The Circus.

The clowns sport themselves as of yore. The band plays its tuneful music. Acrobats swing high on shining trapezes. The elephants go through their ponderous moves. The seals flap their way to children's hearts. All is the same as twenty years ago—the circus does not change. But with the passing of the years, the effect has changed. The trappings no longer seem bright. Their tawdry tinsel no longer seems pure gold. The quaintness of exotic cloaks no longer transports the mind to faraway lands. The acrobats seem much the same as those the daily stage brings us. The elephants, for all their heavy training, seem but commonplace. Even the clowns seem less funny than in days gone by. Time has passed, indeed. The circus does not change. But we, feeling the heavy hand of passing time, have changed. No longer do we feel as children. Through the glamor, we see the sadness. Forsooth, since our childhood days, we have progressed.—Milwaukee Journal.
