

MAPLE SUGAR TIME IS HERE

Only United States and Canada Produce This Much-Prized Product on Large Scale.

EARLY TAPPING IS FAVORED

First Runs Are Usually the Sweetest and Therefore the Best Producers - Ten to Fifteen Trees Enough for Family.

Washington.-Remember the days when you went to the maple sugar parties? Well, maple sugar time is here.

Warm days and cold nights are essential to a satisfactory flow, and the sugar content may vary considerably from day to day.

The maple is well up among the leaders in the American Forestry association's vote for a national tree.

Early Tapping is Favored.

Tap early in the season, says a general bulletin, to obtain the earlier runs, which are generally the sweetest, and therefore the best producers.

In general, the association points out, the season is ready to open during the first or middle of February in the southern section and later in the northern regions when days are becoming warm.

A thirteen thirty-seconds of an inch (13-32 inch) bit is often used. Its direction should be slightly upward in to the tree, the stant allowing the hole to drain readily.

Apparatus for strapping and sugar-making does not necessarily represent a large outlay.

From ten to fifteen trees usually will yield enough sirup for family use to make tapping worth while, and in many cases will afford a surplus which can be sold at a remunerative price.

Figures as to Yields.

In a good season a tree fifteen inches in diameter will yield sufficient sap to make from one to six quarts of sirup, which in turn can be concentrated into two to ten pounds of sugar.

A considerable number of maple trees of a sugar-yielding species are found in Washington and Oregon.

New York Lad Wiggles in School and the Matches in His Pocket Are Ignited.

Little Falls, N. Y.-Pedro Sacherle, a boy in the eighth grade in the Little Falls high school, was sitting at a desk, wriggling, as boys do. Another boy, sitting near him, saw a column of smoke ascending along Pedro's backbone and circling toward the ceiling.

Psychology Used in Tests at University of Wisconsin.

Experts Hunt Among Freshmen for Material for Likely Journalists and Machinists.

Madison, Wis.-Psychological tests of ability for machine shop work evidenced by freshmen in the college of engineering are being undertaken by the department of psychology at the University of Wisconsin.

The results of the tests are being computed by students in vocational psychology as a part of their work in preparing to become employment managers.

Another set of tests designed to gauge journalistic ability is to be given to freshmen in the course of journalism in conjunction with schools of journalism in other universities.

The system of giving psychological tests, instead of regular entrance examinations to students who wish to enter a university, has been tried in several universities.

In this regard, the University of Wisconsin is giving more specific tests than most other universities.

"Rubberneck" Guide Heaps Unexpected Honor on Newspaper Correspondent.

Washington.-Hudson Hawley, formerly in the American expeditionary force and now a Washington correspondent, has an overcoat made of an Arizona wildcat skin.

Small of stature and wearing a pointed, upturned mustache, Hawley has created a sensation in Washington with his striking civilian attire.

Hawley emerged from the main entrance of the embassy and drew the collar of his fur coat up around his cheeks just in time to hear the official barker on one of Washington's "rubberneck wagons" announce in stentorian tones in the load of tourists:

"You may now see the French ambassador leaving the official residence."

YANKEES LIKE WESTERN TALES

Doughboys on the Rhine Show Preference for Stories of Adventure in the West.

Activity of Caesar in Rhine Valley Likens Translations of His Gallic Wars of Interest to Soldiers - Legends Also Popular.

Coblentz.-Tales of adventure in the American West are the favorite reading matter of the American forces in Germany, and Zane Grey is the most popular author.

Strangely enough, Julius Caesar runs a close second with the doughboys, who are very keen about translations of Caesar's activities in the Rhine valley and the ruins of a bridge he built across the Rhine, which lifts Caesar's work out of the schoolbook class and makes it a guidebook that carries the Americans back nearly 2,000 years.

Books which describe the legends centering about the Rhine are also popular, especially with the soldiers who are musically inclined and who attend the Wagnerian performances given by the various German grand opera companies which play in Cologne, Coblentz, Wiesbaden and the other cities near the Rhine frequented by soldiers on leave.

Like Story Magazines.

All-story magazines which specialize in adventures are more popular with the American soldiers than any other periodicals, and the American Library association has been unable to supply the demand for publications of this sort.

With the assistance of the Young Men's Christian association, which aids in the distribution of reading material in the American area, Miss Ala Weyth, who is in charge of the American Library association's reading rooms, has been able to make a general poll of the reading taste of the army and finds that foreign residence has not won the young Americans away from fiction laid in America, particularly in the West.

The American Library association has about 30,000 books available for Americans, French, Belgians and English residents of the occupied area, and also has circulated many books by mail to Americans living in other parts of Germany.

Turned Over to Y. M. C. A.

With the beginning of 1921, the American Library association turned its books over to the Y. M. C. A. and is no longer supporting the work.

The main library in Coblentz was formerly a German officers' club and is ideally suited to library purposes.

It has a great ballroom, which makes an excellent reading room, and also has sun parlors and large drawing rooms, with many windows.

Many Germans have asked for the privilege of using the library, but this has been denied, as the army did not think it advisable. One German told the librarian he had lived many years in America and should really be allowed to have books, because he was an American "in principle."

"Let's Go" is Foremost Among Slogans of War

Washington.-"Let's go," was the chief battle slogan of the American army in the world war.

There were other popular and effective phrases used by the troops-"Where do we go from here?" and "When do we eat?"

For instance, but in the opinion of Col. Edward L. Munson, chief of morale, general staff, made public recently, "for every day us," in rest, or in battle, the slogan "let's go" stands foremost.

Noisy Geese Give Fire Alarm.

New York.-Two thousand geese, ducks and chickens, awaiting death in a poultry shop, chorused an alarm for fire that caused heavy property loss in eleven retail clothing and food stores in the Bronx.

The unusual squawking awakened residents of the neighborhood and attracted a policeman, who telephoned fire headquarters. The blaze was controlled by firemen after a two-hour fight.

YANKEES SHOW SPEED

Beat World in Launching Merchant Ships in 1920.

Total World Launchings Show Decrease of Almost 1,300,000 From the 1919 Figure.

New York.-The United States led the world in the total gross tons of merchant vessels launched in 1920, according to figures made public by Lloyd's Register of Shipping.

The total launchings in shipyards of the world amounted to 5,861,000 gross tons, a decrease of almost 1,300,000 from the 1919 figure, but an increase of more than 400,000 over 1918.

The decline in the total world tonnage launched was attributed to the decline in the American shipbuilding program, America's launchings being 1,000,000 tons less than in the previous year.

British production showed a gain of more than 400,000 tons. Other countries launched a total of about 1,300,000 tons during 1920, or about 20,000 tons less than in 1919.

In comparison with pre-war figures the launchings in the United States were nine times as great as in 1913, and throughout the world there was a gain of about 75 per cent. For the first time since the beginning of the war Great Britain last year exceeded its 1913 figure, the gain being about 7 per cent.

Considerable gains over 1919 were shown by France, which increased the total of its launchings from 32,000 tons to 88,000 tons last year; Holland, from 137,000 tons to 183,000 tons, and Italy, from 82,000 tons to 133,000 tons.

Comparative figures were compiled by the registry showing the yearly outputs of Great Britain and America since 1913. Until 1918 Great Britain was in the lead in ship construction, when the United States jumped ahead with 3,033,000 gross tons, against 1,348,000 for Great Britain. Again in 1919 the United States produced 4,075,000 gross tons, against 1,620,000 for England.

CATERPILLAR IMMUNE TO MOST DEADLY GERMS

You can't kill a caterpillar unless you step on it and so cut short its healthy life.

Caterpillars are immune to the bacilli of diphtheria, tetanus and hydrophobia. When inoculated with the consumption bacilli they eliminate them from the system in two or three days.

There is a substance in the internal system of the caterpillar that makes it immune to the most dangerous germs.

Having discovered this fact, a French scientist is devoting his life to the study of the caterpillar, hoping to find the antitoxin that so successfully combats disease.

Texas Woman's Basket on Steps Receives Four Homeless Infants Within Week.

Dallas, Tex.-Mrs. M. L. Leonard placed a small basket, lined with downy blankets, on her doorstep a week ago and announced through Dallas newspapers that the basket would be kept there to receive homeless and unwanted babies.

The other morning she took from the basket a two-pound boy-the fourth baby to find a haven there this week.

"I do not know where they came from, and I do not want to know," Mrs. Leonard said. "But I do know that from now on they will be well taken care of and that they will be appreciated."
