Editorial Snap Shots.

It may not be out of place to remark that instead of troubling about buying cow feed, the question of raising more feed looks to be the most important.

There continues to be a cog loose somewhere in mail arriving in this city from McMinnville, for one of our exchanges from that city did not reach us until yesterday.

No one wants to see a sudden drop in prices, but it is just as well to be prepared for a wonderful lot of foreign manufactured articles are going to be shipped into the United States before the free trade democratic law can be changed to protect American made goods from foreign competition.

We have been asked by the chairman of the state democratic central committee to send complimentary copies of the Headlight to the democratic headquarters. We are inclined to think that the Headlight would not be a welcome visitor to the party that kept us of war and kept us out of peace.

We heard a visitor compliment the garages of this city. He stated that the garage men were exceedingly obliging in attending to visitors and fixing their auto troubles as expeditiously as possible, and he said the garages had splendid crews of experienced mechanics. But what pleased the visitor most was the fair and reasonable charges.

Quite a few Tillamook postmasters are not complying with post office rules in regard to newspapers that are mailed to their offices and where the parties have moved away. The postmasters should notify the publishers, and there is a card for that purpose. Postmasters who have not done so and have allowed newspapers to continue coming to their offices are not following the postal laws.

With the building of the road between Tillamook and Yamhill counties, this will give Tillamook county two very important and pretty loops from the Willamette valley. Considering the comparative small expense that is would be to this county and the great benefit it would be to this county, especially the Nestucca Valley, the road should be built next year.

It is fortunate that capital punishment was re-enacted otherwise there would have been a hanging bed at Pendleton last week when the murderers of Sheriff Taylor were captured. They will no doubt, be sentenced to death and as ex-Governor West was instrumental in having the capital punishment law repealed, it would not be out of place to appoint him state hangman, provided he did not seek the taxpayers for a big fee.

It may be the correct thing for the business men to do—subscribe over a thousand dollars for a commercial body in another city, but that amount of money in the treasurer of a local commercial body would be a mighty fine thing and do a whole lot of good. The good old adage that charity commences at home holds good today. What kind of response would be given to a person who tried to raise a thousand dollars for a commercial body in this city. So why not first consider our needs and necessities first?

There is no altering the fact that 21 Democratic Senators voted for the Lodge reservation, which the Democratic National Convention denounced. There is no writing out the fact that 14 Democrats voted for the Lodge reservation covering the famous Article X, which President Wilson said was "cutting the heart out of the Covenant." Are those 21 and 14 Democrats real orthodox Democrats? The people are getting confused and perplexed. What will Candidate Cox do with those Democrats who refuse to run along with the White House mind?

One of our citizens said he heard a good joke on a snap shot man, so we were inquisitive to know what it was, as we like to hear jokes, even if they are at our expense. "The people here don't know nothing. All they read is the Headlight and the Oregonian. We do not know anyone in Tillamook that belongs to the 'know nothing party,' hence it must be a democrat that sprung the joke, for nobody is expected to know anything in the democratic party, but President Wilson, all others having 'pigns' minds.

This is what a newspaper says: "Within the last day or two the point of attack on Coolidge has been disclosed. He is to be assailed for vetoing a 2.75 per cent beer bill passed by the Massachusetts legislature. In such an attack democratic leaders see effective appeal to those who in the industrial centers of the east who have not already lined up behind Cox."

That plainly shows that the democrats expect to appeal to the "wets" to elect Cox.

It's only a few years ago that Bro. Troumby complained bitterly about the high cost of living under the republican administration, and the democratic party had a plank in its platform denouncing the republican party, so a correspondent has sent the following clipping from the Herald and want Bro. Troumby to explain "how, when and where" have the democratic party reduced the high cost of living and the democratic party fulfilled its promises to the people. This is the paragraph referred to:

"We denounce the prodigal waste of money wrung from the people by taxation through lavish appropriations of recent Republicans Congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a Democratic government."

No one need be surprised to hear that the foolish system of paroling persons convicted of crime, instead of curtailing it, did the opposite thing. There are exceptional cases where judges can and should use the parole to good effect, but there was nothing to justify the wholesale parole system that was in vogue during Governor West's administration. We always thought that the governor was wrong and his parole propaganda was done for political effect. When a circuit court judge makes the surprising statement that 75 per cent of the men paroled appeared again in court on second offenses show conclusively that Governor West did the wrong thing when he threw open the doors of the state penitentiary and allowed a large number of the criminal class to commit more crime. From the looks of things crime appears to be on the increase in large cities, and unless it is promptly and severely dealt with it will continue to increase. There have been too many nobby-pamby methods used instead of sternness. We do not think it is possible to prevent crime altogether, but we do think it would greatly decrease if the parole system was done away with altogether.

The Automobile's Greatest Achievement Among Cities.

In the '80s of the last century Detroit was a one-horse town. In the '20s of this century it is a 32-city city. More than any other one industry, that of manufacturing automobiles wrought the marvelous change. In the census of 1920 Detroit lingered in the laggard group of American cities of the fifth class, cities whose population was less than half a million, such as Buffalo, Milwaukee, New Orleans or San Francisco. But according to the census of 1920 it has rushed into the group of cities of the third class, such as Philadelphia, cities having a population of 1,000,000, for the present population is only 6000 or 7000 short of 1,000,000. Its business men's boast last May that it had a population of 975,000 proves to have been an underestimate by nearly 20,000. It presses toward the size of Philadelphia, the third metropolis of the Union, and may come close to the Pennsylvania town in another generation, if not within a decade.

Detroit's gain in population during 1910-19 was more than its total population in 1910. The Detroiters deny that this growth was occasioned by the automobile industry. They point to its lake commerce, and to its lead in such other manufactures as pills and stoves. Nevertheless, the combination of the automobile and the war industries gave Detroit its immense push forward. Detroit is the automobile's greatest achievement, and monument among cities. The world has no other object-lesson as to the meaning one industry may have to a community that compares with this of Detroit. It made Detroit leap from a bad ninth among American cities to an easy fourth, and it did so during the most active decade that our cities have experienced. Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland are three of the first five among our cities, and the three are lake ports.—Spokesman Review.

Tillamook County Creamery Association's Monthly Meeting.

Regular monthly meeting of Tillamook County Creamery Ass'n was held on Monday August 2, 1920. Meeting was called to order by W. H. Christensen, president.

Twenty directors were present. Absentees, Fred Weber, Jesse Earl (guaranteed.) Fred A. Doffer and Ben Kuppenbender. Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Report of Inspector read. This showed 195 May triplets and 12 Longhorns and 23 June triplets and 45 Longhorns seconds out of $7,324 cheese made during May and June. Motion made and carried that Secretary get a Diagram on trial and if same is found satisfactory, secretary was authorized to purchase same.

Secretary read numerous letters and papers bearing on the cheese market. During the meeting the Secretary received following telegram, from Plymouth, Wis., viz., "Twins twenty two one eighth, Daisies twenty two three quarters, Horns twenty three half."

Matter of buying hay, feed and grain was discussed. Motion made and carried that each representative take this matter up with his patrons and report at the next meeting.

Mr. Hoskins of Oregon State Chamber of Commerce appeared before the meeting and presented matter of subscribing to said chamber. It was shown that this was all Oregon proposition and doing considerable work in upbuilding Oregon. Later on in the meeting it was voted to donate $100 per annum to that cause, provided that said Oregon Chamber of Commerce continued to be a going concern that long.

D. R. Tinnerset showed pictures of milk samples and also talked on work gone the last two months. Roy C. (farmer) Jones brought up the matter of sacks. It appeared that one of the buyers considered that the sacks had not been graded closely enough. Farmer Jones was authorized to make settlement with buyer on satisfactory basis.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner, J. D. Mickle spoke in behalf of the Oregon Dairy Council, showing the work the council expected to do in the future. Messrs. Culbertson, Wilson, Barber, Hogan and Savage all spoke in behalf of the Tillamook Cheese Maker's Association, presented tentative wage scale for the coming season. Several of the factory representatives thought that in their own factory scale the rate was somewhat high, but on the whole the makers were well received and most of the directors expressed themselves as satisfied. The cheese makers were thanked for their efforts in helping make better Tillamook cheese.

Several visitors were present during both the morning and afternoon session. Meeting adjourned. Carl Haberlach, Secretary

What Some of Our Citizens Think Politically.

A few days ago the writer visited a number of the business ends of the city to ascertain the political views concerning the presidential election this fall. All of them were not interviewed, but as those that were, were not over enthusiastic about it we don't imagine that the rest of them will hold any enmity towards us for not having reached them.

As the general public of Tillamook is in favor of the republican party, most of the men were admirers and supporters of Harding, although some of them seemed to take the same stand as Mr. Coudit, who said he was a republican and a supporter of Senator Harding, but even though he had been a democrat he certainly would change mighty quick. "What we need is a change in the administration, and we need it bad," he said. "In my estimation, the Democratic party is absolutely off, it is dead."

We suppose if the writer had hung around any longer Mr. Coudit would have suggested a safe sane, and real nice burial for the party. Floyd Eberman says that the voters should support the nominee of their party to carry out the principles and that nothing personal should be allowed to interfere with their choice of national officers, with the exception, of course, that they get a man big enough to carry out the principles as they should be. He says he is a republican because he believes in the principles of that party.

J. S. Lamar says that, owing to the fact that he is a Democrat, perhaps he would like to air his opinion in the matter, so he didn't say very much, only that his personal estimation of Cox is a much better man for the presidency. Perhaps it is because he doesn't stand for the same thing. Of course we think the same as he does, that a person should be honest about his beliefs and own up to them no matter what they are, but we don't know very many who aren't. Best King took a different view of things, as he said that Wilson had done all that he could, under the circumstances, that it has been a very severe strain on the strength of the man in the last eight years and that he needed the support of the senate. He also said that a republican could not have done better. We think that Mr. King is a very liberal minded man, for it isn't often that a person can overlook the mistakes of another party, as he is a republican, and wants a republican administration.

He said that if Harding is a prohibitionist he is as good as elected already, for that will be one of the chief issues. S. P. Larson says what he thinks about the election would, we do not appear in print, but we managed to get a few words from him, in spite of the fact that he talked like he might be a Bolshevik or something like that. He says he is going to vote for Harding this time as he voted for Wilson last time, for he thought he was the better man. Mr. Larson says that Wilson has done his best, for a democrat, but now, he thinks that to set the Ship of State sailing along through smooth peaceful waters, again, a republican, in other words, that Harding ought to be the man at the helm.

Mr. Cook, at the music store, says some things that would make some staid politicians blink. He says that the way politics are carried on nowadays would make some of the founders of our country blush with shame at the way things are done. In those days citizenship was a high calling, but now it is just a way of making a living, and if one doesn't get the job another one will. Of course that doesn't apply to the presidents as much as to the other offices, as there aren't many people who are hankering to bear the responsibility that a president must. He thinks that politics are so complicated now days that there are very few people who understand them ready enough to vote intelligently. "Of course I am a republican in that I think their principles are better than those of the democrats, and I want to see another republican administration," he said.

The writer is going to interview a number of women next week and hope to have better success than in interviewing the men, for the men folk are a hard set to get anything out of politically for publication.

To Correspondents.

We are in receipt of a letter, giving the price of cheese, taken from the Western Breeders' Association. Our correspondent should take the matter up with the Tillamook County Creamery Association for that is where all complaints should be registered in regard to the price of Tillamook cheese and about Coos county copying Tillamook ideas.

We also received the following from the same correspondent: In the last issue of the Jersey Bulletin the only ten Gold Medal bulls of the breed are given, with Silver Chimes of S. B., owned by Del Perkins, of Cartioa, Or., as the latest in the list.

Following are the ten Gold Medal bulls and the editor gives Oregon credit for 50 per cent of them: Hood Farm Toron, Royal Majesty, The Imported Jap, Pogis 99th of Hood Farm, Spermeid Owl, Imported Oxford, You'll Do, St. Maves, Golden Glows Chief, Rosalres Olgo Lad, and Silver Chimes of S. B. Luck being with us we are given to understand Oregon will soon have another. Tillamook should be proud as a good deal of this is in the county.

In the same issue of the bulletin Chaplin & Company have an announcement offering a prize of $1000, to that county in the United States which first begins free from inferior sires.

This first start in this is to enter the Better Sires—Better Stock campaign. This campaign has been going on for some time. What is the matter with our County Agent? Also what is the matter with Tillamook county giving this a run for the money? To win with the money incentive would put Tillamook ahead of any county in the Union in the list of Better Sires.

If we all appointed ourselves a committee of one to sign up for Better Sires on our farm and persuade our neighbor to do likewise what a good for all it would be. Lets make a try anyway. Will our Agriculturist get the necessary blanks for us and please pass them around?
