

STATE CONTRIBUTES TO HEALTH FUND

Portland, Ore., April 20th—Approximately $38,700 is the sum Oregon contributed for the prevention of tuberculosis in the state through the 1920 Christmas Seal Sale, which provides the sole support for the Oregon Tuberculosis Association. This amount is an increase of $7000 over last year. The Association's 1921 program has been broadened to include more public health nurses free clinics, educational campaigns, legislation, child welfare work and surveys.

Twelve counties now have public health organizations and Mrs. Saldie Orr-Dunbar, executive secretary, has been personally directing organization work for Marion and will go to Klamath and Lake counties in May for the same purpose. Miss Ebba Djupe has been added to the staff as demonstration nurse and is now conducting a three month program in Douglas county. The State Bureau of nursing, organized by the Association, was recently given an appropriation of $20,000 by the legislature and incorporated as a department of the board of health.

A total enrollment of 32,000 school children in the Modern Health Crusade has been effected by Miss Elizabeth Hopper, state director. All supplies are sent free to the schools and the crusade system of instilling health habits in children has achieved national recognition.

Tuberculosis surveys and clinics comprise a large extension of the Association's program. Surveys have been recently completed of Clatsop and Columbia counties by Robert W. Osburn, field executive and campaign director. A free tuberculosis clinic in Astoria, March 15th attracted nearly 200 people for examination. A similar clinic will be held at St. Helens, April 20th. The Association is ready to give free cooperation to any medical organization in the state for clinics. A special survey of tuberculosis conditions in Portland and Multnomah county, the largest yet attempted in the west, is being conducted by Miss Grace Holmes for the state association. The entire program is made possible by the sale of Christmas seals.

American Legion Notes

A hungry rooster, who had missed his meals for five hours, made a fraction over $1.15 for each grain of corn he could gobble in a three-hour feast for the women of the American Legion's Auxiliary in Cimarron, Kan. After being sold twice and then auctioned off, the fowl netted $328 for the Auxiliary. Placed in a show window for hours without his breakfast, the bird suddenly faced 1,000 grains of tempting Kansas corn. Guests were sold at ten cents each as to how many grains he would eat. He tucked away 232 grains and retired for the night.

Sixty Sioux Indians, who served as intelligence scouts in the World War, will entertain delegates and visitors to the third annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City next fall, with a tribal war dance.

Disabled veterans of the world war, nearly all of them overseas veterans and members of the Walter Reed Post of the American Legion in Washington, D.C., have adopted what they term "The Creed of the Disabled Man," which was commended by President Harding. The creed reads as follows: "Once more to be useful, to see pity in the eyes of my friends replaced with commendation, to work, produce, provide and to feel that I have a place in the world, seeking no favors and given none, a man among men in spite of this physical handicap."

A rooming house to take care of ex-service men coming to Minneapolis, Minn. for vocational training and to obtain medical treatment is being planned by the combined forces of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion in Hennepin County of that state. The high prices which disabled veterans have to pay for hotel accommodations caused the action of the women's organization.

Dogs, cats, goats and bears were used as mascots by members of Wyandotte Post of the American Legion in Kansas City, Mo., when they were in the Army. To provide shelter for their pets, in peace time the post has gone on record as favoring the establishment of a municipal zoo, with the stipulation that their mascots be installed therein.

NORTH END NEWS

(From Wheeler Reporter)
J.K. Elder has a contract to supply a Portland firm with 200 cords of Alder timber, which will be used in making veneer. A crew of men are cutting it on Foley, and shipments will start this week. It is cut 8 feet long, and is hauled to Mohler by truck.

A group of Wheeler and Portland men are negotiating for the purchase of the Co-Operative cannery. If the deal goes through, which is quite likely, the new company will increase the equipment and can fruit and vegetables, and may enter the deep-sea fishing business.

The Wheeler United has made arrangements to secure logs from Haak's camp, and started sawing this week. Orders are not very plentiful as yet, but Manager Stout believes they can keep running from now on.

The Wheeler Lumber Co., bought the Jensen mill located here, at a sheriff's sale in Tillamook Saturday. The price was about $7,500. It was built as a box factory four years ago, and afterwards converted into a shingle mill. It is a very good one saw mill, and has a capacity of 35,000 per day. The new owners will not operate it until the market for shingles is more stable than at present.

Thursday noon Ed Kelly, John Korpaia, Donald Rentala, Jack Wilton, Charlie and Otto Seamon, Joe Duncan, Herman Tubising, Ed. Betner and Ray Norris sailed from here in fish boats, bound for Astoria. Each man had a boat, and all made a safe passage, arriving in Astoria at 9:30 P.M.

TO INVESTIGATE LOBBIES

Washington, April, 20.—In order to investigate whether agricultural organizations with lobbies in Washington are more busily engaged in farming the farmer than accomplishing real benefit to the farming community as a whole, Representative Gould of New York will introduce a resolution in the next Congress.

In several whereases he declares that the production and distribution of the nation's food supply is a matter of primary importance to every citizen; that generous appropriation of public funds are annually made for the promotion and stimulation of agriculture and horticulture; that any combination, contract or agreement to restrict the production of foodstuffs or to unduly enhance their price by combination, collusion or other unlawful act would work a cruel hardship on our people; and that declines in agricultural prices have excited the fear and anxiety of our farming population and may cause them to be misled into hasty plans or the formation of associations purported to provide a means of protection against loss.

"What Shall I Have For Dinner?"

That is a puzzling question for housewives at this time of year. The Satisfaction Store is trying to help answer it by always having a big stock of good things for the table in groceries, fruit and vegetables.

While quality is our first consideration, we never forget prices; you won't have to pay extra for being a satisfied customer. Market conditions still have a downward tendency, recent declines having been in soap, citrus powder, canned peaches, plums, apricots, peas and tomatoes, flour and butter. Nothing has advanced and we have many good values to offer.
