Haberlach reports that the checks for January milk will not be out before the 10th of the month.

Fred Paquet, deceased, Ophelia Paquet vs. John Paquet, is a case filed in the circuit court, being an appeal in a probate case.

Owing to the electric light plant being shut down Thursday, those who were depending on power were somewhat inconvenienced.

Rev. Oliver returned from North Powder, Wash., the first part of the week, where he had gone on account of the serious sickness of his father.

Wm. H. Raymond, field representative of the Salvation Army, is in the city for the purpose of organizing the county, so as to continue the work.

The Headlight has increased its size, and also engaged an experienced city editor, Bro. Baker is keeping ahead of his progressive town.—Waeeler Reporter.

C. F. Stone has brought suit in the Circuit Court growing out of the failure of the Silver Spruce Co., asking an accounting and judgment against the company for $3588.00 and $4590.65.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wallace have deserted Tillamook's sunshine and its ascribed attendant of flu, for the lure of the southland. They are making a three week's visit with friends in Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Chilcott died in this city on Tuesday evening from pneumonia. The deceased was the wife of Ralph Chilcott, who works for the City Transfer Co. The body was taken to Dallas this morning for burial.

The Public Service Commission will be in Tillamook this week, and tomorrow (Friday) several grade crossings will be investigated. It seems that the county court and the officials have agreed upon certain plans and the commission has been petitioned to approve them.

Ask the "Why of the extra Ply" in the Hood Tire.

There will be a meeting of the newly formed Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday, March 2nd, at 8 p.m. at the Armory. It is important that all business and professional men should attend as there are matters to discuss of vital interest to Tillamook City and county.

C. M. Dyrland, of the Tillamook County Bank, has been elected cashier of the Lumberman's Trust Co., of Portland, Oregon. He will take up his new duties on Monday, March 8th. Mr. Dyrland regrets the severing of pleasant business and social connections formed in Tillamook, and the cordiality extended him here will long be an agreeable memory.

Mrs. A. J. Stillwell returned to San Diego, Cal., last week, having come to Tillamook on account of the sudden death of her aunt Mrs. Babl. Rev. Mr. Ford, who came in from Banks, Or., last week, with his wife, and expected to remain here over Sunday, was called back on account of the death of a member of his congregation.

Members of the order of B. P. O. Elks at Tillamook will send a petition to the grand lodge asking for a charter. A special dispensation will be necessary. The members of the order in the coast will feel that on account of Tillamook's isolation their petition should receive special consideration. At present Tillamook is in the jurisdiction of McMinnville lodge.

T. E. Epplett, who is the most important unofficial personage about the court house, and who knows how to scare flu germs away to protect the county officials coming down with the disease, is mighty indignant because he has not been enumerated in Uncle Sam's big family. It is to be hoped that he won't get boiling hot and lock the city enumerator up in the county bastle for such a grievous oversight.

Robert Sargent vs. Harley Foland, executor of the estate of Walter Kinnaman, deceased, is a suit filed in the circuit court. The plaintiff alleges that between December, 1916, and December, 1918, at the request of Walter Kinnaman, plaintiff performed services upon the deceased's farm near Beaver which amounted to $1000.00. The plaintiff had been unable to collect this money, although he had filed a duly verified bill to the executor of the estate.

Fred Mietzke, of Cloverdale, who is the proprietor of a prospering meat market here, recently visited his old haunts in our city. He has increased his girth by several noticeable inches (or is it feet) and a plausible solution of the acquired avoirdupois is that he must be eating his own stock of porterhouses and sweetbreads. Keep it up Fred. When the butcher-business slumps, you'll be a good candidate for the circus. We understand Baranum and Bailey is looking for a fat man.

If you want a tire of quality see the Hood.

Obituary Notice.

Laurence D. Perry, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Perry, was born Dec. 30, 1905, at Garibaldi, Ore., and died Feb. 19, 1920, at Orville, Calif., aged 14 years, one month and twenty days.

The body was brought to Garibaldi, Feb. 24, and at 1:30, Feb. 25, the funeral services were conducted at the Garibaldi Cove church, by Rev. G. O. Oliver. Interment was made in the Bay City cemetery. Laurence was a healthy robust boy until only a few days prior to his death, and was a boy of noble worth and character. In school he was loved by both teacher and school mates, and was always studious, courteous and obedient. While we miss him sadly here and although there is a vacancy in his home which can never be filled, we know that he has gone where he will ever more enjoy that which he told his parents of in his last and dying words which were "I hear such sweet music."

Gladys Brockwell is Coming to Town

Gladys Brockwell, in a story that has a tremendously strong human appeal—"Chasing Rainbows"—will be seen at the Gem Theatre next Saturday night. This is the story of a waitress, Sadie, whose heart is well nigh broken by a false lover, and who, to get away from her troubles, goes to a town on the edge of Death Valley to work in a railroad restaurant.

Sadie does more good in that town than any minister that ever came that way, and she does it through love and a spirit that knows no fear. It is a fine emotional role for Miss Brockwell, and according to advance reports, the Fox star makes the most of it.

Raymond Hatton in "The Love Burglar."

Raymond Hatton, the famous character man who has appeared in many Paramount and Artcraft pictures, plays a unique character role in the "Love Burglar," a new Paramount picture, starring Wallace Reid which comes to the Gem Theatre next Monday.

His role in this photoplay is perhaps one of the most difficult and peculiar ever screened. He is a combination minister of the gospel and a piano player in a tough slum saloon. It is said that Mr. Hatton portrays the part with remarkable skill. The picture is adapted from Jack Laft's play, "One of Us." The support is quite satisfactory.

Married Couple Pass Away Within Few Days.

Minerva Alley-Stasek was born in Nehalem, Ore., December 28th, 1889. She was united in marriage to George Ludtke on June 2nd, 1907, of which union were born to children, George Herbert and Ivan Harold Ludtke, who still survive her. Mr. Ludtke died June 20th, 1915, leaving her a widow. She was united in marriage to Otto James Stasek on December 25, 1917. Mr. Stasek was taken violently ill at their home in God's Valley, and after being removed to Tillamook, he passed away February 13, 1920. During his illness she contracted pneumonia, which terminated in pneumonia, and she passed away February 20th, 1920, aged 30 years, two months and twelve days. Besides her two children she leaves to mourn her loss her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Alley, of Nehalem, Or., also four sisters, Mrs. O. F. Knight, Mrs. P. F. Cooper, Mrs. A. D. Lommen, of Mohler, Or., and Miss Winnifred Alley, of Nehalem, Oregon. Her trust in God was firm, having accepted Christ when a child, and was prepared to go.

"Then sweet by thy rest till He bids thee arise To hail Him in triumph descending the skies."

Otto James Stasek was born September 19th, 1887, at Kaukauna, Wisconsin, and moved to Tillamook with his parents in 1890. After arriving at maturity he engaged in logging for a number of years in different parts of Tillamook county. He was united in marriage to Minerva Alley-Ludtke on December 25, 1917. They purchased a farm in God's Valley, where they resided until his death which occurred at Tillamook at the home of his parents on February 13, 1920, after an attack of Spinal Meningitis, which lasted two weeks, his age being 32 years, four months and twenty-five days. He leaves to mourn his loss his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Stasek, of Tillamook, Or., four brothers, Edw. W. Stasek, of Tillamook, Henry S. Stasek, of Seaside, Ore., Alvin F. Stasek, and Rudolph M. Stasek, of Vancouver, B. C. Also one sister, Miss Alice M. A. Stasek, of Tillamook, Ore.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our many friends for their kind sympathy and help in our recent bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Perry and family.

WHAT OTHERS THINK OF US.

An Attorney.

C. L. Starr, of Portland, one of our most devoted and admiring subscribers, attorney for the R. R., and several large lumber concerns in Tillamook County, who was here on business last week, made his usual visit to the Headlight office to raise the old Nick, because, Mr. Starr, who is usually persistent in spelling Mr. Starr's name "star", when addressing a copy of the paper to him. In plaintive tones Mr. Starr has besought the correction of this very same error, for many moons, and Mr. Baker has responded courteously, "That's right—S-T-A-R-R—The name is—change it, and immediately forgotten all about it. But in spite of this handicap they are excellent old buddies, swapping political prejudices and jibney cigars.

When asked to give his candid opinion of Tillamook, Mr. Starr, with impressive slowness, picked his way carefully and tactfully among the longest and most erudite words his vocabulary boasts, as people are wont to do when they "speak for publication." Gee, it's a shame we haven't a verbatim memory, capable of setting down what Mr. Starr has said, in sequipedalian verbiage, for it was truly classic. However, here is a modest, humble and unworthy attempt to duplicate his harangue:

"My business takes me into nearly every city and town in the state, and there is not a county in Oregon where those people I do not know, and know thoroughly from personal association. Therefore (look at that youngster going past—some baby. Ought to see mine, she's eleven months old)—therefore, I feel qualified to judge Tillamook's worth. Without making any odious comparisons (now this snap shot was taken just after she recovered from the colic. Of course, it doesn't begin to do her justice) and without any desire to flatter or any careless overstatement, I think that Tillamook County is better adapted to the industries of lumbering and dairying, which it has chosen as its forte, than any other county in Oregon is suited to the commercial enterprises in which it is engaged. (Yes, I walked the floor with her every night for three months, while she had the colic.) Tillamook farmers and business men are thrifty and progressive, but their ambition has not blinded them to the limitations of Tillamook's natural resources. There is not a sufficient volume of river water pouring into Tillamook Bay to sweep a clean channel to the sea, and it is improbable that there would be a very great monetary inducement to steamers to land at Tillamook Bay, so Tillamook, recognizing her inability to compete with the shipping facilities of Astoria, Portland, or Marshfield, wisely satisfies herself with the improvement of her railway projects, and enlargement of her already famous cheese business. (Now, this is my wife. Some queen. That's the baby's carriage standing in the background.) The alertness and modernity of spirits here is as refreshing as the splendid moist air, which always sends me away invigorated. I like Tillamook navigated, and if she continues to adhere to her present policy of knowing what she was out for and sticking to that, she should attain almost phenomenal success. Our great powers in the financial world have all specialized in one thing and succeeded. If a county full of people specialize in one thing, how much greater will their combined efforts be? (Yes, the baby has 5 teeth now. See where she cut them on my gold watch. Cute, isn't it?)"

A Journalist.

Richard Sharp, who has been associated with the Oregonian for six years, three on the editorial staff, and three in his present capacity of sporting writer, attended the recent boxing match at the Armory. It was his first visit to Tillamook and the beaches, and he was immediately impressed by the desirable location of the city, lying as it does in the center of the broad flat valley, guarded by surrounding sentinels of protected mountains, and placed neatly between parallel rivers. Someone handed him a hunk of Tillamook cheese, by way of welcome, and he was enraptured. He liked the people he met and the view of the ocean on the way down, diplomatically refraining from mention of the banana peels under the red plush seats on the Tillamook and Portland pullman. When asked how he enjoyed his trip on the S. P., Mr. Sharp said, "I wasn't frightened at the dizzy speed. I once rode with Ralph De Palma, and my brother-in-law knows a girl who used to keep company with Barney Oldfield, so my racing blood felt quite in its element on the way down here."

Mr. Sharp's one criticism of Tillamook was made to Fred C. Baker. "This town needs a daily paper. Why don't you make the Headlight one?" Mr. Baker, who already carries more responsibility than the day is long enough to digest, staggered pitifully murmuring feverishly, "For I'm to be queen of the May, Mother!"

Five Hundred.

There are few women that possess the natural quick tact and unaffected cordiality, so essential to the gracious art of hostess-ship, to such a degree that every guest at a large gathering, even the most diffident, is conscious of the sincerity of her welcome and is immediately placed at ease. Mrs. E. T. Haltom and Mrs. B. C. Lamb, who entertained at five hundred on Friday, February 20th, at the home of the former, may be placed in the admirable category, as an atmosphere of informality and genuine pleasure characterized the entire afternoon.

Bowls of yellow daffodils lent a colorful touch of spring to the living room, where five card tables were grouped about the huge fireplace. The musical numbers chosen by Mrs. E. T. Koch, were well received. "The Sunshine of Your Smiles" was always a favorite and "Dainty Little Love" a quaint and laughing bit of melody, were well adapted to Mrs. Koch's voice, which is neither powerful nor spectacular, its charm depending rather upon clarity of tone and that pleasing mellowness, lacking in dramatic soprano. Mrs. Koch accompanied her own singing.

During the serving of a tastefully prepared luncheon Miss Ramona Haltom played selection from "Rigoletto," and the winning of the prizes by Mrs. Reichers and Mrs. Condit was announced. Those present were Mesdames Robinson, Carlin, Brodhead, Turnbull, Anderson, Leslie, Leonard, Koch, Alderman, Clough, Lamar, McGrath, Kuratli, Groat, Hayes, Reichers, Gaylord, Condit, Schultz, Holden and Dyrland.

New Ferguson Picture.

Elsie Ferguson's latest Artcraft photoplay "The Avalanche," which is a picturization of Gertrude Atherton's famous novel, has scored an emphatic success and will be shown at the Gem Theatre next Wednesday, March 3. Aside from the inherent interest of the picture as a story of human passions and emotions, it has been produced on a most lavish scale. The support headed by Lumsden Hare is unusually clever.

C. C. Crushed to Earth Has Risen Again.

The well known Tillamook Commercial Club, whose ever-frequent election of officers and irregularity of session have been the butt of many a feeble jest for several years, has again become imbued with one of its periodical fresh spurts of vigor. Contrary to precedent, no directors were chosen at the meeting held at the American Legion Club Rooms on Thursday night, February 19th. Representatives from three lodges and A. L. and various business, industries and professions were in attendance, and it was voted that the club be tied to the hoodoo name, "Commercial Club," substituting the more pretentious title, "Chamber of Commerce."

The intention is to engage a secretary, recompense him adequately, hire an office for him to sit in, and have a Long Beach & Fullerton basketball team to play on. Ten years of experience have taught the instigators of this movement, that no matter how conscientious and eager and faithful a volunteer secretary may be, he cannot satisfactorily fulfill the duties of the office while selling picture frames, carrots or fire insurance (according to his particular occupation) with one hand, and writing a club report with the other. (You—the old "cannot serve God and Mammon" gag!)

The suitably paid secretary will hang out a lettered shingle, that will flap gently in the breeze, proclaiming to summer campers, tourists and visitors, that the Chamber of Commerce Information Bureau is at their service. Like a ministering angel, beaming beneficently, bearded with white hair, and containing turkey, chocolate cream and woolen underwear, the C. C. secretary will swoop down upon the impoverished and needy and disconsolate citizens of our town, dispensing noble mottoes and gold pieces to the grown-ups, and Jersey cream to the infants, paying the interest on the mortgage on the widows' homestead just as the psychological moment, when the proprietor of bloody Gulch Ice Cream Parlor and dance hall, is about to foreclose, in order to force the sheriff's daughter, into widow, into matrimonial servitude.

In addition to these features, it is the aim of the Chamber of Commerce to begin a publicity campaign for Tillamook County, advertising its beach resorts, its cheese, its air and its climate, boosting the roads specially (they need it) as a prime attraction for the motorist.

The next meeting of the C. C. will be held on Tuesday, March 2nd, at the A. L. Club rooms. It is anticipated that a member of the State Board of Commerce may somehow be induced to attend and speechify, so business men, who are interested in the growth of Tillamook's population and its resultant financial progress, may find it worth their while to forego shooting pool with Charlie or Louie, or playing dominoes with the kids that night and be present.

Now all together—Long live the Chamber!

High School Notes.

The students are all elated over the success of the debating teams. We now have a fine chance for the county championship.

A very exciting game of basketball was played at the armory Monday between Tillamook High School and Blaine. The score was thirteen to thirty-eight in favor of the high school.

Monday, Feb. 23, the schools were closed in honor of Washington's birthday.

Next Friday night our boys go to Blaine to play basketball. Our hopes are with the high school.

The executive council of the student body met Tuesday and decided that fifty per cent of the student body tax should belong to the debate, thirty per cent, athletic activities and twenty per cent miscellaneous. This will call for much discussion as many of the students think the athletics should receive a greater percentage of the tax.

Boys and Girls Clubs.

Mr. N. C. Maris, field worker for Industrial Pairs, from the office of the Department of Education, spent several days last week organizing Industrial club in the schools.

The prospects for the boys and girls club work this year look very good. At Cloverdale a large sewing club of fourteen members has been organized. Also a large club club.

A large club was organized at Hebo also one at Beaver and at Fairview. Mr. Maris was particularly interested in encouraging boys and girls in this county to organize craft clubs, this being particularly appropriate to this county. The dairymen are interested in pure bred stock, and the boys should be interested in this line, that they may early learn to be breeders of good stock.

Tillamook Fire Company Enters In Ince Contest.

The Pacific Coast Association of fire chiefs, through its President, Elliott Whitehead, chief of Oakland, Calif., fire department, has inaugurated a fire prevention contest with the express purpose in view of saving human life and conserving property interests.

Mr. Thos. H. Ince, proprietor of the Ince Moving Picture Studios, heard of the contest, offered a silver cup costing at least $500.00 as a prize to be given to the city showing the best fire prevention efficiency during the campaign, which for the first period is from January 1st, 1920, to June 30, 1920. Within the cup will be placed $750 silver dollars donated by the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Pacific Coast for the benefit of the members of the fire department of the city which succeeds in winning the prize.

Chief Thos. Coates has entered Tillamook City as a contestant, and with the co-operation of the citizens feels confident of being in the race.

Every citizen can help to win the Thomas H. Ince cup by taking precautions to prevent fires.

The fire boys are after the prize, so don't have that first fire this year. Make every month from now until July a "No Fire" month.

Boy Scouts can help to win the Thomas Ince cup for Tillamook. Chief Coates will explain how you can do it. Here is something worth while for you to do. Who is the Chief Scout?

Gienger Cooking Club.

County Superintendent G. B. Lamb is in receipt of the certificate of achievement issued to the Gienger Cooking Club. The names of the pupils of the school on this certificate, completing the work are: Alma Furr, Pauline Geiger, Lena Berli, Ruth Paul, Ernest Geiger and Homer Blum. These papers are signed by the governor of Oregon, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and other government officials, beside County School Superintendent and teacher.

New School Buildings in County

The progressive town of Wheeler voted a bond issue of $35,000.00 last Friday to build a new high school and grade school combined. Also a new school house to be built at Brighton and Cochrane.

Cloverdale will receive bids April 1st for a new school house.

Sandlake district recently voted funds to erect a high school building. The school district at Blaine is planning on building a new school house this year.

It is expected that the new Bay City High School will be ready for occupancy at the opening of the new school year in September.

High School Notes.

The students are all elated over the success of the debating teams. We now have a fine chance for the county championship.

A very exciting game of basketball was played at the armory Monday between Tillamook High School and Blaine. The score was thirteen to thirty-eight in favor of the high school.

Haltom's Advertising and Display Man.

Frank Plinsky, who for several years and until recently has been connected with the largest Dry Goods establishment in Bellingham, Washington, having done their advertising, window dressing and card writing, has been induced to come to this city, accepting a similar position with Haltom's. Although here but a few days Mr. Plinsky is favorably impressed with Tillamook and predicts a great future for the entire Tillamook valley. His wife and two small daughters will come to Tillamook soon.

The Tusatila Club.

Owing to Lucia and Muriel Wiley being sick, the club, which was to have met at their home, met at the home of Mrs. Alex McNair. The business meeting was called to order by the president Ramona Haltom. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Several important matters of business were brought up and discussed.

After which each girl was asked to write a piece of poetry of four lines on any topic she chose. The prize was awarded to Val Jean Prial. The following are some of the best poems.

Come to Tillamook that is the best The sun rises in the west, Our four thirty comes at seven, And only Presbyterians go to Heaven.

Tillamook had an awful freeze, That made you shimmie from your nutt down to your knees. Everybody was all froze up, And made you feel like a frozen pup.

Red Cross Nurse Department.

During the past six months the Red Cross Department of nursing has been establishing Red Cross courses to instruct home hygiene and care instruction home hygiene and care of the sick in secondary schools throughout the fourteen Red Cross Divisions.

How popular these lessons have become is shown in the constantly increasing number of schools that have adopted them. Recently 1,076 high school girls in New York state completed the course. In the Lake division, classes were being held in the schools of Gary, Ind., Elkhart, Ind., the parent teachers association is backing this movement. In Warren and Toledo, Ohio, this instruction is given to high school seniors at the expense of the school board. Thirty-one schools in Chicago are introducing home hygiene and care of the sick this winter. The Pennsylvania Delaware Division has two field secretaries who have spent the past month in addressing teachers' institutes and county fairs regarding "Cooperation in homes, schools and Churches in health education."

Four hundred and twenty-four high school students in Idaho, Oregon and Washington completed the course in home hygiene and care of the sick in the month of January. Owing to the shortage of nurses, these graduates are able to render valuable assistance during the recent influenza epidemic, particularly for the members of their own families.

The Aberdeen, Washington, Red Cross Chapter is forming first aid classes among Boy Scouts, firemen, and men in industries. The instructing nurse has a well fitted room in which she is more than busy with classes in home care of the sick.

Seattle chapter has sent into Division Headquarters a call for a full time instructor to carry on classes in Home Hygiene and care of the sick at the teaching center which is to be established at Chapter Headquarters.

Interest in the Home Hygiene and care of the sick course was manifested in a meeting of the Superintendents of high schools throughout the Everett, Wash., Chapter. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of a full time itinerant instructor in nursing.

The plan, as suggested, met with a great deal of interest and was approved by the superintendents present. Everett Chapter now has four nurses.

"Chimmie Fadden" At the Gem.

Do you remember that old song, "On the Bowery." It is the Broadway of those days, some twenty-five years ago, that is pictured in Paramount's picturization of E. W. Townsend's famous comedy, "Chimmie Fadden," starring Victor Moore, which will be shown at the Gem Theatre Friday, Feb. 27.

The Flu Epidemic.

Never before in the history of Tillamook county have such a large amount of sickness prevailed as in the past two weeks, for the flu epidemic is general in all parts of the county. It is generally conceded that the disease is more contagious than last year and the people of the county have not taken the precautions they did last year, hence the spread of the disease became more rapid. A general opinion prevailed for some time that people were only suffering with colds, but so many serious cases have developed knocking the props from under that delusion. To procure nurses from other places was very difficult for there was a great demand for nurses in all parts of the state. Dr. Boals, the county health officer, appealed to the Tillamook County Red Cross for nurses and two were sent here. They were placed in the emergency hospital in the city hall. It is fortunate that the disease does not affect the lungs in such large proportion as it did last year, for had it done so the toll of death would have been quite heavy.

A number of schools of the county have closed down, and the attendance at the city school was reduced 50 per cent.
