PIONEER VISITS HERE.

Mrs. James Barclay First Person Born in Tillamook County

Mrs. James Barclay, of Corvallis, of whom she has a great many thoughout the county. Her husband brother accompanied her, also and two of her sons and their families.

Mrs. Barclay was born near what is now called the Perkins hill, on the 24th of July, in 1853, a few weeks after her father, Captain Elbridge Trask, for whom the Trask river was named, and his family, ,accompanied by two other families had come here in a sloop called the "Rose Alpha" from Clatsop Plain, near Seaside. Ike Quick and John Doroughty were the two other men who cme at the same time with their families

Mrs. Barclay tells us that at that time there were no other settlers here the three families being the first to make this their homes. She says that at times the Indians were pretty bad, and a few years later, when more peple were here, a company was organized, with her father at the head, for protection against them. At preme joy of giving to their children one time several families were be seiged in an improvised fort on the Perkins hill for over two weeks. She remembers it very distinctly, she says, although she was very young at the time. At night the older folks would run bullets while the younger ones would dance and make merry while among the trees along the edge of the woods could be seen the torches of the Indians.

Captain Trask made trips to Astoria in his sloop, bringing provisions to the settlers, who were delighted to have white bread and ing the first white person born in sisted of salmon and potatoes during Tillamook County. Among the other the greater part of the time. One trip guests were: Charles Trask, of Paris, as he and another man were coming in over the bar, the rudded on th boat was broken, and, as there was place, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sapp no other way to steer it to safety Capand daughter, of Alsea, Ore. All the tain Trask, who was a very powerful other guests were of Tillamook man, took a plank and held it in the water bringing the boat up the bay

Captain Trask lived only ten years after coming here, having, for the Jacoby, Mr. and Mrs. Warren swelling resulting from rheumatism. Guy Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. George without the aid of crutches. Two preliminaries were staged four rounds each, by George Adams, of Chicago and Johnnie McCoy, also

Brown, of Los Angeles. After a recitiation by McCoy entitled, "The Newsboy's Last Fight," which was well rendered and was well received and appreciated by the audience, he and Adams put on the gloves. Their bout was slow, most of the time being spent in sparring and clinching. They were pretty evenly matched, and neither had an advantage, but at the end of the fourth, neither being put off his feet, the decision was given McCoy, who was quicker and lighter and not so easily winded.

Hoke and Brown were faster and
