

Representative And Candidate For Senator Here.

Congressman C. A. McArthur, of the United States House of Representatives and Robert Stanfield, candidate of the Republican ticket for the United States Senator, were in Tillamook and delivered addresses at the Fair Thursday afternoon and evening.

Mr. Stanfield's main theme was co-operation. It is only through the co-operation of the farmers in the cheese business that Tillamook has been known for its splendid product. Another main feature of Tillamook is the timber, and to ship it out it is necessary to improve the harbors and the shipping facilities, more so since the recent increase in freight rates on the rail road.

In speaking of politics, Mr. Stanfield said the government should be conducted by the parties and that there should be no class domination. There are different classes, such as capital and labor, and others, and in North Dakota, Montana and Idaho, a great deal of trouble is caused by this class domination, as the people there do not co-operate.

He spoke also of the League of Nations, that the Republicans were not in favor of it, and stated other interesting facts about the differences of the two parties regarding it.

C. A. McArthur highly commended our county fair, saying that all the exhibits were good, especially the stock. He said there were more cattle here than at the State Fair last year. He is proud to see the people of Tillamook weeding out their scrub stock, as that is the greatest enemy to a dairyman, and replace it with pure bred stock, for it is the quality that counts and not so much the quantity. He urged the young folks to stay on the farm, for he said that the future of the country depended upon them, and as the past and present generation had done so much for the cause, it cannot be comprehended what will take place when the coming generation has grown up.

"Agriculture," he said, "is coming to the front." It is as it should be, the people are leaving the congested cities and are living on the farms. The school systems are bringing about wonderful changes in the lives of the people, and on the farms and in the school you find no I. W. Wism. He also spoke of the many advantages of co-operative marketing, which puts the products on the market at a minimum cost, and the profits are of a high margin.

Rollie Watson, whose idea it was to have the school children write essays pertaining to the dairying interests of Tillamook county, told about the contest, how the Pacific International Exposition had offered the three grand prizes and the banks of the city and he had offered the others. He told how the cows of Tillamook had been tested a year or so ago, and it was found that the average production was 170 lbs. of butter fat per month, and the cows belonging to the International were producing one hundred pounds more.

This made the people wake up and take notice of the million or so dollars that they were losing. Now Tillamook leads in livestock production throughout the country.

O. M. Plummer, of the Pacific International Exposition, was also present and commented very highly upon the splendid fair, saying it was the best county fair in the state. He was especially enthusiastic over the fine showing the Jersey cattle made, saying that he had not seen such a large one, or such a good one, only at the State Fairs. There are only five fairs in the fairs in the United States that can compare with this in their regards to the Jersey exhibition, and all except one of these are in the East. The Tillamook Jersey Calf Club, with 25 members, is the largest in the state, and, perhaps, in the United States. He spoke of having visited at the homes of Tillamook soliciting money for the International Exposition and that he was coming again. He said that the future fortune of the county did not depend upon the timber of the county, but on the dairying, and that the children's calf club was the thing that would make it.

It was a disappointment Saturday afternoon to many who were expecting to hear A. H. Lee, to find that neither he nor Mr. Maynard of the Oregon Journal, could be present. However there was a good stock parade, about one hundred cattle in all being led out. The Jerseys led the parade, with L. A. McCormack at the head with his Grand Champion bull, Schuyler Fletcher, who won the grand prize for the calf club with his heifer, received the Jersey calf offered by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bays, a splendid animal which will make a trip to the State Fair with his calves. A very clever boy wrote the following verse to advertise his two prize winning O. I. C. pigs: "Oh all you lovers of pure bred swine, Come over here and look at mine. These are genuine O. I. C., They were bred by Dad and raised by me. Of all breeds there are none so good, And they were raised by Jack R. Wood." The pigs were only five months old and weighed 115 pounds apiece.

Two Heads Are Better Than One

Consult your wife about the wiring in your home. Women spend a lot of their time in the home and they know what is necessary. —And remember these three things: Have the lights effectively and artistically placed. Have plenty of convenient outlets installed—they will be needed for your "electric servants." Have the work done by a responsible contractor—it will be cheaper in the end. We will help you with suggestions and guarantee to execute the work to your entire satisfaction.

Lodge was called at 8 o'clock sharp Tuesday night, with a very good attendance, there being several candidates in waiting. The lodge conferred the first degree.
Next Tuesday night the second degree will be conferred. All Bros. who are to receive this work be on hand.
Bro. Carl Dawson, who has been at Broughton Springs, taking treatment for rheumatism, is now at the Boals hospital. Bros. let us not forget our obligation to visit the sick.
All Patriarchs are earnestly requested to be present at the 10th of this Thursday night. The Patriarchal degree will be conferred and Grand Scribe E. E. Sherron, of Portland, will make an official visit.
Death again calls from our midst another brother, Frank Hanenkratt. His sudden death was a shock to the whole community, and while we miss his face his virtues will ever be cherished. About fifty Bro. Odd Fellows turned out Tuesday afternoon when the last rites were said and the body laid to rest.
Good eats committee for next Tuesday night is composed of the following: Dolan, Max Schultz, Ashim, Eggle, Hansmeir and W. Church. Come up Bros. and get a hand out.
Now that winter is drawing near, and most of the summer's work is done, we expect to see a goodly number of our Bros. from the sod attending lodge again. E. Heuser
