Killed Five Bear And One Cougar

W. H. Chance seems to be quite an expert at bear hunting as he has killed five within the last month, bringing three of the hides down with him from the North Fork of the Trask Monday.

One day last week some children were playing along the river bank when they saw a frightened deer run out of the bushes and plunge into the water and swim across. They heard a scream and soon a cougar, that had been pursuing the deer, came down and paced along the water's edge, but the deer was out of its reach. The deer came within a few feet of the children and seemed quite tame. Mr. Chance, with C. H. Himes, trapped for the cougar without success until one morning they found the trap was gone. They searched for it some time, and soon Mr. Himes looked over a log, and found himself face to face with the cougar. It was rather close quarters for Mr. Himes, we imagine, as his face was about a foot from Mr. Cougar's nose. After it had been killed it was found to measure nine feet in length, being two feet longer than the one killed a short time ago by Ike Wells.

The Car Shortage in Tillamook

The car shortage seems to be rather worse in Oregon than in most other places, as Portland is on the end of the Southern Pacific line and the other railroads are branches from it, and all the empty cars that are received are shipped from the southern part of California. The real reason for the car shortage is this: Because of the switchmen's strike in southern California only 60 per cent of the needed number of cars are sent up to this end of the line, and the car distributor at Portland sends them where they are needed most.

The Coates mill here at Tillamook is the only one of the many mills that are being handicapped by the shortage of cars in which to ship the lumber. It is rated as being able to use only 3-4-10 cars per day, and as each car will carry only twenty-five thousand feet of lumber, and the daily out put of the mill is from eighty to ninety thousand per day it is necessary to pile the most of it up for shipment at a later date. If the conditions do not change in the very near future the mill will close.

The situation is bad also at Wheeler, while at Brighton the streets are even piled full of lumber. The company is receiving only a few cars and are able to ship only a small per cent of the lumber that is cut daily, so it is causing new docks to be built, that a greater amount of lumber can be stored before the mill is forced to close.

Ray Grate, the S. P. agent, said there would be a change soon, and that the supply would eventually become normal.

Increase in Freight Rates Urged

As an educational campaign to acquaint the public with the relation between freight rates and commodity prices, Agent Ray Grate, of the Southern Pacific Company received a orange and black poster today, which is being effectively posted in the local passenger station.

The poster sets forth the actual cost of transportation by freight of a commodity used considerably in this community, and shows that a 25 per cent increase in the freight rates would have little, if any significance to the consumer, for example:

Freight Rates on Your Clothes.
It costs less than 15 2-5 cents to ship a suit from Chicago to Tillamook. Its average weight is 4 lbs. An increase of 25 per cent in freight rates will add less than 5 cents to each suit to this cost.

The people of Oregon are willing to pay a rate needed for a reasonable return of the money invested to assure good railway service.

Similar posters are appearing in railroad stations from El Paso to Portland and from San Francisco to Ogden.

Agent Grate said in an interview, "A freight rate that is too low for the railroad is too low for the shipper. In the economic readjustments that are inevitable, commodity prices and freight rates will seek approximately a common level. A decrease

Does Love Spur Ambition in a Young Man's Bosom?

Is love a spur to a young man's ambitions? The author of "Kidder & Co." the Pathe Play that is to be shown as the big feature at Gem Theatre, Wednesday, June 16 proves it with his delightfully written play. Bryant Washburn has the part of a young man whom nobody believes will amount to very much. Then he falls in love—and he achieves a success in a typically young manly way that will delight the beholder; especially if he is inclined to look upon the rosy mixture of love and business with tolerance and approval.

Olive Thomas Coming in Novel Drama of the Sea

When Olive Thomas comes to the Gem Theatre next Sunday, June 13, in her new Selznick Picture, "Out Yonder," local fans will see the dainty artist role which is in striking contrast to anything she has done before.

As the daughter of a lighthouse keeper on a lonely reef "somewhere in the Atlantic," Miss Thomas is called upon to display her versatility and dramatic talents in a most impressive and unusual way.

The play tells of the love of Edward Elmer, a wealthy society man, for "Flotsam," a little waif of the sea, whom he has met by chance. Flotsam returns his love but many obstacles must be overcome before the two win ultimate happiness.

"Out Yonder" is said to replete with colorful atmosphere and thrilling situations. There is a death-struggle in the lighthouse which, by sheer realism, holds its audience spellbound. This is said to be one of the most realistic scenes that the master hand of Director Ralph Ince has yet brought into being.

The Highway Commission and Tillamook County Roads

The County Court was in Portland last week to attend the meetings of the State Highway Commission, and they bring back the following report as to what was done in regards to the road work in Tillamook county.

"To insure all year roads and not lose the grades, the state highway commission ordered that one hundred and eighty miles of road to be ready for contracting at the July meeting. About fifteen miles of this will be in Tillamook county. By the time the winter rains set in the highway will be in condition to carry heavy traffic. The rock is to be placed on the road and macadam placed on top of them, and when they have been down a year or two they will be in better condition for hard surfacing than they would be if paved immediately following the making of the grade. Also by the time the roads have been pounded down by traffic, the bond market and the labor market may be such that the commission may feel justified in resuming the programme of hard-surfacing. Not all the highway sections ordered rocked are in the programme for hard-surfacing, however, but the ones in Tillamook are.

"For the road to Tillamook, the commission will advance the money to Yamhill county to grade from Sheridan to Willamina, and the state will surface it. From Willamina to Tillamook county line the commission will ask Yamhill county to cooperate on a new road so far as the route is within Yamhill county. From Hebo, to the end of the paving in Tillamook county, the engineering department is instructed to arrange for rock as rapidly as possible to justify calling for bids for rock. This same policy applies to five miles north crossing will have to be built at Juno, between Tillamook and Bay City and the commission will accept the proposition of the Tillamook county court to build the approaches for the cost. The county has steam shovels which it can put to work at that place within a month. The cost of the overhead will be 20 per cent each for the state and county and 40 per cent for the company."

Theodore Arenz is in Portland this week on business. He left Thursday and will return Saturday.

Tom Mix in a New and Powerful Role

Tom Mix is coming, not only in what is said to be his biggest production, but in a role which is a distinct departure from pure "stunt stuff." Wm. Fox will present him in "The Feud" on Tuesday, June 15 at the Gem Theatre.

The opening episode is laid in the Bluegrass region back in the days of hoopskirts and romance. Tom Mix is seen as Jere Lynch, whose family is actively engaged in an ancient feud with the Summers family. The heritage of hate does not prevent Jere from loving pretty Betty Summers, but it does lead to dramatic complications in which the feud breaks out with renewed intensity.

The role of Jere Lynch calls for considerable ability as an actor, and the work of Tom Mix, it is predicted, will delight his many followers and bring him new admirers.

I. O. O. F. News Notes

Lodge met as usual last Tuesday night, and although there was only about 30 members present the work of the Lodge went on as usual, and E. F. Schultz was ably initiated.

Two other candidates who were to be here, were unable to come, and will now wait until July 6, when the next class will start in the work. The County Convention of the I. O. O. F. meets in Wheeler, Saturday, June 12. All day and evening sessions. On account of the gas shortage a good many will be unable to attend, but all who can go, will be well repaid for their efforts, for all such meetings, help to fulfill the works of Odd Fellowship.

Bro. Peter Schranz was reported progressing favorably, but as his house keeper has left, he is greatly in need of a housekeeper, and if anyone knows where help can be secured, please report to your secretary.

Bro. H. C. Hanson reported bedfast in Portland, at the Congress Hotel, and Br. Ross Chilcott about ready to leave his quarantine where he has been housed up for the past few weeks. If you know of any other Bros. who are sick, be sure to report them at our next meeting.

Rebekahs attended in large numbers at their last meeting, there being over 100 members and visitors in the Lodge room.

All Encampment members requested to attend Lodge this Thursday eve, June 10, as we have a large class to be obligated in the Patriarchal, and instructed in the Golden Rule degrees; then a big boiled crab feed following in the dining room.

As the warm weather comes around again, the same old story, must have ventilation in the lodge room, and this time something is going to be done, come in and see the ventilator.

Some feed the committee put over last night, you should have been there.

Lodge meeting always on time Tuesday evenings at 8.

The Way of Our Clothes

We don't imagine that all the young people of Tillamook have had the opportunity or taken the time to go through the laundry and see just what happens to our clothes when we send them there dirty and grimy and have them returned to us, clean and fresh again, so let us suppose that we are going thru the one here at Tillamook together and having the different processes explained to us by Mr. Waggy.

First, the clothes go in at the back door and then are taken out at the front door, so they can be said to have been clear through. The dirty clothes are sorted as soon as they are brought in, and are marked. The marker used is the latest mechanical device, made for that purpose, which is something like an adding machine, and something like a typewriter.

The clothes are then put into the washing machines, which churn them until the dirt is removed. They are then put into a round machine, which works on the principle of centrifugal force, which wrings them. The clothes are not dried, with the exception of the woollens, which are placed in another round machine, called the tumbler, which rolls and tumbles them. There is steam in the inside of the tumbler, and when the clothes are taken out they are soft, warm and dry. The sheets, pillow cases and towels are run through the flat work tumbler, which used to be called a mangle. It consists of a huge roller, made on the same principles as the ordinary clothes wringer, and when the clothes are run thru it, are dry and ironed when they come out.

The most interesting process is the ironing of the shirts and collars. The shirts pass through several different hands, the first machine that irons the backs and the fronts, another one, a small round one, irons the collar bands, and women iron the sleeves and cuffs. They are then passed on to the finisher who smooths and folds them. Did you know that a simple stiff white collar passes through about seventeen different hands while it is being laundered? And then a great many of us think that laundryman ought to get rich by charging a few cents apiece for them. After they are washed they are pressed out flat by a machine, then another small device dampens the seams, and still another turns them. They are then put into a round receptacle which shapes them, this piece of machinery reminds us a great deal of a collar bag.

Mr. Waggy says that he has seven hundred regular customers, all the way from Beiding to Neskowin, as there is no other laundry in the county. Fourteen people are employed, and it keeps Mr. Waggy very busy indeed, attending to the office work.

Obituary

Lilly Ann Branstetter was born at New Harmony, Pike County, Missouri, April 9, 1866. She became a Christian at nine years of age and joined the Methodist Episcopal church, South. In 1888, she removed to Las Cruces, New Mexico, where she lived with a sister for nine years, and, in 1902, was united in marriage at The Dalles, Ore., to Wm. J. Branstetter to whom she was a devoted companion until her decease.

In 1914, Mrs. Branstetter united with the Church of the Nazarene at Madras, Ore., and was later transferred to the church in Tillamook. For several years she and her husband resided in and near Pacific City, Ore., where they were much loved and appreciated by the community. Her last illness covered a period of about three months and terminated at the hospital in Pendleton on May 24, 1920. She was loyal to her Master and faithful in her church work, and will be missed greatly by all who knew her. The funeral was held in the Methodist church in Madras, her pastor having charge, assisted by the M. E. minister and his choir. A large company of friends and relatives were present to pay their respects to her memory, and interment was made in the local cemetery.

Mechanical Engineering

Learn at Home!

Employers everywhere are looking for men with mechanical ability. Splendid salaries and rapid advancement are offered to those with special training.

There is an easy delightful way in which you can learn right at home in spare time. For 28 years the International Correspondence Schools have been giving men and women just the training they need for success in mechanical engineering and more than 200 are subjects. Hundreds of thousands have stepped into good positions through I. C. S. help, but never were opportunities so great as now.

Let the I. C. S. help you. Choose the work you like best and send us a post card or a letter. This doesn't obligate you in the least and it will bring you information that will start you on a successful career. This is your chance. Don't let it slip by. The most important thing you have to do is to write that letter or post card now.
