LONG A BRITISH POSSESSION
Island of Bermuda Colonized Eight Years Before the Mayflower. Sailed From England.

The island of Bermuda was discovered in 1515 by a Spaniard, Juan de Bermudez. Nearly 100 years later an English vessel with Virginia colonists was shipwrecked on the island, which had been known as the Isle of Devils because of the terrific storms on its coast, and had been shunned. Admiral Sir George Somers, leading the Virginians, died. His body was taken back to England, where the colonists told the wonders of the island. The Virginia company determined to colonize the islands, and had its charter amended to include islands within 300 leagues of Virginia. As a result, 50 colonists were sent out in 1612, eight years before the Mayflower sailed. Later the Virginians sold their rights to a Bermuda company, which so subverted the inhabitants that they formed a parliament and fought for their rights. Three branches of government were devised. Regulations were most severe, and penalties were of the most extreme nature.

Won His Honors Worthily.
First Sergeant Dan Daly, undoubtedly the best-known man in all the services, with the exception of Sergeant York of Argonne fame, has been placed on the inactive list of the Marine corps reserve. Daly won two medals of honor for valor in the Boxer rebellion and in the capture of Fort Riviere, in Haiti, and is said to be the only man in all the services who holds two medals of honor. In the world war his feats of exceptional bravery won for him the medaille militaire and the croix de guerre from France and the distinguished service cross from General Pershing. His passing from the active list to accept a position with a prominent banking house in New York removes from the marines their most picturesque of the old school soldiers.

Artificial Wool Not Mueh Good.
Widespread interest having been taken in a new artificial wool, an exhaustive investigation into the properties and merits of the fiber has been made by Prof. Eber Midgley, head of the department of textile industries of the Bradford Technical college, and United States Consul A. S. Ingram of Bradford, summarizes his conclusions about as follows:
The new fiber is unsuitable for use in spinning yarn on the worsted principle, it being lacking in uniformity of diameter, strength and elasticity. When blended with pure wool the result is an uneven yarn.

Subduing the Hookworm.
Efforts of the campaign against the hookworm in Jamaica conducted by the government and an expert for the Rockefeller foundation already are felt. In Vere, one of the largest hoppers now work six days a week, whereas formerly they were able to work only three. On account of their improved physical condition large numbers of the workers are leaving Jamaica to work in the cane fields in Cuba.

"Dead Men's Club."
The formation of a Dead Men's club out of the 2,000 ex-service men who, while living, are officially listed as killed in action is a probability, it was learned at national headquarters of the American legion, William Wart of Akron, O., one of the "casualties," who was gassed and left on the field in Picardy, has suggested the formation of such an organization.

HAS ADMIRATION OF WORLD
Capitol at Washington Recognized As the Finest and Nobliest Building on the Earth.

Foundations for the central structure of the present capitol in Washington were finished on August 24, 1818. The old capitol had only two wings connected by a covered wooden bridge, which was destroyed and the wings damaged by the British, who set fire to the building in 1814. Three years later congress voted to remove the wings and build the new central structure, which with its dome was completed in 1829.
The two great marble extension wings in which the senate and house of representatives meet were begun in 1851 and completed for occupancy in 1859. The old dome, made of wood and brick, was torn away in 1855, and the present dome completed in 1864. The great statue of the goddess of Freedom, which rests upon the dome, was designed by Thomas Crawford, father of Marlon Crawford, novelist. Charles Bulfinch of Boston was the architect of the original central structure and Thomas U. Walter designed the marble extensions and the present dome. He was a Philadelphian.
The total cost of the present capitol was about $16,000,000, and it has been pronounced by architectural authorities, both in America and Europe, to be the greatest and noblest building in the world.—Chicago Journal.

KNOWS NOW HOW IT FEELS
Dentist, Given Emergency Toothache Treatment, Dreads Further Ordeal of a Session in the Chair.

A haggard-faced man rushed into the Park Emergency hospital shortly after 3 o'clock a few mornings ago.
"For the love of mud will you give me something to stop a raving toothache? It's had me up all night, and I've tried everything," he moaned to the steward in attendance.
The steward made the pain-ridden patient comfortable in a chair and then applied soothing remedies to the offending molar.
"Why, the pain's gone," the patient exclaimed after a while.
"Well, that tooth won't bother you any more for a while, but you had better see a dentist in the morning," said the steward.
"Guess I'll have to," said the patient gloomily.
"Everybody hates to go to a dentist," remarked the steward. "Will you give me your name for our records?"
"Yes," said the patient. "I am Dr. A. Karagorge."
"Are you a physician?" asked the steward.
"No, I'm a dentist," smiled the patient. "I have cured scores and scores of aching teeth, but this one of mine sure unnerved me. Guess I'll have to go to a dentist in the morning. Gee, I hate to."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Hearing of Butterflies.
The hearing of certain butterflies, the moths and the spiders has been a subject of much study by F. Eggers, whose results have been reported in a Berlin zoological annual. The seat of hearing is found to be the "tympanal organ" of the last ring of the thorax. The air-filled vesicle or bladder of this organ adjoins two very thin spots in the external chitin, and one of these is the true drumhead, connected with a nerve strand having two sensory cells, while the other, the so-called opposite drumhead, seems to serve as a sounding board to reinforce vibrations. Experiments with crickets have shown that the whirring of the male is heard only by females having the tympanal organ intact. The organ of the butterflies, which is more sensitive, cannot be tested in the same way, but response has been had to very high, shrill tones, such as that made by rubbing a cork against a wet glass, and in one species to a chattering sound made by the wings of the male. Butterflies flying by day seem to have hearing organs more generally than those that are active at night.

Snake Eruption Ten Yards Away.
An unnerving but fruitful incident occurred recently as the volcano of Kilauea, H. L. described as the most continuously active in the world, was being examined by scientists of the Hawaiian Volcano Research association. At the climax of this expedition, they had determined to photograph a towering crag of solidified lava that rises, Gibraltarlike, from the surface of a swelling, overcasted lava lake, declares an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine. But at the instant the cameraman was squeezing the bulb, an explosion within the uneasy mass threw into the air not ten yards from the party, and directly before the lens of the camera, a rumbling mass of white hot lava crashing back, and so breaking the surface crust, these erupted fragments roused the entire lake into a "seething bellowing-mass of fountains."

The Whitewashers.
Representative Frear was talking about a committee with a notorious record for whitewashing.
"That committee," he said, "ought to go out to Los Angeles and start up in the moving picture business. They'd certainly have a grand success."
"Why?" asked the puzzled reporter.
"Why do you say that, congressman?"
"It stands to reason they'd have a grand success," answered Mr. Frear. "Look how beautifully they screened Dash last month."

Making Wood Fire-Resisting.
Keeping wood wet, injecting certain chemicals, and coating with suitable paints, are the three methods of increasing resistance to fire that have been tested at the United States forest products laboratory. Though not the most effective, painting is the cheapest and most practicable treatment for wood in small amount. Ordinary calcimine or whitewash proves to be as resistant to fire as any paint. It is cheap and convenient to use; and while it does not prevent burning at high temperature it lessens the risk of spreading a blaze from burning cigarettes, sparks and matches. A paint of linseed oil, zinc borate and chrome green, which has been tried for outdoor use, retained its fire-resisting properties during more than three years of exposure to the weather.

Furs From New South Wales.
An important export trade in fur skins is being developed in the state of New South Wales, says Consul Edward J. Norton, Sydney, Australia, as instanced by the fact that various fur skins to the amount of 2,312,402 pounds, valued at $7,000,000, were exported from Sydney during the six-month period ended January 30, 1920, excluding rabbit skins, which constitute a big item of export from Sydney. Fox skins are largely exported, and the foreign demand for kangaroo, opossum, wallaby and wombat skins is steadily increasing.

Long ones.
"There is one thing which that young lawyer fellow of Eli's ought to be proficient in when he comes to practice."
"What is that?"
"The art of securing a stay."—Baltimore American.

LANGUAGE SPOKEN BY ALL
That of Heart Far Outranks the Written Word in the Making of Friends.

There is one language of the tongue and another of the heart, and the second is the more important. The doughty boy in France often found himself unable to exchange words—beyond the briefest greeting of the expression of the elemental needs of life—with those among whom he came, from a far, strange land. But actions were loquacious and more intelligible than speech. The people knew from his kindly face and his outstretched hand that he had nothing to fear from this American soldier. He came not to steal or destroy; he came to help and to play the part of a friend.
The traveler in a land held by savages is under a constant surveillance. The aboriginal folk are wondering whether he is the advance agent of a great many more, who are coming to take what through the ages has belonged to them and to their forebears. He is on trial, and the burden of proof rests with him. If he goes with the modest, courteous, considerate demeanor of a Farabee traveling through Amazonia, he has nothing to fear—for he has done nothing to create fear. When Stanley went to Africa or Roosevelt traversed South America or Kinglake made his journey in the East, each of these voracious encountered unfamiliar tongues; but there are always ways in which one human being makes himself understood by another, no matter how distant the points from which they came.

ALWAYS THE SAME OLD HUN
Nation Continues to Dream of Victorious War, in the Face of Inglorious Defeat.

The Hun never changes. We read in well-informed magazines everywhere that Germany, unlike any other nation participating in the great war, refuses to forget the war. While in America, in Britain, in France and Italy, the chief desire is to turn full attention to the things of peace and to blow out war memories, in Hunland the converse is true, declares the American Legion Weekly.
The astounding sale of books dealing with military phases of the war and the military lessons taught by the war continues throughout Germany. Germans, old and young, are reading what Von Hindenburg and Von Kluck and Von Sanders think of even the minutest details of strategy and tactics. Clubs have been formed for the study of military questions, and newspapers are full of articles explaining just why Germany failed, and just how she could have done better. Some stupid persons wonder if this does not mean "Just how she can do better next time!"
"One would expect the reverse—look for a national revision of feeling on the part of beaten Germany leading them to abjure war talk and turn their thoughts elsewhere. But Helms can neither learn nor forget. Prudence, not pessimism, is the origin of an intense conviction that our sons will some day have to combat the same old Teuton methace.

Teach Value of Foods.
The first laboratory for working out household food problems was installed in Teachers' college, New York city, a little more than ten years ago, says an exchange. The development of science has been extraordinary, the current ideas of the actual value of food in common use have been revolutionized by the work in these laboratories. When the war came, the government accepted without question the results of these investigations and the rations of American soldiers in France were fixed upon them.

One of the most interesting features of the laboratory is a complete flat, including kitchen, dining room, bedroom and bath. Students are selected who need such kinds of food and experimented upon for weeks at a time. In this way, many problems of the utmost importance were solved.
