

The picturesque old Cliff Dwellings along the historic Apache Trail—near Roosevelt, Arizona.

Dwellings of a Bygone Day

ALONG the Apache Trail in Arizona the motorist can see the dwellings of a race—now believed to be extinct. These cliff dwellings are at least 400 years old and if their walls could speak they would tell a most dramatic story of romance and conquest.

Arizona has more than its share of interesting places to lure the motorist. There he will find many Indian reservations—the homes of Apaches, Navajos, Hopis, Mohaves and other tribes. There, too, is the famous Roosevelt Dam and the incomparable Grand Canyon of the Colorado River.

And wherever he goes the motorist can be sure that his motor fuel will be right—because Red Crown Gasoline is sold everywhere.

Look for the Red Crown sign on service stations and garages.

HAVE FUN WITH BRIDEGROOM

Harmless Teasing by Bridal Attendants is a Feature of the Afghan Wedding Ceremony.

The ceremony of the aitor, is perhaps, the oldest custom in connection with the Afghan wedding ceremony. A mirror is placed before the bride, and the bridegroom is asked to sit at the bride's left. A shawl is held over them, and the bride unveils and looks in the mirror. Husband and wife see each other's face for the first time. It is their first real meeting, says Lieut. Ali Shah, in Asia magazine. The bride is shy and does not open her eyes, and the bridesmaids and others chat her freely.

An engraved silver bowl is then brought, with a little sherbet and a plate of white rice pudding. The bridegroom drinks a little of the sherbet and offers the bride a sip. She closes her lips tight, but force is applied and a spoonful put into her mouth, so also with the rice pudding. A slipper of roses announces the termination of this rite. When the bridegroom attempts to kiss her, she holds her hand down to the feet; a corner of his coat has been sent to the carpet. There is a roar of laughter. The offender is found—probably a younger sister of the bride. She refuses to undo the stitches unless a gold coin is given to her. As soon as this toll is paid, the bridegroom calls his attendants to bring his shoes, but one of them is missing. Some one declares she knows who has the shoe. It is returned on payment of two gold coins, and the bridegroom is freed from his tormentors.

BEAUTY IN COMMON THINGS

Kitchen Garden Will Furnish Really Expensive Ornaments for the Living Room Flower Vases.

Have you ever thought of going to the kitchen garden to find something wonderful to fill your flower vases, when nothing can be found in your garden proper? asks a writer in Christian Science Monitor. Why wander aimlessly around that old garden, just because it is a flower garden, when a little farther on in the kitchen garden that gorgeous blaze of pale lemon color is just the thing to go with your deep-blue jars and jugs. "But," you will probably say, "that's cauliflower gone to seed, and who ever heard of decorating a drawing room with cauliflower?"

Prejudice, mere prejudice! Cast it to the winds, you will never regret it, and go and cut spray after spray of those delicate lemon blossoms, being careful to strip the leaves from the stems, then collect all the deep-blue Chinese jars and wedgewood jugs you can muster, arrange the cabbage flowers therein, and, judiciously placed on chests, window sills and bureaus, their effect will be absolutely charming.

The blossoms seem to arrange themselves, each spray standing out clearly from the parent stem, not all falling together as tuberosum has a way of doing, when one tries to arrange it in cases. A combination of warm-gray stone walls, old prints, pale blue and shabby chintzes, and the pale-carbon of cauliflower blossoms in blue jars is quite delightful, though other color schemes would give an equally happy effect.

How Coconut Came to Florida.
The coconut is not a native of Florida, as is generally known, but there are many of them along the coast at Miami. The story has been that they came from a boat wrecked on the coast years ago. Doctor Benschaw says that this is correct, and gives the name of the son of the skipper, saying the boat was the Ocean Pearl, its captain's son, W. H. Fitzgerald, now lives in Richmond, Va.

Unwittingly Set Fashion.
An anecdote in connection with the glove shows how fashions are started. A young and beautiful duchess, having promised to be at an entertainment given for a charitable object, in Trouville, France, found herself late in preparing. She hurriedly took up her gloves and put them on in the carriage. As she entered the brilliantly lighted room, she found, to her dismay, that she had put on one black and one white. The mistake had arisen from the maid having laid out two pairs, not knowing which her lady would prefer—black or white.

Falling Manna.
Nobody had ever seen the largest man in the Texas oil fields do a stroke of work, yet he already had a few deep holes bored in his land and was confidently predicting that some day he could strike oil.

Egg Made Monster Omelet.
An ostrich's egg from the New York zoological garden has sufficed for an omelet for 30 people. The food value and flavor are about the same as those of the egg of the domestic hen. The ostrich egg has less protein and more fat than meat, and its useful constituents include iron and phosphorus.
