PARIS HOUSE CRISIS

Shortage of Homes Having Curious Effect on Divorce.

No Place to Go for Couples Separated, So They Just Kiss and Make Up—Not a Flat, Few Hovels.

Paris.—The great difficulty of finding lodgings in Paris has been the cause of many unusual incidents recently.

Divorced persons seeking separate apartments are having such difficulty in finding them that in one case at least they composed their temperamental differences in order to keep their old apartment.

A painter and his wife who had been divorced by mutual agreement were both looking for apartments. Frequently their paths crossed in their search for quarters. The first time they met they bowed gravely but politely. Their mutual smile gradually broadened as the hunt for flats narrowed down to a few hovels in the slum section.

"Let's kiss and make up and go back to our flat," the wife finally said, and they did.

President Millerand, who recently took possession of the Elysee palace, received 41 applications for his apartment in the Avenue de Villars.

Henry Landru, who has been in La Sante prison for the last 20 months awaiting trial on charges growing out of the disappearance of 11 women, recently was dispossessed from the flat that he had occupied on the Boulevard Rochechouart, a rather sordid section of Paris. Requests came from every quarter in Paris, some even from aristocratic Anteuil, asking that the flat be reserved.

A vagrant just finishing 30 days in La Sante prison told his cellmate under sentence of five years for swindling that he dreaded to return into cold, dreary Paris. He was homeless; prospects of spending the winter nights under Paris bridges did not appeal to him. The prisoners exchanged clothing and cards of identity, and when the warder called for the vagrant to send him out into the cold world the swindler responded. The fraud was discovered only when the swindler's lawyer called at the jail.

Willed Everything Away.

A lawyer in Chicago was retained by a contractor to draw up his will. The task was accomplished apparently to the satisfaction of the client; the lawyer's fee was paid, and the latter supposed, of course, that the matter had been concluded. To his great surprise, therefore, he received another call from his client the next day, who expressed his conviction that the affair had not been properly adjusted.

"Why, what's the trouble?" asked the legal light.

"Trouble enough," said the man. "I didn't sleep the whole night through for thinkin' of that will! You've fixed it so I've not left myself a chair to sit on!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Wonderful Poison Gases.

Gassed, solidified, poison gas, which is claimed to be absolutely foolproof and mobile, has been perfected for use by the American soldier, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. That two studies—defensive and offensive gas research—go hand in hand already has been demonstrated, for, in addition to the development of new forms of gas, army experts at the Edgewood (Md.) arsenal, have had to improve the gas masks to make them effective against some of the new gases brought into existence there. In technical military progress, every new weapon means a call upon the armorer for a new defense. As a result, this country today has not only gases which surpass anything used during the World war, but a mask which, in recent tests was worn 24 hours a day for a week, except at mealtime, without any discomfort whatever. Breathing was normal, speaking was simple, and it kept out all the gases thus far known.

Women Smokers "Under Cover."

The mystery of where women cigarette smokers obtain their supply is solved, in part at least, by an up-town druggist, who was asked why nearly all such stores keep their tobacco stands in inconspicuous places, says the New York Sun. He said the reason for doing so is because the druggists cater to women smokers, and this class is rather timid about purchasing in the open. The women, it seems prefer to glide back to some out-of-the-way corner, where nobody will see them. Of course, there are exceptions.

Not Much of a Party.

Seven-year-old Jean and her mother were invited to an informal party. They went. There the guests talked and talked, and finally the hostess passed for refreshments some wonderful fruit and candy. Little Jean ate with the others but looked expectantly for something else. But nothing came.

On the way home she voiced her disappointment to mother. "I don't see why they call a thing like that a party," she complained. "I don't think much of a party you don't have a drop to drink."—Indianapolis News.

It Was Suggestion.

"So she refused you?"

"That's the impression I received. 'Didn't she actually say no?'"

"No, she didn't. All she said was 'Ha-ha-ha!'"—San Francisco Chronicle.

Keeps Vigil for Forty Years.

London.—In May, 1880, a sailor, married five months, left Cardiff in a ship, telling his bride he would return on New Year's day for dinner. Every New Year's day for 40 years the woman has sat down to her dinner alone, with an empty plate opposite her. She says she will keep the vigil to the end.

FASCINATION IN AIR FLIGHT

Various Reasons Advanced Why People Will Pay High Price for Short Trip Through Space.

Why do people fly? Would you care for a spin in the air so much as to spend $15 for a 20 minutes' flight? If so, what is your motive?

Interviewing a half dozen commercial aviators along Miami's water front on this subject brought the following facts to light:

About 60 per cent of all passengers carried on the short 20 minutes' sight-seeing flights are women.

According to aviators the types to whom scraping the clouds appeals are:

The wealthy man—the business man. He wants to see what flying is like. He sees the future of commercial aviation. The short flight offers also a novel method of entertaining friends.

The "sport." He flies for the excitement of the thing. He usually insists on stunt flying. Then, too, an occasional flight provides a way of demonstrating to his friends his sporting self.

The average man. He finds in the short flight at $15 for himself or $25 for himself and a companion a method of realizing the thrill and pleasure of the air. He is presented with an opportunity of realizing an overwhelming desire at a minimum expense.

The large percentage of women passengers is considered something of a slap at those reveling in the thought that women were too timid to fly. According to pilots, in most cases women accept an offer of an aerial spin on the direct dare of their masculine companion.—Miami (Fla.) Herald.

TRAINING WAIFS OF CAIRO

Government of Egyptian City Has Instituted School Where Stray Boys Will Be Educated.

It looks as if the problem of the waifs and strays of Cairo was going to receive at last serious attention.

After much insistence on the part of some public-spirited officials a special school for boys of this class has been opened in the environs of Cairo, where they will be looked after and trained by the government without their having committed some crime to admit them into the reformatory, previously the only institution of the kind.

Nothing so far has been done for the girl children, though another home is promised for this purpose. It is therefore satisfactory to hear of the formation of an organization called the "Brotherhood and International," with the object of looking after and improving the lot of the child waifs generally.

A meeting recently held in support of this movement was given much prominence in the local English papers, but in spite of its intimate bearing on a purely Egyptian problem none of the Arabic papers appears to have given the matter any publicity.—Christian Science Monitor.

Progressed by Slow Stages.

Thirty years ago the men of Hartshay, a hamlet of Derbyshire, England, were accustomed to meet at a bridge on the edge of the town, where they would read the papers and discuss events. This was all right in summer time, but in the winter it was different and they would occasionally adjourn to a sheltered spot under the bridge. From this they moved into a vacated pigsty and later annexed another pigsty. This rude building was improved by their own efforts until it was a fairly comfortable place. From this humble origin there is now a rather pretentious library, with the best papers and magazines and a stock of good books.

Comparisons Are Sometimes Odious.

Johnny was attending his first grade school, after graduating from kindergarten, where he greatly adored his teacher, a pretty young woman in her teens. His mother noticed his lack of enthusiasm in his new studies, and that he never mentioned his teacher.

Finally, one night when she was putting him to bed, she asked: "Johnny, don't you like your new teacher?"

"Oh, I like her well enough," he replied, "but, mother, she looks just like a potato chip."

To him that hath shall be given

Was the littol version of our modern saying: "Nothing succeeds like success." So it was with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which, over 30 years ago, gave to the world a prescription which has never been equaled as a tonic for the weakness of women. Many women in every hamlet, town or city will gladly testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did them a world of good. Ask your neighbor.

Another of this great physician's successful remedies is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and, like the "Prescription," is now sold by druggists everywhere, in both liquid and tablet form. This medicine was a success from the start, for the list of men and women all over the universe who have successfully used it for indigestion and as a "stomachic" and system builder, makes an amazing list of thousands.

The picturesque old Cliff Dwellings along the historic Apache Trail—near Roosevelt, Arizona

Relics of a Bygone Day

The Gasoline of Quality

ALONG the Apache Trail in Arizona the motorist can see the dwellings of a race—now believed to be extinct. These cliff dwellings are at least 400 years old and if their walls could speak they would tell a most dramatic story of romance and conquest.

Arizona has more than its share of interesting places to lure the motorist. There he will find many Indian reservations—the homes of Apaches, Navajos, Hopis, Mohaves and other tribes. There, too, is the famous Roosevelt Dam and the incomparable Grand Canyon of the Colorado River.

And wherever he goes the motorist can be sure that his motor fuel will be right—because Red Crown Gasoline is sold everywhere.

Look for the Red Crown sign on service stations and gas pumps.

WOMEN AND PROSPERITY

HOW does Oregon's prosperity depend upon the men? Because the women do 90 per cent of the buying, when they buy they buy the goods that pay for the men's wages. Women not only do the greater part of the buying, but from those "nationalized" accounts at the First, we know they do a lot of the SAVING too.
