CARELESS LEGISLATION

In an article taken from the Salem Statesman and reprinted on another page of this paper the errors incorporated in some of the measures passed at the last term of the state legislature are enumerated. Evidently much carelessness marked the efforts of some of the state's trusted solons, making it necessary, in some cases, to pass emergency laws so as to be able to provide much needed funds. The matter of failing to supply funds for the care of delinquent children etc., for the second year of this biennium being one example of this brand of efficiency.

A more careful weeding out process in selecting legislators is the only remedy for such conditions.

BUILDING AND PROSPERITY

Expressing confidence that the low mark in prices, at least in building prices, has been reached, several local business men are proceeding with plans for extensive improvements in their city properties. The value of such an undertaking to a community is usually underestimated by the people at large, for beside improving the appearance of the city building activities will give occupation to many who are now lying idle.

TESTING COWS

To the Editor:
Anyone who visited the sale of Withcombe's herd at Dr. Reedy's barn last Friday could see the importance of test work for dairy cows. Had the stock been tested so Mr. Whitcombe could place his hand on this or that cow and tell the bidders just the record she made, I wonder what the difference or average in price would have been? It surely would have made a difference and without a doubt I think the dairymen of Tillamook County could see for themselves the value of testing their stock.

The writer asked the owner before the sale if his stock had been tested and he replied "No" - that he did not believe it.

Suppose one of the purchasers would put their cow on test and find they had a world record cow. Do you suppose he would think testing pays?

PRESIDENT HARDING SETS EXAMPLE IN ECONOMY

Washington, April, 20.—Thrift has perched above the White House door.

Until President and Mrs. Harding moved into the White House it has always been the practice of the House Appropriations Committee to provide for the purchase of furniture for the private apartments of the President and his family. But as an example for Government economy President and Mrs. Harding have no intention of using a Congressional appropriation for furnishing these apartments. Instead the furniture will come from their own Marion and Washington homes.

Give the average American earner an opportunity of furnishing a home lavishly with Oriental rugs, beautiful paintings, mahogany furniture and costly draperies, and he will take it even though he may know that the funds, making this purchase possible and coming out of the public treasury, will work a hardship on the country's taxpayers. Its a difficult task to show the average earner that in the conduct of his own affairs and in the disbursement of his own earnings he should practice thrift and economy.

Economy, like charity, should begin at home. It is easy enough to straddle a neighbor's fence and talk long and vigorously about plans and programs that if followed out by the "other fellow" would improve conditions but the real job is for individuals themselves to begin a program of economy and thrift at home.

The United States Treasury Department, in carrying on the Savings movement, is endeavoring to impress upon the mind of every American earner desiring sound advice the advisability of beginning a program of thrift and economy in their own personal affairs. It urges that every earner make a budget and in it make allowance for regular saving and sound investment. It urges that whenever any individual makes an appropriation out of his own funds and for his own needs, he use the judgment of President and Mrs. Harding when they, appreciating the necessity for a program of economy in putting the business of our country back to normal, decided it unwise to spend the funds commonly provided by the House Appropriations Committee for the purchase of furniture when this furniture might be brought from their own homes at Marion and Washington.

That every earner may begin saving at home, special Savings Securities have been issued by the United States Treasury Department. These securities, from the 25c thrift stamp to the $1000 Treasury Savings Certificate, are the best in the world. Talk with your postmaster about them.

MANY TAKE ADVANTAGE SOLDIER'S EDUCATIONAL AID

Salem, Or., April 6.—A total of $794,827.51 has been paid out in the administration of the soldier's education aid act to date, according to a report compiled by Secretary of State Koger. This amount has been disbursed on claims of a total of 5402 ex-service men attending 134 different schools throughout the state.

Of the 5402 ex-service men who have taken advantage of the aid extended under this act 1210 are enrolled as students at the Oregon Agricultural college, 680 are or have been enrolled as students at the Oregon Institute of Technology.

The fund, created by the legislature in 1919, is supported by a tax of four tenths of a mill on the assessed valuation of the state, producing approximately $400,000 annually.

CHINA

If someone came to you for bread, Some child, perhaps, with arms flung wide;
If someone almost frozen dead, Dropped in a sudden swoon beside Your home. If someone poorly clad, Left bloody footprints in the snow, Would you give of the bit you had, Or would you bar your door, and go?

If China were across the street, Instead of seven seas away, Would you give China food to eat, Or would you pass it by today?

If Christ with tender hands stretched out, Should smile at you from heaven above, Would you by one small shred of doubt, Betray the splendor of His love?

—Margaret E. Sangster

Ole Berg drove up from Tillamook for a week end in the city Berg came prepared for a good time—Lui unfortunately started his celebration a little too early.

Saturday afternoon Patrolman R. E. Burks noticed Berg weaving in and out of the traffic, apparently a little uncertain about which was the right side of the street. Burks hailed the driver and climbed on the running board to help him handle the car and give him a lesson in driving. So well did Burks lesson work that in no time they found themselves at Second and Oak St.

Here the city will entertain Berg until he produces bail. He is charged with driving while intoxicated and having defective brakes—Oregon Journal.

Washington, April 20.—R. R. Pailthorpe, connected with the department of Agriculture as an expert in the harvesting and handling of fruits for shipment, has been detailed from Spokane to conduct experimental work at Salem in connection with the Oregon Co-operative Fruit Growers Association, the department advised Senator McNary this morning, as he was responsible for increasing the appropriation for this purpose $10,000 in the last agricultural appropriation bill, getting $20,000 all told.

The Oregon growers want the help of the department expert in packing and marketing pears and other fruits, and also his advice about hardy cauliflower and other vegetables shipped east, which need some change in the method of shipping and packing.

Get ready for "Alarm Clock Andy" featuring Charles Ray at the GEM next FRIDAY.
