Nehalem Jottings.

Oscar Steele spent Saturday and Sunday in Tillamook on business.
Miss Nellie Corder returned last week from a short visit in Portland.
Wm. Morrison and family moved the first of the week from the Knight property on the hill to the Whitaker place, which was recently purchased by Mrs. Johanna York.
George Knight, who recently returned with his family from the Willamette valley, moved into the property made vacant by Mr. Morrison, the first of the week.
H. J. Hickerson and family left Monday in their auto for a few days visit with friends in the valley.
The revival meetings at the M. E. church closed last Sunday night, and Rev. Brymer left for Portland Monday morning. Much good has been accomplished by the meetings.
Last Saturday a goodly number of the pupils of the public school went in auto truck to the Alderale cheese factory to learn how cheese was made. Mr. Fletcher, the cheesemaker, was very kind and accommodating and explained everything very fully. Mrs. E. K. Barnes and Mr. Brimhall accompanied the children. This week the pupils will write essays on Tillamook cheese, in the county contest. Everyone enjoyed the trip.
Mr. and Mrs. Will Christensen, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Nunn, all from Wheeler, motored to the beach last Sunday. Wheeler being out of gasoline, the boys had to come to Nehalem to replenish their empty tank. You can always depend upon Nehalem.
Postoffice inspector Linebaugh was in from Portland last week to check over the accounts of postmaster Walter Mead and investigate some complaints that had been filed with the department. His accounts were found in excellent shape and upon investigation the bottom fell out of the complaints. Mr. Linebaugh made some suggestions for the betterment of the service and these will be complied with at once. The words of praise and commendation by the public here for the work of the carrier Mrs. Ruby Brooten would make any carrier in the state feel proud. They were justly given.
County Commissioner H. V. Alley returned from Portland last Saturday where he had been on business with the rest of the county court.
One more month of school. The final examinations will soon be here and then the summer vacation.
The fourth and last spelling contest will come on Friday, May 7. Are you getting ready for it?
Dr. W. A. Wise is now filling the place of Dr. Lebow, dentist, who with Mrs. Lebow are spending a month in the Wise dental parlors at Portland.
Governor Cox, of Ohio, in a speech at Marion, Ind., said that the profiteers were trying to "buy an underhold" on the country through the Republican party. Why should they buy an underhold when Governor Cox's party has been so nice about giving them a stranglehold?
The War department was a little short on aeroplanes and artillery, but it bought thirty-two million pairs of shoes. As there were only four million soldiers, it was evidently in mind to organize a centipede division.

Reformed Congregational Church.

10 a.m. Sunday School, 11 a.m. preaching.
How do you know that Christ is risen? Someone asked an old fisherman, whose faith in Jesus seemed very simple and sure. "Do you see those cottages near the cliff?" he replied. "Well, sometimes, when I am far out at sea, I know that the sun has risen by the reflection in those windows. How do I know that Christ is risen? Because I see his light reflected from the faces of some of my fellows every day, and because I feel the light of his glory in my own life. A reflection of Jesus! You and I may be that. Come and listen to our simple gospel preaching.
Rev. Richard Schuetze.

Tillamook Ten Commandments.

Fourth Commandment. Preachers, Thou shalt not consider the preacher as a pious divine being and a cruel human kill-joy. Verily it is generally supposed that if the preacher is exceedingly holy, it mattereth not what the rest of us mortals do. For surely, if the preacher is a perfect spotless divine human being, the rest of us, with most cheerful selfishness will refrain from competition with him in that line. Verily many a man who by a narrow margin escapeth from the gallows himself, is nobly interested and will worry anxiously over the imperfections of any preacher. Yea, even some man with a boundless ambition for the goodness of the preacher, will let the sparkle die upon his hard cider, while he maketh many wise suggestions how all preachers might be improved thusly and so. Verily the preacher goeth often into the sick room with the doctor and entereth the house of death with the undertaker and no man regardeth him with envy. Yea, he knoweth where there are many broken and grief-stricken hearts, while his own soul is bowed down with a burden of sympathy, yet no man sayeth thou shouldst not. Verily the preacher is better loved, better hated; more flattered, more criticised; more advised; more misunderstood than all men, but surely the Lord knoweth.
Rev. McRea.

Coaxing You to Smile.

20 Miles to the Gallon.
It is said a gentleman from town went to the country and saw tacked on a wayside house the legend: "Sider fur Sall," and entering asked for the rural dispenser, "Is this hard cider?"
"Sure," said he.
"How hard is it?"
"Well, my hired man, who never was right pert, filled up on the stuff the other day an' it downed the big road yellin' 'Glory hallelujah! IL'm still in the home of the brave an' th' land of the free."
"Gimme me a gallon," said the Belzonian.

It Depends.

A college student once asked President Elliot, of Harvard University, if he could not take a shorter course than the one laid down in the prospectus of the institution. "That depends," replied the president, "upon what you wish to make of yourself. When nature wants to make an oak she works away on the job a hundred years, but if she only wants to make a squash she needs only about six months."

The Correct Thing.

Mrs. Youngbride—"You know those lovely $9 dining room gongs we saw the other day? Well, today they were marked down to $6.98, and I got three."
Husband—"Heavens and earth! What did you get three for?"
Mrs. Youngbride—"Why one for each meal of course."

Alarming Alarm.

"Ah!" said the head clerk "I'm glad to notice that you're arriving punctually now, Mr. Sloccombe."
"Yes, sir, I've bought a parrot," "A parrot? What on earth for? I told you to get an alarm clock!" "Yes, I did. But after a day or two I got used to it, and it didn't wake me. So I got the parrot, and now when I go to bed I fix the alarm clock and put the parrot's cage on top of it. When the alarm goes off it startles the parrot, and what that bird says would wake up anybody."

Joking the Medico.

"And shall I be able to play the piano when my hands heal?" asked the wounded soldier.
"Certainly you will," said the doctor.
"Gee, that's great I never could before."

A War Story.

Edith Wharton, the writer, told this war story: "The American wounded were being brought in from the Marne battle," she said, "and a fussy American woman in a khaki uniform and Sam Browne belt knelt over a stretcher and said, 'Is this case an officer or only a man?' The brawny corporal who stood beside the stretcher gave her a grim laugh and said: 'Well, lady, he ain't no officer, but he's been hit twice in the innards, both legs busted, he's got two bullets in both arms, and we dropped him three times without his lettin' out a squeak, so I guess you can call him a man.'"

His Deduction.

"The world seems to have beaten a path to this man's door."
"It must be that he makes excellent mouse traps."
"Maybe, and maybe he's manufacturing moonshine."

Her Bringing Up.

A woman recently engaged a new maid with whose appearance and manner she was greatly pleased. When the terms had been agreed upon, the lady of the house said: "Now, my last maid was much too friendly with the policeman. I hope I can trust you." "Indeed you can ma'am," replied the new maid. "I can't bear policemen. I was brought up to hate the very sight of them. You see my father was a burglar."

Advising Her.

"Why do you spend all the day at the piano? Your wedding is only a month off."
"Ah, music is the food of love."
"A little practice on a gas range, however, won't come amiss after marriage."

Sounds Probable.

A young woman telephone operator recently attended a watchnight service and fell asleep during the ceremony. At the close the preacher said, "We will now sing hymn No. 341—341." The young woman, just waking in time to hear the number, yawned and said, "The line is busy."

Topics of Interest.

Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, after reading telegrams indicating that the strike threatened his state with starvation, said the strike had almost reached the state of red revolt or revolution, and added: "I want to raise my voice in behalf of action which will make unlawful in future any conspiracy to starve or freeze the American people. The time has come to find out in this country whether we have a government or not."

Fort Wayne, (Ind.) News: "Half of Mr. Wilson's party representation in the Senate voted against him on the treaty ratification resolution. These men represent constituencies who mandates they are not keen willfully to disobey. They had heard from home and knew what they were about. The token is plain that the American people in even greater majority percentage than the Senate want none of the treaty with its curse of an unamended covenant of the league."

John S. Leahy, of St. Louis, in Washington on his way to France, said: "Without doubt Missouri will be found in the Republican column this fall. There is no definite sentiment for any particular presidential candidate, the delegates already elected, consisting 26 out of the possible 36, being uninstructed. The prospect for Democratic success in Missouri this year is so bleak that Governor Gardner, who has often been mentioned as a democratic candidate for senator, has finally definitely declined to make the race."

Senator Thomas of Colorado, characterized the strike as part of an attempt to force government ownership of railroads. He said: "There is nothing haphazard about it. It is thoroughly organized and designed to punish 110,000,000 people so seriously as to compel them to acquiesce in any measure which may be demanded by the extremists. It is the same plan as is urged and financed from Russian sources. What can be expected when the government shakes its fist at strikers and then compromises with them. Senator Thomas maintained that the strike was an outgrowth of the coal strike."

Senator Smoot, of Utah: "A tax of one per cent on retail sales would result in an equitable distribution of burden and would be so light that it would not be burdensome to anybody. It would be a definite and fixed tax on consumption and use, with the advantage of being easily ascertainable and collectible, with no chance of the consumer being charged a higher rate. The rate would be so low that no attempt would be made to abuse or defraud the consumer. Indeed, in most cases, experience would prove, it would be paid through the operations of competition, by the distributors. A sales tax is simple in its workings and definite in its application. Its collection would require little expense, no complicated processes of bookkeeping, no maintenance of attorney and experts at the elbow of everybody, and, above all else, it would require no great army of government employees."

New York Tribune: "The railroad employes who are trying to paralyze transportation and cut off the public's food supply left their work without taking the trouble to formulate any grievances. As an afterthought, some demands for higher pay have now been drawn up. But to whom are those to be submitted? They have not been approved by a vote of the unions to which they belong. They cannot be laid before the railroad managements, because the latter have wage agreements with the unions, inherited from the area of government operation. The Esch-Cummins law provides for the submission of all wage disputes to the president. The strikers have disregarded both the law and their union obligations. They have repudiated all sense of duty to the public. They are making war on the community at large in order to force an acceptance of their illegitimate claims. The public cannot afford to compromise with such bushwackers. The strikers' action admits but one answer. Any appeal they make to public consideration or tolerance should be met with an emphatic 'No!' They have put themselves out of court."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "The door to government employment at Washington swings in, but seldom out. Thousands find it easy to get on the

ELECTION, MAY 21

STATE ROADS

Vote 302 X Yes

For 4% State Road Bond Limit

BALLOT TITLE IS AS FOLLOWS:

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT—Referred to the people by the Legislative Assembly.

LIMITATION OF FOUR PER CENT STATE INDEBTEDNESS FOR PERMANENT ROADS.—Purpose: To amend Section 7 of Article XI of the Constitution of the State of Oregon so as to permit the creation of debts and liabilities including previous debts and liabilities for the purpose of building and maintaining permanent roads to the amount of four per cent of the assessed valuation of all the property in the State of Oregon, instead of two per cent now provided by law.

NO PROPERTY TAX—NO DIRECT TAX
NO INCREASE IN AUTO LICENSE FEES
NO INCREASE OF GASOLINE TAX

Keep these three facts in mind. The present auto license fees and gasoline tax will pay both the principal and interest on all the bonds under this amendment, and will yield an annual surplus besides for other state highway work. No additional taxation of any kind.

FEDERAL FUNDS MUST BE MATCHED

Oregon must have sufficient Highway Funds to match Federal apportionments or Oregon cannot get the benefit of Federal money for Oregon Roads. Increasing this constitutional limit is a necessity. Unless limit is increased, either state roads cannot be completed for many years, or must be financed by direct property taxation. This measure averts direct property tax for state highways and makes early completion possible. Let's get the roads built now.

Income from Present Sources Sufficient to Pay Principal and Interest.

The fact that revenue from auto license fees and gasoline tax, without increase of present rates, will be ample to pay both principal and interest on these bonds, is clearly set forth by official figures in the State Pamphlet, mailed to every registered voter. Refer to State Pamphlet for verification. Examine this table carefully. It proves that no property tax is required and that present rate for auto license fees and gas tax will reduce principal and interest and yield surplus besides.

payroll, but never find it convenient to step off. When the government needed a great number of additional employes to carry on the non-combatant end of the war, comparatively little trouble was incurred. Now that the fighting has ceased for sixteen months, these additional employes stick to their useless desks like a porous plaster to a boy's shrinking bosom. There are at the present time, according to the statements on the floor of the house, 40,000 unnecessary, idle employes' drawing government salaries at Washington. "Temporary" buildings erected to house them and their war-time activities are all being maintained at tremendous expense. Kind-hearted, but money-wasting senators and representatives are overcome with emotion at the thought of separating this unnecessary idle civilian army from its sinucures. The civil service commission, meanwhile, is advertising the lure of government employment. Young men and young women are urged to add their numbers to the 40,000 "idle" already drawing salaries for work not performed. Only an occasional member of Congress has courage enough to protest against the waste and inefficiency involved in such a situation.

Announcement.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Joint-Representative of the 14th Legislative District, composed of Tillamook and Yamhill counties.

F. R. Beals.

The New York World started in to support Herbert Hoover for President on an old ticket, but now that the gentleman has decided to be a republican the World's covenant is seen to contain a number of straight Democratic reservations, of course.
