Coming "Sauce for The Goose."

If you were a pretty and neglected young wife what would you do if a middle aged and designing widow took advantage of your husband's interest in his work to try to win him from you? This is the problem which forms the basis for a delightful comedy "Sauce for the Goose" the new Select picture featuring Constance Talmage, which will be shown at the Gem next Sunday. Constance Talmage is a comedienne who knows the value of a sure light touch in spontaneous fun-making, and she more than fulfills the hopes and expectations of her many admirers by her delightful interpretation of Kitty Constance in this play.

"GOOD OLD DAYS" RECALLED

Century-Old Ledger Unearthed in Marietta, O., Makes Some Rather Interesting Reading.

Marietta, O., In 1797 paid $400.04 for the maintenance of the government, according to a ledger just brought to light from its hiding place of many years. December 28, 1797, was the date of the first entry in the book. Six years later Ohio became a state.

The county at that time was three times as large as it is today. The tax duplicate showed a total of $1,310. In the territory allotted to Washington county in 1797 were the towns of Marietta, Gallipolis, Middleten, Adams, Waterford, Salem and Bellepre now Belpre.

Six collectors were appointed, with headquarters in Marietta, and these men made their rounds in the "wild land" at the risk of their lives for a wage of $8.25. Indians surrounded the county, and in some instances the villages, so the tax collector was often lucky to return "body whole."

In 1798, according to the ledger, the district was divided into nine sections, instead of six, and nine collectors were chosen. Names of the men are given and their places of residence. The commission chose a board of three members and named a chairman in that year.

Meetings were held at the home of Joseph C. Lincoln, a Revolutionary war hero, and a member of the original Ohio company which settled in Marietta, the first town in Northwest territory.

Judges received 75 cents a day whenever they worked on the bench, the ledger records show. There were quarterly sessions and a judge for each session. Six cents a mile was paid a judge for each mile traveled. The foreman of the grand jury received 80 cents a day and the jurymen 50 cents and 3 cents a mile for travel to and from court.

Disbursements for advertising in Atlantic coast and New England town papers are mentioned in the ledger, showing advertising was a necessity in that day.

Roumanian Military Men Dandies.

The Roumanian, at least the city resident, is extremely fond of perfume, scented soap, rouge, cosmetics and other artificial aids to beauty. This applies not only to the women but to the men.

The average young Roumanian army officer is scented, powdered, rouged and often, it is said, corseted! His habits mark him for a good deal of rally on the part of foreign officers and visitors. In dress he is as faultless as a Beau Brummel and in manner as polite as a Lord Chesterfield. He is seen at his best on Saturday or Sunday afternoon on the Cause Victoria (the Fifth avenue of Bucharest).

Dressed in a sky-blue uniform, gaudily trimmed with red, high patent-leather boots with silvered spurs that clink noisily as he walks, glistening sword at side, white kid gloves and many military decorations, he makes a striking figure.

Just to remind the American workmanman of the sweet solace of alien competition let us call to his attention that so far in this year of free trade grace, we have imported $3,095,574,532 worth of goods in foreign markets, $2,330,222,338 of which came in free of tariff.

Senator Harding of Ohio said: "Many have thought the ratification of the peace treaty and its League of nations would make us normal, but that is the plea of the patent medicine faker whose remedy marvelously will cure every ill. Undoubtedly formal peace will help, and I would gladly spend the day if we sacrificed nothing vitally American. Yet, as a matter of fact, actual peace prevails and commerce has resumed its wonted way. My creed—call it selfish nationalism if you will; I think it an inspiration to patriotic devotion—thus expressed. To safeguard America first, to prosper America first, to think of America first, to live for the reverse America first."

HOW SALE OF STONES WORKS OUT IN ENGLAND.

—Visitors to the pretty county of Buckinghamshire are much interested in certain women working in the fields, who appear to be exceedingly busy picking up some objects which they place in a large square wooden box, says London Answers.

These women are engaged in picking up flints, which are used for repairing the roads, Buckinghamshire having no quarries from which it can obtain road material. The square wooden box into which the women pitch the stones is a measure called a "yard." This name is probably given to it because it is a measure a yard square by a yard deep, there being no bottom to the boxlike structure.

The farmer pays the women for gathering the stones and sells them later to the district council. Now comes the truly Bucks spirit for saving the taxpayer's money. Instead of counting the "yards," as they stand in the fields, the road authorities have them all heaped into a cart and removed to where they are needed on the roads. Here they are dumped down by the roadside in immense mounds. Before the farmers are paid these heaps of flints have to be again measured into "yards" by old roadmen.

These roadmen are deserving fellows and it is up to the authorities to see that they are properly employed. Perhaps that is the reason why the "yards" are not counted on the field.

How Leprosy Has Dwindled.

Most of the leprosy of the world is in Asia and Africa, though it is found in South and Central America, in South Russia, Greece, Turkey and Spain and on the shores of the Baltic and Iceland, and is not uncommon in Australia and Hawaii, where it was supposedly carried by the Chinese. It was anciently prevalent in all the known world, and in the middle ages was extensively diffused in Europe. Every considerable city on the continent had its leper houses, and in England at one time there were 95 religious hospitals for people thus afflicted. In the fifteenth century, however, it underwent a sudden and remarkable diminution and has now virtually disappeared from civilized lands. Most of the cases in this country are of Norwegian origin and are found in the northern tier of our western states.

How Sand Dunes Were Stopped.

On the coast of Gascony there are points where the dunes push forward more than four yards annually. In 1780 the advance of sand upon the land of Bourdeaux was the occasion of despair to horticulturists and crop growers, and the engineer, Bremon tier, made himself famous by converting the movable dunes into stationary ones. The task was undertaken to form a wall against the sand invasion by making a series of dikes, the dunes a little more than a meter high and putting planks between each pair. When the sand swept over the boards it had to break up its volume in the effort, and little by little a stationary dune would form with an inclination from 7 to 12 degrees in the direction of the sea. Behind this palisade was conveniently disposed a wide zone of the hardier shrubs.

How to Avoid Influenza.

There is one point regarding influenza on which the medical profession is in agreement. This is stated by the Journal of the American Medical Association as follows:

"The pulmonary complications of influenza, which make it so serious a disease, may be avoided to a large extent by rest in bed at the onset of the illness. Influenza itself is not usually fatal, and general insistence on the importance of rest and warmth at the onset of the illness will accomplish more than all else in preventing complications and reducing fatalities from the disease."

Why He Was Answering.

At a marriage service performed in a little country church, when the minister said, in solemn tones, "Will thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" (asking a woman answering for herself, a gruff man's voice answered "I will!" The minister looked up, very much perplexed, and paused. He repeated the sentence and again the same gruff voice answered "I will!" Again the minister looked up, when a man seated at the end of the first row said, "She's deaf, parson, an' I'm answerin for her!"

How Walk Shows Character.

The rolling gait in walking shows equality and jollity; the stiff, upright carriage, firmness, love of convention and lack of sympathy. The former is common to sailors and people who live a very free, out-of-door kind of life, and "do themselves well;" the latter to ministers, people with the legal turn of mind, and particularly the blue stocking type of women.

How to Check Flying Dust.

The dust that flies through the house every time the furnace is shaken and which causes such annoyance to the neat housewife, can be allayed if you lay a cloth wrung out of water over the registers.
