PRESBYTERIAN

Sunday School, 10 A. M.
Morning Worship, 11 A. M. Subject "Divine Common Things."
Evening Worship, 7:30 P. M. Subject "A New Chance."
We wish to excuse from attendance next Sunday, the water which flooded our basement last Sunday and tried to put the fire out in the furnace.

A good New Year habit, regular worship in God's House. Is this one of your New Years Resolutions, if not why not?

Worship with us.
Allan A. McRea, Minister.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday School at 10 o'clock.
Preaching at 11 o'clock. Subject of the morning discourse will be "Christian Characteristics."
The hour of evening service will be 7:30. The subject will be "The Fall and the Recovery of Peter."
During this week of prayer meetings have been held in different homes in various parts of the city which are preparatory to the special services that are to begin at the church next Sunday evening and continue throughout the week. The pastor will preach each night during week. On Sunday the 16th Dr. E. E. Gilbert will relieve the pastor and preach each night of the week (Jan. 16th to 23rd).

Make your plans to be present at each service. Come, bring your friends. Pray and work for the success of these meetings.

C. L. Dark, Pastor.

Prize Night At Rex

As I announced in last weeks' chat I will continue to run the same high-class production as the former manager. Here is a list of a few of the big ones for January and February: Scarlet Days, The Yellow Typhon, A Woman Gives, with Norma Talmadge, Twin Beds, The Confession, Peaceful Valley, with Chas Ray, and Humoresque. Humoresque played 24 days in Portland in November and is considered the best picture ever produced. Even though the cost of these big pictures is almost prohibitive, I will not raise my prices; so when you want to pass a pleasant evening, remember the REX theatre, THE LITTLE HOUSE WITH BIG PICTURES. I have some more news for you in next week's paper.
K. LAUGHIN—adv.

AT THE GEM

When Melville Carruthers decided to propose to Grace Adams it was the most momentous decision he had ever arrived at. So, armed with a large luxurious bunch of orchids and a Pomeranian pup he sallied forth.

When he arrived at the house, he had forgotten what he wanted to say, and after looking at Grace's father he forgot what he had come for.

Then Melville felt blue and went in search of adventure. He found it in the shape of a nice bump on his head caused by violent contact with an empty bottle in the hands of an irate gangster. Then Melville decided life was too strenuous, anyway, and he would put an end to his share of it. When he found all his friends not only ready but eager to help him, he changed his mind; he was a very clean-minded chap, he changed it every few minutes. Then the excitement comes thick and fast. Owen Moore will be seen as Melville Carruthers in his latest comedy, "The Poor Simp," at the Gem Theater next Sunday, Jan. 9.

Sunny Spain with its romance, its color, its fire, its fierce passions, tempestuous loves and stormy jealousies is the scene of Geraldine Farrar's latest vehicle, "The Woman and the Puppet," which will be shown at the Gem Wednesday, Jan. 12. In this gripping romance, written by Pierre Louys and Pierre Frondaie, authors of New York's greatest contemporary dramatic sensation, "Aphrodite," Miss Farrar is given the role of a high-spirited Spanish girl whose wiles and whims bring a Spanish nobleman to the verge of desperation until, dangled too long a puppet, he turns and tames her. This drama offers Miss Farrar a role, with thrilling situations and colorful atmosphere. Lou Tellegen plays the supporting lead. This Goldwyn production was directed by Reginald Barker whose artistic productions have placed him in the fore-front of picture makers.

"Tiger's Cub," a picturization of the famous novel by George Goodchild, in which William Fox presents his dazzling star Pearl White, is coming to the Gem Tuesday, Jan. 11.

This story pulsates with the spirit of indomitable courage and daring which mark those who defy the ruggedness of the frozen north and the vicious elements it breeds in the struggle for existence. The supporting cast is made up of players whose ability has many times been demonstrated.

Most of the action revolves around the characters portrayed by Pearl White, as the Cub; Thomas J. Carrigan, as the son of an old prospector who was murdered for his gold mine; J. Thornton Baston, as a villain; and Frank Evans as "Tiger," who murdered the old prospector and was eager to pawn his own beautiful daughter for a half share in the stolen mine.
