Printers, at least, will appreciate the fact that in setting up Senator Harding's speech of acceptance they did not run out of upper case "Ts".

Democrats charge that the Republicans have done nothing since they assumed control of Congress, almost two years ago. This is a mistaken view. Congress has been eminently successful in blocking the one-man government of Mr. Wilson, and, believe us, that has been no small job.

The Republicans are far more considerate of President Wilson than the Democrats. They are bound he shall not be assigned to an inconspicuous place in the canvass.

There is to be no division in Ohio this year, no trickery can be employed against the voters. It's going to be a straight-out fight, and, the St. Louis Times adds, "Mr. Cox never won that kind of a fight in all his political career."

Before Mr. Wilson leaves the White House it is said he will repeat some of his speeches to a talking machine. There have been Presidents who have left truer record of their voices than any phonograph could have given them.

It is pleasing the western people to note that Senator Harding is thinking not so much of how he can get the office he seeks as of what he can do with it after he gets it. Mr. Harding has visions in public affairs and sees clearly beyond election day.

Senator Harding's question: "Has the nominee taken over the various and unknown commitments of the administration's foreign policy?" Governor Cox's answer: "What he (Mr. Wilson) promised, I shall, if elected, endeavor will all my strength to give."

The Louisiana legislature has refused to ratify the woman suffrage amendment. This makes the seventh Democratic state which has specifically denied the right of women to vote. On the other hand every Republican state which has acted on the amendment has given it its endorsement.

WHERE OREGON EDITORS STAND

Go On Record As Opposed To Non-Partisan League And Interest Measure

Whereas, the Franklin Price-List is based on average costs and provides for a reasonable margin of profit and is equally fair to the buyer and the manufacturer of printing, therefore be it

Resolved, that we recommend the Franklin Price-List be installed in every printing plant in Oregon as a means of properly standardizing selling prices of printing.

Resolved, owing to the seriousness of the print paper situation and because it is good business, we recommend that members of the Oregon State Editorial Association give due consideration to the advisability of putting their subscription business on a strictly cash-in-advance basis.

Whereas, the reckless waste of paper on the part of the metropolitan press in printing useless extras and worse than useless Sunday editions of enormous proportions has been a heavily contributing factor in the prevailing shortage of news print, and

Whereas, even the daily newspapers in the smaller communities have been offenders to a lesser degree, therefore be it Resolved, that the Oregon State Editorial Association recommends that all newspapers exercise the utmost conservation in the use of news print, and especially do we recommend the curtailment of the great Sunday and Saturday editions of the city newspapers.

Resolved, that the Congress of the United States should enact a law limiting the pages of Sunday newspapers to 60, and of daily newspapers to 24, and be it further

Resolved, that Congress amend the Lever Act to include newspaper paper under its provisions, and be it further

Resolved, that Congress should appropriate funds necessary for research, study and experimentation into a different method of making paper, with a view of finding a substitute for wood pulp.

Whereas, the rate of legal advertising in Oregon is not only below the legal rate of other states in the union, but was cut to its present basis at a time when everything which goes into a newspaper was advancing by leaps and bounds and when everything which the editor must have to maintain his existence was soaring to unheard of heights, and

Whereas, the present legal rate in Oregon is far below the commercial rate for the same class of business and is a rate upon which the country publisher could not exist if he applied the same rate to all business of the same class, now, there, be it

Resolved, that we resent being required by law to do something entirely out of harmony with high standards of our profession, that of having one price for one customer and a different price for another customer; that we denounce the present legal rate as unfair to us and to our customers; that we denounce it as rate forced upon us without thought on the part of the voters, and, be it further

Resolved, that as the people in the county districts of the state voted to let the newspapers attend to their own business, we will, as far as possible, be guided in our charges for legal advertising by the action of the voters in the parts of the state where we publish our papers, rather than by the actions of the voters of the metropolis of the state who were so swayed by the representations made to them that out of harmony with the spirit of fair play which usually guides the action of the electors of our common state.

Whereas, the principles of the Non-Partisan League as put into operation in North Dakota and Minnesota show this organization to be endeavoring to foist destructive socialism upon the government of this country, and

Whereas, investigation shows that its operation in these states has been injurious to a free and untrammelled press and destructive to industry and business in every form, both by hampering the operations of legitimate business, agriculture and industry and by imposing a tax under which business finds it hard to exist, therefore be it

Resolved, that the O. S. E. A. goes on record as being opposed to its operation in Oregon and pledges itself to work against it in whatever form it appears in this state.

Whereas, it has been brought to our attention that both of the great political parties have nominated a member of our craft for the highest honor within the gift of the people of these United States, now, there, be it

Resolved, that we compliment both parties upon their omnipotent discernment in taking upon themselves this distinguished honor; that we felicitate both our distinguished and honored craftsmen and express our commendation for the devotion to public duty which they have shown in their willingness to take upon their shoulders this added burden of citizenship.

To the two candidates, Editor Harding and Editor Cox, we would say, "The honor about to be conferred upon one of you is second only to that of being a successful country editor and we admonish you that we will look to the winner to conduct his office and perform his duties in a manner in keeping with honored traditions of the dignified profession of which you are members. We trust that the winner may give to the Congressional Record a much more vigorous editorial staff with some idea of news values."

To the loser, if such there must be, we send these words of consolation: "Your wife was right when she said, 'Hubby, you've already got more than you can do and you've got no business letting them put all this extra work on you just because you're a country editor and they know you'll do it.'"

Whereas, there will appear upon the November ballot a measure known as the Five Per Cent Interest Bill, and

Whereas, this measure is inimical to the best interests of a state which requires vast sums of ready money for the proper and rapid development of its unequalled resources and opportunities, and

Whereas, this vicious measure would force capital to seek investment in other states where it could earn fair returns and where its owners are assured of the opportunity to transact their own business in a legitimate way, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that we again pledge our support to those of any and every class in any and every legitimate effort looking to the development of the state and pledge ourselves to every honorable effort to defeat this measure, and every similar measure which may be proposed, the enactment of which would work hardship upon any one or several classes of our citizens or upon the state as a whole.

Whereas, our host, the city of Astoria, is deeply interested in harbors and rivers, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that, in compliment to our host, we offer our united and concerted co-operation in making a success of the Northwest Rivers and Harbors Convention to be held in Portland, October 4 and 5, and, realizing the great importance to Oregon of improvements of its rivers and harbors, we express our readiness to at all times, fully co-operate to secure appropriate action by the Congress.

Whereas, the convention has been made particularly profitable and pleasurable by the thoughtfulness and perfect hospitality of its hosts, the people of Astoria, Warrenton and Seaside, therefore, be it

Resolved, that cordial appreciation is expressed to the Astoria Chamber of Commerce, the ladies of Astoria, the press of Astoria, the Elks lodge and the canneries, and to the Warrenton and Seaside communities for their large part in the success of the convention.

Whereas, the development of tourist travel means millions of dollars annually to Oregon, for which the tourists get bigger value than can be secured anywhere else in the world; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that we stand ever ready to support the work of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association and believe that the promotion of the tourist travel is a distinct asset to the state.

Dated at Tillamook City, Oregon, August 10th, 1920.

C. A. Johnson, County Assessor.

McAdoo will take the stump for Cox--presumably as in evidence of his thankfulness that he was able to avoid the nomination himself.

A local Democrat is treasuring in his desk a button that he wore in the campaign four years ago. This year on election day he is going to get out this button, put in on and walk proudly to the polls and vote the Republican ticket. This is what the button says: "War in Europe: Peace in America. God Bless Wilson."
