Congressman W. C. Hawley informs us that the post office at Meda will be discontinued, as the post office inspectors could find no one who wanted to be the postmaster of that place. If the people in the vicinity of Meda want the post office continued they should recommend someone and write to Congressman Hawley immediately.

A number of friends were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Wilkes, last Wednesday evening at a charming dinner party. The evening was spent with music and singing, all present having had a very nice time. They were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heisel, Victor White, Dick Donovan, W. C. Cheney and Thomas Keyes, the men all being employed at the Tillamook Garage.

County Judge A. M. Hare and Commissioners Alley and Farmer are in Portland this week meeting with the State Highway Commission. The contract has not been signed for the contract let the county for graveling as the commission was wanting the county to put up a bond, which the court thought was not necessary, which would save over a thousand dollars to the county.

Married, Aug. 6 at Hermiston, Or., Lyle D. Tilden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tilden and Miss Mildred M. Percy, daughter of Mrs. C. B. Percy. Both are well known young people of Hermiston. They started immediately for Portland, Tillamook and coast points on a two weeks honeymoon. They will camp at Rockaway for short time, after which they will return to Hermiston to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rogers, of Portland, were Tillamook visitors last week. Mr. Rogers said that his brother had taken the Headlight for about thirty years, and that he himself had always remembered the motto that was on the first few issues. This is their first trip over here, and they laughed and said, "We've been thirty five years getting here." They were surprised to find so much level and around Tillamook, and think it a beautiful site for a city.

Rev. H. A. Van Winkle and family, of Oakland, Cal., are at Netarts camping this week. Rev. Van Winkle was the pastor of the Christian church in this city for several years, having left here about three years ago and gone to Oakland, where he is having splendid success with his church work. All their old friends here might be glad to see them back, and a bunch of them are going to Netarts this evening for a party on the beach. The Van Winkles will leave tomorrow.

The girls of the Loyal Mails class of the Christian Sunday school held a picnic on the Tillamook river just south of town last Thursday. It was a surprise for their teacher, Mrs. E. F. Rogers, and she was called over to the church on business. On her arrival she found seventeen girls awaiting her, each with a lunch basket crammed full of all kinds of goodies. They spent the day on the river bank. Plans were made to hike to Netarts this Wednesday and stay until Thursday afternoon.

On Thursday afternoon of last week, when City Marshal and a number of men were standing on the street discussing the matter of damaging the hard surfaced street, Carl Sialerack drove up, and expecting that the men would move out of the way after he had tooted his horn, all the men did so with the exception of the city marshal, when the auto bumped into him and threw him on the pavement. He was not badly hurt, however, for he escaped by having the bark on his legs broken up some and limped around town for several days.

Rev. H. E. Tucker was in the other day and told us that the Gaines-McClelland couple whom he married last week were to call on him, asked him if he were the same Rev. Tucker that had been in Medford a few years ago. While there during the war, Mr. Tucker said that a young man had come to him and asked him to perform a marriage ceremony for him before he was called to the training station. His wishes were complied with and the minister thought no more about it until this couple told him that the others were the groom's brother and the bride's sister, and that they had heard that he was in Idaho. He said that everyone made their own beer there, and that in Chicago and St. Louis the owners of soft drink stands sold it over the bar just as in the old days. There is plenty of whiskey and wine there too. According to his statement if you ask anyone east of Pendleton about the gas shortage in Idaho, he will tell you that if you weren't all there, they haven't had any such thing hardly any place except on the coast.

Portland Degree Team Here

The Degree team of the Portland Police, consisting of about forty men, including Chief Jenkins, Captains Harms, Gordon and Moore, Lieutenants Thatcher and Epps, Sergeant Crane and others, drove in to confer a degree on a number of the members of the Masonic Lodge here.

A splendid meeting was held that evening at the hall, about two hundred and fifty persons being present. Sunday morning a bunch of them, one hundred and fifty in all, went to Netarts, where they had a big picnic dinner with clams, crabs, and all kinds of good things. Sports of all kinds were enjoyed down on the hard beach until 2 o'clock, when the men returned to Portland for home, as a number of them had to go on duty as midnight Sunday night.

While the men were here our night watchman, Al Biggs, locked up one of the policemen's cars, and kept it overnight because it had one number on it, which was the special number of the police force in Portland. The man had to wait until the next morning to get his car, but the joke was on the night watchman.

LOST IN THE MOUNTAINS

Fishermen Without Food and Water For 48 Hours.

Saturday noon two men, L. J. Miller and E. W. Sippell, both of Portland, started up the North Fork of the Wilson river fishing. After they had gone quite a distance they decided to cut across and follow the "hog's back," coming out about eight miles further up, where the fishing was supposed to be better. While crossing the mountain they could obtain no water, and as the weather was extremely warm and sultry they were pretty well used up. By the time they reached the farther side of the mountain they found that instead of that side being sloping it was a cliff of several hundred feet, so all they could do was return the way they had gone. It was by that time 8 o'clock Sunday morning. Miller was so thirsty and weak that he could go no farther, so Sippell left him there to return for help. On the way back he became so weak from thirst that he would stop and rest every few yards. He said that the muscles in his arms and legs cramped so that they felt as if they were drawn up in knots. By the time he reached a farm house he was utterly exhausted, and was suffering severely through nervousness, as he was worrying about Miller.

It was noon Monday, when he arrived home, making a stretch of 48 hours without food or water, as they had had none since Saturday noon. A searching party, made up of John Patterson, Harvey Ebinger, Leonard Huss, the fire warden on Wilson river, and a Mr. White who lives near there, started out to hunt Miller immediately after Sippell's return. The whole town was worried about the men, and their friends were nearly frantic until about four o'clock, when word was received that Miller had come out. He had waited until noon that day; then thinking that Sippell had probably lost his way, he would get help and return to find him. Sippell said that ordinarily he could have made the trip in a couple of hours, but as it was, he was so weak and exhausted that it took him about twenty-eight hours.

Miller tried to drink the condensed milk that they had taken with them, but he said that it caked in his mouth, and he could obtain absolutely no moisture from it, but that night there was a heavy dew and the next morning he took a pan and held it under the bushes, shook the dew into it, then strained it through a cloth into a cup. He said he had caught about a cup full of it, which helped a great deal, causing him to gain his strength enough to start back.

The two men, who had been so near death together broke down under the nervous strain and cried when they saw each other. They say that the next time they go fishing they will stay along the river so they will be sure to have plenty of water.

OREGON JERSEY MAKES WORLD'S RECORD.

On June 18, Poppy's Dorothy, bred and owned by Mr. H. E. Lynn, of Perryville, Ore., completed a year's record, best as a junior three year old with 17804.1 lbs. milk and 994.25 lbs. butter fat. Tillamook county is fortunate in having some of this same breeding.

Vive La France completes Record.

As now the greatest living cow, misses the championship by one point fat.

The great Jersey cow Vive La France completed her new record on July 16th with 16928.28 pounds fat. She failed to lift the world's championship by less than one pound fat.

The present championship being held by Plain Mary of the state of Maine 16440 lbs. fat per credit. But Vive La France has demonstrated her superiority over any other living cow by the consistency with which she established new records each year.

The American Jersey Cattle Club has passed upon the record of Vive La France, as official, and made the announcement in a telegram to Pickard Bros. received on July 28th and reading as follows:

"New York, July 27, 1920—Pickard Bros. Marion, Or. Final record of Vive La France, completed July 16th is 15271.7 lbs. milk, 1039.28 lbs. fat. Missing championship by less than one pound fat per cent of 6.80. Our congratulations, as Vive La France is now the greatest cow for production and progeny over all breeds, exceeds Tilly Alcarava's fat full record by 577 lbs. fat—American Jersey Cattle Club."

Picnic at Pacific City.

There was a splendid crowd at Pacific City Sunday, and every one had a wonderful time. Several hundred people were present, including those from McMinnville, Tillamook and many other places, besides the campers.

The Graves Girls band was there and furnished the music, which was greatly appreciated by the people.

The people think that F. R. Beas certain does know how to entertain the public.

Owen Moore in "The Desperate Hero"

Comedy, pure and undefiled, is the keynote, theme and accompaniment of the "The Desperate Hero," a new Selznick Picture starring Owen Moore which will be shown at the Gem Theatre Wednesday, Aug. 18.

The photoplay, which depicts the adventures of a young man very much in love and very much in debt, hasn't one serious angle. Owen Moore's frantic efforts to dodge tailors bills and court his sweetheart cause some very odd situations.

Gloria Hope is Mr. Moore's leading lady in "The Desperate Hero."

Guernsey Club Meeting Called

The Tillamook County Club will have a business meeting at the Creamery Association Rooms on Tuesday, August 17th, at 1 p. m.

Report of Sales committee, as cooperative Guernsey Exhibit at the County Fair and other matter of importance to come up.

Be sure and be present.

H. Mason, Secretary.

Tillamook Preparing to Have Aeroplane Landing Field.

Oliver K. Jeffery, of the O. K. Jeffery Aeroplane Company, was in Tillamook Sunday looking up the matter for a suitable landing field for his company which soon expects to have an established mail and passenger service on a loop from Portland through Tillamook, Seaside, Astoria and return to Portland.

R. B. Miller took considerable time to go over the territory surrounding the city with Mr. Jeffery, and they found one or two suitable locations.

The matter of securing and preparing this field has been taken up by the Tillamook County Automobile Dealers' Association, and a committee comprising R. B. Miller, Charles Pankow and Frank Fitzpatrick, has been appointed to take the matter up with the Tillamook County Merchants' Credit Association, as to ways and means to consummate this matter quickly.

Tillamook must get immediate action on this matter, as the Government is not establishing many aerial mail routes and the city that has a suitable landing field is in a position to get consideration in this matter that cannot be secured otherwise.

Automotive Dealers of Tillamook County Form Local Association

Sixteen of the local Tillamook county Automobile Dealers met at a banquet Monday, August 9th, at the Tillamook Hotel and formed a local organization with charter members representing the following twelve firms: Tillamook Auto Company, Wheeler Garage, Williams & Williams, David Martiny, Star Garage, Standard Service Station, Bell & Toney, Hebo Garage, Three Rivers Garage, Ackerly & Miller, Square Deal Repair Shop and A. Hudson Garage.

Robert E. Magner, Field Secretary of the United States Automotive Dealers Association, and at the present time acting as temporary secretary of the Oregon Automotive Dealers Association, explained in full the benefits to be derived by both the public and dealer through proper organization, especially through this organization, which it is possible to avoid adverse legislation such as the automobile owner and automobile dealers are continually threatened with. It is only through such organization that any effective work can be accomplished.

The following officers were elected to act for the remainder of the year: President R. B. Miller, of Ackerly & Miller; First Vice-Pres., M. J. Maddox, Wheeler Garage; Second Vice-Pres., A. F. Mitchell, Hebo Garage; Sec. & Treas., Alva Williams, Williams & Williams.

Chamber of Commerce Meeting Called for Next Week

On Wednesday afternoon an informal meeting was held at the city hall to take into consideration the question of forming a Chamber of Commerce. The attendance was small, and if you want to know who were present they were some of the most progressive citizens of the city, and if you failed to attend you don't belong to that bunch. But to enable every business man to come in out of the cold and not to remain a lone any longer, they are invited to attend a meeting at the city hall at 8 o'clock next Thursday evening, August 19th. When officers will be elected and the new organization will get busy. Don't let it be said that Tillamook city has gone to sleep, for we don't belong to the sleepy class. All that the business men need is a little punching up to arouse them to activity.

PENNIE MAKES RECORD.

Tillamook Cow Gives 1896 Pounds of Milk.

A new high-water mark for Oregon dairy production has been made, by "Pennie," a grade Jersey cow owned by L. A. McCormack of Tillamook. Reports of the tester for the month of June show that Pennie produced 1896 pounds of milk, almost a ton, with 115.56 pounds of butter fat.

"This is the highest record ever made by a cow in cow-testing association work in Oregon," says E. D. Pitts, in charge of cow testing work in Oregon.

The Tillamook association, in which Pennie was tested, was organized in 1911, and each year since has shown an increase in the milking qualities of its cows. The tester, D. A. Wilson, reports that 394 cows were tested in June with an average yield of 39.97 pounds of fat—practically 40 pounds per cow.

The honor roll for the month showed a large number of cows in each of the four classes, as follows: Class A, 5 years old or more, 36 cows more than 55 pounds of fat; class B, 4 to 5 years, 26 cows more than 50 pounds of fat; class C, 3 to 4 years, 23 cows more than 45 pounds of fat; and class D, 2 to 3 years, 32 cows more than 40 pounds of fat.
