Claude Wright, who has been working here at the Warren Construction camp, left Friday for a few weeks visit with his folks in Portland.

Miss Florence Miller, of Portland, who has been here for a week visiting with friends in various parts of the county, returned to her home Friday.

Mr. Marks, a fireman from Spokane, was in town last week, and while here took a look at our fire engine. He said that it was the finest he has ever seen.

Show your colors and where you stand in the presidential election. A limited number of photographs of Harding and buttons can be obtained at the Headlight office.

Autumn Millinery display, Duvetyn and velvet, satin and taffeta hats, Tailored hats in velvet and beaver. All moderately priced. Miss M. Patterson.

H. N. Crain, managing editor of the Capital Journal, of Salem, was in the city last week on a vacation and paid us a fraternal call. He was exceedingly pleased with our roads.

Pacific Engineering and Equipment Co. vs. Foley Box Co. is a suit filed in the circuit court to recover $1131.95, being due for merchandise furnished the defendant.

By the number of autos that came into Tillamook county last Saturday and Sunday it was a pretty good indication that the lid was lifted on the gas shortage.

Floyd Eberman left Wednesday in his car for Portland, where he will spend a few days on business. We have a sneaking idea that he will bring back someone though.

Jack Wood and George Hanson, of Seattle, who are spending a couple of weeks at Idaville, were here Tuesday. This is their first trip to Tillamook, and they think it is just fine here.

Marion and Jeanette Shay, of Portland, returned home Monday, after having spent a couple of weeks here with Harriet Arenz, a school mate of theirs.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Glad have traded their place at Gresham and moved back to Tillamook, the weather at Gresham being a little too tropical for them.

J. J. Browning and Ivah Toban were married Aug. 21 at the home of the bride's parents, near Blaine. Rev. Dora Young officiated, using the ring ceremony.

Mrs. J. C. Monroe, who has been here visiting with Mrs. E. T. Halton, returned to her home in Spokane Wednesday, having been called there by the illness of her daughter.

I. C. Smith returned Saturday from two weeks business trip to Portland and Woodburn. He was buying Christmas presents while in Portland, and said that it was hotter than — well you know what he meant.

Miss Laura Dodge returned to her home last week, after having visited for two weeks at the home of Eric Glad, at Gresham. She was accompanied here by Evelyn Glad, who will spend some time visiting with friends and relatives.

James Williamson, an official milk tester from Corvallis, returned Monday, after having worked here a couple of weeks. He is a Canadianized Scotchman, but he says he will buy a farm here in Oregon now and is going to become an American.

P. E. Rogers was in from Cloverdale and informed us that he had sold the general merchandise business at Cloverdale to A. H. Kunst and sons, who some 20 years ago, had resided in the south part of the county. They came from San Francisco, Cal.

Earl Rogers, of Portland, who is spending two weeks at Rockaway, was in Tillamook Tuesday. While here he visited the cheese factories, which he thought were extremely interesting, as he had never known just what process the cheese passed through in the making.

Fred Peppert left for Portland Monday, where he will spend a couple of weeks before resuming his journey to Liverpool, England, where he expects to spend some time. He had here a few weeks, having come here directly after having returned from a trip around the world.

Hever has recently sold their ranch here to A. J. Healy.

The city is paving First Avenue East, so that the fire engine will be able to get to the water's edge and obtain water at any height of tide. From that point, the engine, with three lines of 1500 feet hose can reach all four of the blocks that way. That is the worst part of town, in case of fire.

W. B. Bates, and F. S. Bates, Jr. of Astoria, were in Tillamook Tuesday, returning on the train via Portland. They had hiked down from Seaside, having come that far in a car, and said the Neah-kah-nie trail was pretty fair. The boys were here last year about this time, with the Boy Scouts who hiked from Astoria.

Louis Wooley has been very ill at the Boals hospital for the past few days with heart trouble. The cause of the attack was over work and extreme heat. He was brought from his home to the hospital, where he was very low for a day or two, but since that time he has been steadily improving.

Victor L. Hardest, a lumberman of Trout Creek, Mich., and a nephew of the Rosenberg Bros., was here on a two weeks visit, and after looking over the county was thoroughly impressed with Tillamook, so much so that he went back with the idea of closing up his business there and locating in this county.

County School Superintendent G. B. Lamb was in Salem last week in connection with the investigation that is going on over the building of the new school building at Bay City. He expects to have some recommendations in the near future, which will be made at a meeting of the school district.

Miss Florence Cartwright, of the Capital Journal of Salem, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Richard Cartwright, and sister, Constance, was in the city for four hours Tuesday. The party is touring the Tillamook beaches and during their stay are domiciled at the Elmore Hotel at Rockaway.

Attorney W. O. Sims, of Portland, drove over to Tillamook Friday, on probate business, returning in the afternoon via train. He says that he knows almost all of the lawyers of Tillamook, especially Judge Holmes, and he says he never lost a case under the judge. He likes Tillamook first rate, he said, and also all the people here.

F. R. Beals has under consideration a big celebration for Pacific City for September 4th, 5th and 6th. Mr. Beals is negotiating for a brass band, aeroplane, vaudeville performers and various other attractions. Also a speech on Labor Day, by one of Oregon's distinguished citizens. If Mr. Beals succeeds in perfecting his arrangements, a full program will appear in our next issue.

A fire was staged on the vacant lot where the Chautauqua is held Wednesday night, to test the chemical pumps of the fire engine. A large pile of boxes and trash was fired and allowed to burn for some time before the chemicals were put on. The chemical sprays, which had never been used before, did not work as they should, but will when used for a time. They are to be recharged and tried again.

Fears for the safety of E. M. Fronk and family, of Seaside, who were motoring to Portland, via Tillamook, and did not arrive Monday or Tuesday, were dispelled when they arrived a day or so later, having stopped at McMinnville on their return. Mr. Fronk's mother notified the authorities, as she feared that the party had met with a serious accident on their way to Tillamook.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Leonard left for New York Wednesday. Mr. Leonard to attend a convention of the New York Life Insurance Co., and will stop at Montreal, and on their way back they will visit with his folks in Nebraska. He said to be sure and tell his friends that he had all his trousers with him this time. You know he forgot them the last time he went on a trip and had to send back from Portland for them.

A bunch of fellows were at Rockaway Sunday in their car, and it seems as if they had a little too much to drink, so were using all manner of languages that weren't fit for public use. They were arrested and on Monday were brought before Justice Stanley, and having plead guilty to the charge of being drunk were fined. The fines imposed were as follows: James Karras, $10; James Himes, $10; Arthur Feldsbau, $10; and John Feldsbau, $20.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Hill, of Portland, were visitors in Tillamook for several days. Mr. Hill is president of the Hill Military Academy, the school attended by a number of boys of this county. Mrs. Hill is secretary of the Oregon Dairy Council and editor of the women's department of the Oregonian. She visited several cheese factories, dairies and points of interest, and will write some feature stories about Tillamook for eastern magazines.

R. B. Miller, at the Sunset Garage, who has charge of the gas which is on the way between here and Okinawa, is very much in doubt as to what has become of it. Four cars of gas was ordered, about eight thousand gallons to each car, for the different dealers, and should have arrived here Saturday, but nothing has been heard of it, though a tracer was sent out. It is hoped that the gas will arrive soon as the situation is strenuous just at present.

Passenger rates will increase 20 per cent today, and on the same day freight rates on all commodities will take a 25-per cent increase, according to instructions received by the local Southern Pacific agent. In the meantime no round trip tickets extending beyond that date will be sold at old rate. The increase comes as a result of the general rate increase granted the railroads all over the country by the interstate commerce commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Sackett, of Eugene who were here for a week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Edwards, returned to their home Friday. They are newlyweds and came here to spend their honeymoon with Mrs. Edwards, as she is an old college friend of theirs, having attended Willamette University at the same time. Mr. Sackett is the Chief Freight agent at Eugene, where they will make their home, and Mrs. Sackett was formerly of LaGrande.

Thomas Coates has some of the most beautiful flowers ever seen. They are Peruvian lilies, which were brought to his daughter Margaret, by a lady who had just returned from Peru. The flowers are gorgeous, being of a beautiful bright orange, almost red. Each of them has three large petals of the solid color and three small yellow ones, with bright red spots. The plants bloom several times a year, the blossoms lasting only about twenty four hours.

The Sunshine Club met Tuesday afternoon, August 24th at the home of Mrs. Craver. She was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Harry Hogan. The rooms and tables were beautifully decorated with flowers and brilliant Autumn leaves. There was a very good attendance all of whom did ample justice to the excellent refreshments with which the tables were loaded. Nineteen members were present. The invited guests present were Mrs. Hogan, Mrs. Holt and Mrs. Werschul. The club will meet at the home of Mrs. Davidson September 28.

Captain G. L. Stokes, the Deputy State Fire Marshal, was in Tillamook Friday to confer with the Coast Power Co. about the fire hazard arising from the fact that cinders are blown over the streets of the northern end of town, and should there be live ones blown around the danger of setting something afire would be great. Something is to be done in the near future, a screen will be put over the smoke stack which at present has none, and an extension will be made on the spark chamber of the furnace.

Roy C. Jones has decided to leave Tillamook, after having born its winds, rain and sunshine for many years, and we are sorry to see him and his family go, for they always have been among our most progressive up to date citizens. Mr. Jones is to go in partnership with State Senator Hawley on a dairy ranch of about one hundred and forty acres, at McCoy, near Salem. They will raise only pure bred Guernseys. Their many friends wish them a great deal of success in their new venture, and also hope to see them back in Tillamook frequently.

George Gue, of Yakima, Wash., returned to his home Wednesday after having spent a few days here. He said that he came especially to attend the Holstein Breeder's picnic today, but was called to Chehalem, Wash., to take charge of an auction sale of pure bred stock. Mr. Gue had returned from Modesto, Cal., where he had held a sale, and he says where he saw no cattle that were better than those here, and not very many that were as good. He also said that the only green grass that he had seen from Los Angeles to Yakima, was here in Tillamook county.

Paul Robinson, editor of the Banks Herald, and about the only editor in Oregon who predicted that Harding would receive the republican nomination for president, came in on the train on Monday evening accompanied by Mrs. Robinson. He certainly is a great booster for his home town, and if Banks don't become the largest and most important city in Oregon in won't be long. Mr. Robinson's fault, for certain, is he is a live booster. He came in to buy the newspaper plant at Bay City, and ship it to Banks, but as the price was considered too high for second hand printing material he left Tuesday without consummating a deal.

George Dewey, of Portland, was here for about a week visiting, and looking over the country, having returned to his home Friday. He is the Athletic instructor in one of the high schools in Portland, having been employed at three or four different ones. Mr. Dewey says that he had heard so much about Tillamook and had always longed to see it and look over the dairying prospects here. He says that Tillamook has a wonderful future in a great many more ways than one. As he is a graduate in the Dairying course of interest in the dairying of this county, and says that he is coming back in the near future to buy a ranch.

A serious accident occurred Sunday afternoon on the Wilson river bridge, when Ira Krake, who was riding a bicycle, was run into by a car driven by Dr. David Robinson. The boy had come down the cross road and started up the bridge on the north side. Just as he came up the approach, the doctor, not seeing him, hit his bicycle, knocked him to the ground and dragged him about ten feet before the car could be stopped. Krake was rendered unconscious, in which state he remained for several hours. The doctor brought him back to his office and attended to his wounds, which were severe cuts about the head and his body badly bruised. He is reported as improving rapidly, and is able to be up and around.

Paul Erickson, who has been a subscriber to the Headlight since the first issue in June, 1888, came into the office last week and paid five years in advance. Paul is one of those who appreciate what the Headlight has done for the county, and he don't propose being one of those who allow their subscription to become delinquent. He believes in supporting the home newspaper, and being a religious reader of the Headlight, he is exceedingly disappointed whenever the newspaper fails to be on time in going to press. Mrs. Mary C. Swanson shows also how interested she is in Tillamook and the home paper. She writes "I want the Headlight for another year. It is my old home newspaper and I don't want to be without it, I have taken it for 21 years."

The high cost of living seems to have hit courting couples, for young women who apply for board and rooms in this city from now on, will be asked whether they have a beau. The reason of this is that one of our business men who was pretty strong on the courting stunt last winter, paying his respects to one of our school teachers was a regular visitor every evening at the home of the young lady, which was perfectly right and proper. But staying up so late and using up so much electric juice and burning up so much coal is what troubled the young lady's landlady, and should F. A. Beltz be presented with a bill for this necessary expense when he returns with his bride from the east, we know, from actual experience that he will say it was worth it.

Fred DuPuy, of the Oregon, Washington and Idaho Aeroplane Co., was in Tillamook this week, returning Wednesday to Portland. The reason of his visit was to make arrangements with F. R. Beals, of Pacific City, to make an exhibition flight there the 4th, 5th and 6th of September. Mr. DuPuy will start from Portland early Saturday morning, arriving at Tillamook where he will spend about ten minutes, at eleven o'clock in the morning. He will then start from here arriving at Pacific City early in the afternoon. On the way over he will scatter pamphlets advertising Pacific City. He said he has been conversing with Geo. Lamb about having a landing field here, but said nothing definite had been arrived at, only that the present field was inadequate and a larger one would have to be obtained. The company which Mr. DuPuy is representing is the same that delivers the Oregon Journal by aeroplane mail.

Fire Chief Coates received a letter this week from the State Fire Marshal, saying that a flag is to be given by him and the governor to the chief whose city wins the T. H. Ince cup, that is, if any town in Oregon wins it, and if none of them do the flag will go to the highest rating city in the state. The flag is to be hung in the school which takes the most part in the contest, and when it is presented the Governor of the state and the state Fire Marshal will be present. It is to be quite a formal affair, a regular Fire Prevention day to be observed. Come on everybody, it's make them bring the cup and flag both, to Tillamook. Mr. Coates says that if he gets to go to the convention at Los Angeles this fall he will sure bring it back with him, and we're hoping he gets to go. The convention starts the 13th of September, and the council doesn't meet until the 6th, so matters haven't been decided upon as yet.

CHEESE GOES UP.
The Tillamook County Creamery Association and the Feed Situation.
Carl Haberlach reports having advanced the price of triplet cheese to 30c., Wisconsin being advanced to 24 1/2c. this week. Young Americas and Longhorns are now quoted at 31 cents Tillamook.
When asked about the feed situation Mr. Haberlach made the following statement:
"At the last meeting of the directors of the Tillamook Creamery Ass'n the matter of the extremely high prices of hay and feed was brought up. It seemed to me that we had come to a condition where it was either necessary to get our hay and feed cheaper, or else sell between 1,500 and 2,000 cows, as the matter of buying feeds was so high that dairymen were losing money on every ton of feed bought. It would be only a matter of time before the farmers would have to commence selling some of their cows. So far we have been feeling our ground carefully, as it has seemed that markets were still unsettled. We have bought some oats and barley and are having it ground into feed at the local mill. We are temporarily selling the ground barley at $62.00 the ton, oats and barley at $61.00 in ton lots and $62.00 in half ton lots. We are putting about sixty per cent oats and 40 per cent barley into this mixture. We are also grinding up some oats alone. At present prices it seems that this is about the best and cheapest feed to be had for the money. We have not yet tried to secure a warehouse nor have we gone into the feed and hay business."

Notice of Meeting of Tillamook Jersey Cattle Club
A meeting of the Tillamook county Cattle Club will be held at Fairview hall on Friday the 3rd day of September, 1920.
As this will be the last meeting of the club held before the County Fair, it is especially desired that all members be present.
Rose Crawford, Sec.-Treas.

Those Missed in Census to be Counted
All persons who resided in Tillamook at the first of January, 1920, who failed to be enumerated in the official census, will please call at the office of the City Recorder and be listed, as this will be their last opportunity. The census count only gives Tillamook a population of 1930, and as the people feel that there ought to be at least 2000, it would be a great help if all those persons who were not enumerated would comply with this request. The recorder received a telegram this week from Washington, D. C., asking that this matter be attended to and straightened up as soon as possible.

F. A. Beltz Weds In Ohio
Word was received a few days ago that F. A. Beltz and Miss Naomi Scheidler were married at St. Paris, Ohio, on the 17th of this month. The groom is one of our prominent business men, being connected with the Coates Lumber Co., of this city, and the bride, at whose home the event took place, is well known here, as she was the music and art instructor in the Tillamook schools here last year.
At present the happy couple are on their honeymoon trip, visiting the large cities of the east, including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington D. C., St. Paul and also through the southern part of Canada. They will make their home here, and expect to return about the sixth of September.

MAN KILLED AT LOGGING CAMP THIS MORNING.
Another Man Injured When Cable Flies Back.
A fatal accident occurred this morning at the logging camp of the Tillamook Lumber Co., the new lumber company recently located north of this city, when H. Monnor, the head rigger was instantly killed, and Joe Hogan, the knocker was injured. The two men were standing about four feet from the haul back line, and the bite of the line having caught a snag, when it broke loose it swung back with terrific force and struck the two men. Monnor's neck was broken and he died instantly. Hogan was brought to Dr. Boal's hospital. It was first reported that he was seriously injured but this was not true, the man escaping with only a few injuries.
Monnor is a man about 38 years of age and came to this county about six weeks ago and applied for work at the Tillamook Lumber Co. He had previously worked at Cochrane. No one seemed to know much about him. His brother was spending a few days at Rockaway, and a sister resides in Portland. Both of whom were notified.
Hogan is a man about 52 years, both being first class loggers, but it seems they got too close to the line for their own safety, hence this is thought to be the cause of the accident.

Newspaper Man Praises Road Work in Tillamook County
Most people in Tillamook at times think we are a little slow in this county when taking into consideration public improvements in this part of Oregon, and we are often reminded by visitors that we are more progressive in this neck of the woods than we think we are. For illustration, E. E. Brodie, editor of the Oregon City Morning Enterprise, and vice-president of the National Editorial Association, motored several times through this county this year, and in a double column front page editorial, this what he said:
Lessons In Road Building
There is only one thing the matter with a macadam or gravelled road and that is its tendency to go to pieces in a comparatively short time. While this is a peculiarity of the road there is no excuse for permitting a smooth highway to disintegrate in two or three years, for unless such a road is watched and repaired at frequent intervals the money it cost is thrown away.
Tillamook county provides a definite illustration of road maintenance. In that county there are several hundred miles of macadam road. The traffic, especially in the summer months, is heavy, and the highways suffer, but the county authorities are alive to the necessities of the situation, and have adopted methods to prevent the roads from becoming a nightmare to motorists and an eyesore to the taxpayers.
Wise expenditure has been exercised in the purchase of suitable road machinery. The county, not nearly so wealthy as Clatsopamas, is amply provided with caterpillar tractors, scarifying machinery, graders, ditchers and rollers. These machines are protected against inclement weather by being housed in small sheds in the several road districts, but in the spring and summer months, and even in the fall, the machinery is out on the roads, saving the money and temper of the people who pay the bills.
Whenever a road commences to show signs of going to pieces in Tillamook county, a crew is sent out, a scarifier tears up the surface to a depth of about four inches, the grader follows along and smooths the highway, the ditcher takes care of the drainage and finally the roller packs the surface down and the county has a new road, without the cost of a dollar for new material, and at an expense of the wages of a few men, plus the investments in the machines. As a result thousands of people tour into and through that county, spending their money for the necessities of life, leaving in Tillamook county millions of dollars annually.
The tourists erop has become to Tillamook county a greater asset than the dairy industry, for which the county is famous. The residents are alive to their opportunities and the county court is responsive. Why don't we take a leaf from the Tillamook road book?
Missionary Workers in Tillamook
The members and congregation of the church of the Nazarenes greatly appreciated the address of Miss Louise Robinson, outgoing missionary to Africa, last Sunday morning. Miss Robinson is a young woman of rare talent, and very forceful as a platform speaker. As she pictured the needs of dark Africa, and told of the joy she felt in consecrating her life to take the gospel to them, many hearts were touched and the moistened eye could be seen throughout the audience.
The service in the evening was also a decided success. Mrs. Whitesides outlined the plan and object of the Nampa Missionary hospital and sanitarium, an institution where outgoing missionaries might take a short course in medicine and a course in nursing in connection with their college work, and where returning missionaries might have the benefit of the sanitarium as a place to rest and receive treatment. A substantial offering was taken for that institution.
