

What's become of the prejudice against automobiles because they frightened the horses

NOW cars are everywhere. The horses have gotten used to them—and so has everybody else. Think of it! This year the American people will spend nearly a billion dollars on tires alone.

Tires are one of the biggest items on the car owner's bills.

Hardly a Saturday, when you motorists drop in to "tune up" for a Sunday trip, that one or more of you doesn't tell us something of value to our business. Sooner or later it comes back to you in Service.

Service is what the car owners of this community are looking for nowadays.

And especially the small car owners, who put service first in figuring their motor-ing expenditures.

Just because a man has a moderate-price car is no reason why he should get any less service out of his tires.

We believe that the man with the small car is entitled to just as good tire service as the man with the big car—and both are entitled to the best tire service they can get.

That's why we represent U. S. Tires in this community.

And why more car owners—large and small—are coming to us every day for U. S. Tires.

Come in and talk to us about tires. We're here to help you get the kind of tires you want.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Dubuque (Ia.) Times-Journal: "President Wilson will veto any resolution declaring that the war is at an end. Remember that we gain nothing in any case—not one cent of indemnity, not one foot of ground. We have no material losses to risk as a result of declaring peace. The result would all be on the credit side. The officials appointed for the duration of the war should now take a vacation. The oppressive legislation which is in force for the duration of the war could be dispensed with. Even some of the war taxes and war prices could be let go and the American people would not complain about the loss. But, no—the president will veto peace. War officials, war legislation, war taxes, war prices: all the splendid blessings of the war will continue if he has his way. If you feel as he does, drop a line to your senators urging them to stand by the president—he is keeping us out of peace. We can reelect him if we want the war to go on. We trade with raising funds to put German business Germany. American financiers are league of nations was born, gave a few feeble cries, and is now in existence. We all know what splendid on its feet. The great powers have revised the treaty of peace. The work it is doing. The rest of the world may have peace. But one man wills that our country shall not have peace. And the American people fold their hands and let him have his way in this matter as in all the rest in which he has played the part of a dictator."

Minneapolis (Minn.) Journal: "There are still a hundred and two thousand government employes in Washington—all hanging on to their places with every ounce of pull and influence they can command. One of the hardest things Congress has to do is to separate a public office holder from his sinecure. But this Congress has slashed a billion dollars from the appropriations, and forty thousand of these extra employes will have to let go on July first. Even then the government's payroll will be almost twice as large as it was before the war. It takes a long time to close up the war work. Some of this work is legitimate, no doubt, but there is a lot of it that should be abandoned or condensed. Reduction of war taxation is the great need of the hour. It is the shortest and best path to an easing of economic conditions, to a decrease in the cost of living. The way to reduce taxes is to spend less money for government processes. And since it is not to be expected that office holders will voluntarily quit or that department chiefs will of their own accord cut down their forces or their estimates, the job is up to Congress. We need courageous men in Congress to stand firmly against all waste and extravagance. The pressure is tremendous and it takes real men to withstand it."

Omaha (Neb.) Bee: "The owner of a Chicago restaurant has retired at 62 with a fortune of $200,000. He has been selling coffee and rolls for 10 cents, fried sausage for the same price, ham and eggs for 25 cents, and other things at the same low figures. Three policies brought him his success, he says. They are: 1. To have something good sell. 2. To advertise it. 3. To be charitable. For every kind act during his business career he declares he has received a hundredfold in return. That attracts our attention, for we concur in his belief. The man who conquers his natural selfishness to the extent of voluntarily assuming responsibility for the care and comfort of all who have a natural claim on his sympathy and assistance, never suffers because of it. Indeed, we believe he profits by it, financially, as well as spiritually. It is not an idle text which says: 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

Probably the reason they decided to hold the Democratic national convention at the Golden Gate was in the hope that they might be able to show Bryan the Gate.

The Edison sings at its work—and so will you!

You expend absolutely no effort, except to guide the material under the flying needle. The low, musical hum of the motor and mechanism of the Edison Electric Sewing Machine does not interfere with pleasant chatter, on an afternoon spent in agreeable company with profitable employment. The discussion of important details of dressmaking is not drowned or made difficult. You are not annoyed with bobbins that "give out," or shuttles that catch the thread. You simply release the imprisoned power of the motor, and at whatever speed you may desire, from one to one thousand stitches a minute, your EDISON turns out smooth, even seams, neat tucks, stitchings of every sort—with the utmost precision and ease.

It's easily possible for you to own this sewing machine at once! Ask about terms.
