GAMBLING ORGY SWEEPS NATION

"7 Come 11" is Now United States Anthem to the Tune of Two Billion Dollars.

FRENZY SEIZES THE COUNTRY

Treasury Officials Deeply Concerned Over Situation—May Make General Appeal to Public to Check Gambling.

Washington, D. C.—Approximately $2,000,000,000 changed hands last year as a result of the gambling mania, it was estimated here on the basis of information reaching government heads through official and unofficial channels.

Treasury officials are deeply concerned over the situation, which indicates, they say, that the United States is still clinging to wasteful and extravagant habits that grew up since the armistice.

The situation has been brought to the attention of Secretary of Treasury Houston. Director William Mather Lewis of the savings division is considering whether a general appeal to the public through ministers and civic societies would be effective in checking gambling.

Frenzy Seizes Nation.

Lewis has just returned to Washington from a trip through the country in which he gave some attention to a study of the situation.

"Gambling at cards and betting on racing has reached a frenzy never before equaled," he said. "Thousands appear to be engaged in it in one form or another, either as betting commissioners or bettors."

"It is true that money changing ownership through games of chance does not represent economic waste. But seldom are winnings put to any useful economic purpose."

"The federal government, of course, is powerless to act to check the mania except through a moral appeal."

No Loss, But No Gain.

Nearly $1,000,000,000 was won at poker and other card games alone this year, it was estimated. Tax receipts on sales of playing cards now average more than $3,000,000 a year. This indicates the sale of 40,000,000 packs, which alone cost more than $15,000,000.

At every race meeting that lasts a week several million dollars change hands at the tracks, it is estimated. This includes no estimate of the vast aggregate of sums wagered at places distant from the tracks through betting commissioners.

U. S. DOOMS BURROS AS PEST

Animals Charged With Destroying the Beauty of Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

Washington.—The lowly burro, enshrined in western legend as the heroic prospector, has been officially classed as a "veritable pest" by the United States government.

This animal, and its progeny in countless numbers, abandoned by its former owners, according to Stephen T. Mather, director of the national park service, has selected the Grand canyon of the Colorado for its habitat, and the availability of the canyon's scenic beauties in consequence are almost disappearing.

The burro, Mr. Mather says, "destroys the trails, denudes the pastures of grass and other forage so that native wild game, such as antelope, has been forced out." He adds that "the time is not far distant when radical steps will have to be taken to eliminate the burro evil."

SOLUTION FOR FUEL PROBLEM

French Scientist Urges Use of Wind and Water to Replace Coal.

Paris.—Wind and water hold the solution of the fuel shortage in France, E. Colardeau told his associates at the Academy of Sciences at its last meeting.

He presented what he considered proof in the results of an installation on his kitchen faucet of a water turbine which drives a dynamo that charges storage batteries.

City pressure on the water, he explained, is sufficient to furnish a household with electric light.

In the country, M. Colardeau would install windmills to pump water to elevated tanks and utilize the fall of the water through a pipe to turn the charging turbine.

New interest has been taken here in this idea of household installations, because the higher costs of fuel and power, it is considered, may make practicable these water turbines.

Serves in Regiment He Commanded

Camp Sherman, O.—James G. Barney, first sergeant of company L, Tenth infantry, is now a "noncom" in an outfit he once commanded. He was an emergency major in the regiment during the war and commanded the regiment during the absence of the colonel. The captain under whom he served was once his second lieutenant. He has been twenty-four years in the army and could have had a commission but for a physical defect, which was overlooked during the war emergency.

"Adam's Apple"

When our forefathers read the Bible they were very fond of perusing the stories and incidents contained therein even further than the Scriptural explanations. Where the Book of Genesis, for example, merely relates the episode of Eve and the apple in the briefest and most concise language, the legends of practically all people go much further—connecting various kinds of animals and birds with the fall of man and introducing scores of trappings which do not appear in the original version.

It is one of these legends which is responsible for the name "Adam's apple" as applied to the thyroid cartilage of the larynx, a projection which is usually much more apparent in men than in women. This legend states that Adam, when he attempted to swallow his bite of the apple from the Tree of Life, choked upon it, and it stuck in his throat, and that all the "Adams" since then have had this protuberance, as silent evidence of the indiscretion of their common ancestor. Unfortunately, the legend is silent as to why Eve, who is reputed to have been the first to eat the fruit, did not likewise suffer—so, even in a woman, this lump in the throat is known as an "Adam's apple."
