Senator Chamberlain has been jumping the political fence quite often. He voted for Wilson's peace and then voted with the republicans for reservations. When the peace resolution was before the senate, he jumped the fence again and voted against peace with Germany. Our George is doing some rather queer political jumping of late. What's the next jump, George?

Sugar is going higher and is reported to be 30c per pound in some places. Gasoline has become scarce, and, consequently, up goes the price. And news reports say that sugar and gasoline is dearer because England is getting the lion's share. Why not prohibit the exportation of sugar and gasoline from the United States, for that would have a wholesome effect? But the democratic administration is winking its eye at the profiteers while they rob the people. Some people look upon the shortage of gasoline as a blessing. Maybe it is, but the fellow who has invested in a new auto and expected to get some enjoyment out of the investment, don't look at the matter in that light.

The vote for nomination for United States Senator in the democratic party shows plainly that there is a serious split in the democratic party and in November many democrats will not vote for George Chamberlain. Starkweather's vote in some counties was a great surprise, not because President Wilson was opposed to Chamberlain, but because he voted with the administration during the early stages of the discussion of the treaty of peace and then, when he saw the drift of public opinion, flopped over and voted with the republicans. When Senator Chamberlain voted to keep the country out of peace and was in favor of the Wilson covenant, he must have thought at that time that was the proper thing to do. The Senator reversed himself and has been on both sides of the fence.

The republican voters nominated Homer Mason for county judge and H. V. Alley for county commissioner on account of their experience, and they were wise in doing so. It was during Mr. Mason's former term as county judge that the first hard surfaced roads were built and other permanent work commenced, and as it is the intention of both Mr. Mason and Mr. Alley to center their road activities on hard surfaced roads, we hope to see the hard surfaced road through the county completed in the next few years. This is something that all our citizens in every section of the county should strive to bring about. Delay in doing so means a very large amount of road money being used on macadam roads. A hard surfaced road through the entire length of the county will be a great asset as well save the county thousands of dollars every year.

That wasn't giving the speed cop a square deal to shut off the supply of gasoline just as he was getting busy rounding up the speeders. Some of those who are unfortunate in being caught pay their fines with a smile, which is the best way out, and some get peeved, but that don't help any. All speeders look alike to the speed cop, and it is right, for there should be no special favors extended to anyone who violate the state law. And we want to say there are hundreds in this county who are doing it. All the sympathy we have for them when they get caught is for the justice of the peace to impose heavy fines and put a few in jail, for that is the only way to put a stop to speeding. A large number of persons have turned the public highways into race tracks, and this must be put a stop to.

Quite a few little political stunts were pulled off in this county in connection with the primary nominating election, one of which was democrats changing their political affiliations on the day of election in Wheeler precinct. There were ten democrats who did that in that precinct, and strange to relate, not one republican deserted his party to vote for democrats. Seeing that Wheeler precinct was lined up for certain republican aspirants, it was, we suppose, perfectly proper to line up a few democrats to help swell their votes. But, alas, the democratic vote in this election did not cut much figure. Yet it goes to prove that there are those, to gain their own ends, who will not scruple to violate the spirit of the primary election law. A question has been raised whether a voter can change his political affiliations on election day. It is the opinion of District Attorney T. H. Goyme that they can. Of course we do not know the motives that prompted these ten democrats in Wheeler precinct to change their political affiliations on the day of election, but the inference is they were lined up by someone to nominate certain republicans. But its all in love, war and politics.

Guernsey Club Meeting.

The regular monthly Guernsey Club meeting will be held, Tuesday June 15th, at office of Tillamook Creamery Assn., at one o'clock sharp. Many important matters regarding the Guernsey importation to be decided. A full attendance is desired. H. Mason, Sec.

The Gasoline Situation.

The committee appointed at the citizens meeting Monday evening met the next morning, Tuesday, at Carl Haberlach's office, where were present Messrs. Haberlach, Rogers, Boon, Watson, Pankow, Martin and Harrison.

A form of card was formulated and ordered printed. Applicants for gasoline will have to fill out card showing need for gasoline. Cards to be had at Merchants Protective Association from Leslie Harrison, secretary of the committee. Mr. Harrison will look after the needs of automobiles, milking machines and silo cutters. The Standard Oil Company will look after trucks and industrial needs of different kinds as well as motor boats.

There is genuine shortage of gasoline and everyone should help in curtailing the use of gasoline for several weeks. Long and needless trips should be cut out, and users should make as few trips as possible. The garages are not to charge over the usual price for gasoline.

A charge of 52c per card will be made to cover overhead expense of system.

Tillamook Guernseys.

In the current issue of the Guernsey Breeders Journal is an article on the Guernsey in the Northwestern States. Considerable space is given to the breed in Oregon and in Tillamook County. Several pictures of Tillamook Guernseys are in evidence. This article was written by F. B. Hills, Assistant Secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle Club, after a three months trip throughout this section of the country. He sings the praises of our fine climate and natural dairy feeds. This kind of free advertising pays for the breed journals and are read by nearly all the breeders of pure bred cattle. These are the progressive men in a community and no doubt some of them will be looking for new locations and look into Tillamook County's resources and advantages before settling somewhere else.

Those interested in the breed will be glad to know that the Tillamook County Guernsey Club is to receive 22 head of the Peer Importation, direct from the Isle of Guernsey some time this month. These are to be distributed throughout the county, the exact method of distribution to be determined at the regular meeting of the club next Tuesday, June 15th. Remember that the Island has no tuberculosis and no abortion. You are therefore safe in buying these heifers.

Discuss Topics of Interest.

Kansas City Journal: "Just where the inauguration should take place if a candidate in the penitentiary were elected President is one of those puzzling constitutional questions which the courts have never passed on yet. But, doubtless, the socialists will find a way out—of the dilemma, of course—by the time the emergency arises."

Raymond Swing cables from Berlin to the New York Sun-Herald: "The rise in the international value of German currency instead of proving a boon has brought business of this country into serious difficulties which may develop into a crisis of the first magnitude. Many bankruptcies, the closing down of many factories and a great increase in unemployment are predicted by trade experts. They declare that the only hope of averting this crisis lies in Germany's purchasing strength in foreign countries, and this is not lacking at present, but a steadily increasing weakness of the purchasing strength is foreseen."

St. Louis Times: "The elaborate argument that Senator Knox made on his peace resolution, covering many pages of the Congressional Record, proved beyond quibble that the armistice was but a euphemistic term for a capitulation, that the war really ended when the foe was rendered helpless to renew the conflict, that silent cessation of hostilities also ended it, that the government against which our limited declaration of war was made had passed from existence, that every war aim was achieved, as President Wilson repeated in several forums in his public proclamation and his special message to Congress, Nov. 11, 1918, that the subsequent negotiations and the terms of the treaty formally made peace for the whole world, including the United States, and that only whimsical restrictions made by our own administration using war powers that should have automatically ceased with the coming of peace, prevent us having the same trade relations with the late foe that our cobelligerents have."

Col. Edward W. Ryan, Red Cross commissioner for North Russia and the Baltic states, says the Russian bolshevik government is a "social adventure become a ghastly failure." Col. Ryan is just back from a visit into Russia with the Estonian peace delegation and his observations are contained in a report received by the State department. He says: "The state of transport facilities goes far toward telling the story of the whole breakdown of Russian polity. The solemn fact that transport for all practical purposes and as a means of keeping up the national life has virtually approached the vanishing point. The disintegration of society is glaringly apparent to the casual observer. Inhabitants are evidently without hope and go about with a vacant stare. Public morality may scarcely be said to exist. The moral breakdown all along the line is serious, if not irreparable."

Dubuque (Ia.) Times-Journal: "There really ought to be no room for the calamity howler. We have had enough predictions of this and that evil in the past few months, and nothing came of all the terrible fears. * * * In our country it is clear that radicalism has had its day. Even in the socialist convention the extreme radicals were voted down. A sensible view of international relations is taking the place of the Utopian scheme the President brought back from Paris. His attempt to force his ideas on the country has failed, and its place we shall no doubt develop a more practical plan of international cooperation. The optimist can see the first signs of a decline in prices. The necessity of increased production is being realized. Slowly the process of deflation is doing its work of overcoming the evils of inflation, and the country is slowly and steadily returning to a normal condition of life. A comprehensive view of the world situation will show that we are in a world which is tediously making its way to the light and we need the cheer of the optimist to help it along."

Of course we all like to see a favored son advanced to a position of honor and trust, whether State Senator T. B. Handley was wise in accepting the position of corporation commissioner time will tell, for there is no telling in these political jobs when a fellow's head is coming off.
