Coaxing You to Smile.

Not Worth Trying.

Tips—Why not try a home-brew receipt?
 "Taps—It's this way. If I met a friend under the influence of the forbidden, I'm afraid he isn't able to give the receipt correctly, and when I meet a man who has had a few drinks and doesn't feel any happier, I'll be darned if I want the receipt."

Spoiled His "Poem."

The average printer considers poetry a nuisance. Much so-called poetry is all of that and worse. It takes longer to set verse than straight prose and there are more chances for errors. A newspaper versifier recently wrote a few stanzas about his little son, the first one beginning with the line, "My son! my pigmy counterpart." It appeared in the paper. "My son, my pig, my counterpart," and the poet was mad about it.

Married a Native.

They were looking at the kangaroo at the zoo, when an Irishman said: "Beg pardon, son; what kind of a creature is that?"
 "Oh," said the gentleman, "that is a native of Australia."
 "Good heavens!" exclaimed Pat; "an me sister married one of them."

A Horse of Another Color.

Customer (in a book store): I want a good book for a doctor friend of mine.
 Salesperson: How about this Babez—"Mare Nostrum"?
 Customer: No, I guess not. My friend is a dentist, not a veterinarian.

Almost a Boat-Rocker.

"Only a fool rocks the boat."
 "I suppose so," assented Mr. Grower, "but when the boat contains a couple of guitars and an off-the-key tenor, there comes a terrible temptation."

Painful Prospect.

The government official of the country district who had charge of that part of the census which deals with farm products, had instructed the old farmer to collect his stock of every description and have them branded.
 "I s'pose that's all right," sighed the farmer dolefully, "but, honest mister, I b'lieve I'm going to have one hell of a time with them bees."

Company.

"It would be tough to be a fool but for one thing."
 "What is that?"
 "There are plenty of other fools to go around with."

A Tall Corn Story.

Related to the Madison (Kan.) News by Bill Horst: "I've been hoeing weeds in my corn field this week, and it gets so dark under the corn that I have to use a lantern from 2:30 until quitting time."

Big Boy.

The two privates were having a heated argument as to the height of the men in their respective outfits. Finally one clinched it.
 "D'you know Flanagan of company D?" he asked. "Well, there's a lad that has to get down on his knees to put his hands in his pockets."

Riches.

"Young man, I understand you wish to marry my daughter. What are your prospects?"
 "Well, though I have not been nominated for the presidency yet, I am the debtor of a newspaper."
 "While I admit you have a chance in that way, tell me something more material and immediate."
 "I have ten bundles of print paper—not simply ordered or on the way but right in the house and paid for!"

"My boy, you're a wonder. Take her and be happy."

It All Depends.

An old plug of a man may give an automobile horn just one little toot and the average person wants to lynch him, but a pretty girl may blow the blame thing slam out of the frame and nobody pays the slightest attention to it. Isn't it funny what a difference it makes?"

Pro Partia.

Tip Sams had twins
 And a razor-backed sow,
 Five dogs and a mule
 And an old roan cow;
 A bon spavined filly
 And a one-room house,
 And a little wrinkled woman
 Just as meek as a mouse.
 Old Tip raised Tobacco
 And he trafficked in skins,
 For he had seven sons
 In addition to the twins;
 And every mother's son,
 And the little mammy Jude,
 Smoked a pipe all day
 And the twins both chewed.
 But Tip kept a-digging
 And he never lost heart,
 For the dogs hunted rabbits
 And they caught a right smart,
 And the bone-spavined filly
 And the mule pulled a plow,
 And they lived off the givings.
 Of the old roan cow
 And the acorn-fatted farrow
 And the razor-back sow.
 But here the story closes
 Of my little romance,
 For the seven sons are sleeping
 On the battlefields of France;
 But their daddy grows tobacco
 And traffics still in skins,
 And the little wrinkled mammy
 Has another pair of twins.

President Wilson has on occasion professed to be guided by voices in the air, but Colonel Bryan now entertains the fear that Governor Cox may be controlled by voices in the cellar.

Firestone

Buy a set of Firestone 3½-inch tires and discover the big feature behind their uniform service—perfect balance.

Firestone has devoted eighteen years to developing the balanced tire, giving light car owners more mileage at low cost—most miles per dollar.

The answer to getting more service and more uniform service out of all four tires is the Firestone 3½. It is more than thickness of tread or amount of rubber and fabric, greater cushioning or greater air capacity. It is proper balance—the way each of these component parts of a Firestone 3½ tire is made to co-ordinate.

Sales of this tire increased 96% for the first six months of this year. The result justifies the effort because the stamp of approval has been set by the public on the Firestone 3½—the balanced tire.

Work and You Work Alone

Strike and the world strikes with you, work and you work alone, our souls are ablaze with a Bolshevik craze, the wildest that ever was known. Grown and there'll be a chorus, smile and you make no hit; for we've grown long hair and we preach despair, and show you a dallyer fit. Spend and the gang will cheer you, save and you have no friend; for we throw our backs to birds and ducks and borrow from all who'll lend. Knock, and you'll be a winner, boost and you'll be a frost; for the old sane ways of the pre-war days are now from the program lost. Strike and the world strikes with you, work and you work alone; for we'd rather yell and raise blue hell than strive for an honest bone. Rant and you are a leader, toil and you are a nut; 'twas a bitter day when we pulled away from the old-time work-day rut. Wait and there'll be a blowup, watch and you'll see a slump, and the fads and crimes of these crazy times will go to the Nation's dump.
