PRICE $2.00 A YEAR

CIRCUIT COURT OPENS MONDAY

OCTOBER TERM WILL OPEN ON THE FIRST WITH FULL DOCKET

EXTRA LARGE DOCKET FACED BY COURT

Several Cases Appealed From Lower Court

Circuit court will convene next Monday, Judge Geo. H. Bagley on the bench. The docket is rather a large one for Tillamook, and several important cases will be on trial which are expected to take up considerable time. The grand jury will be convened this week by County Attorney Goyno, and proceed to consider business brought before it, prior to the sitting of court. Just how much business the grand jury will return is a matter over which they and the County Attorney have control. In any event the term promises to be one of more than usual duration, and it is said that the bar will be represented by several outside attorneys. The local bar met last Saturday night and arranged by agreement enough cases to keep the court busy during the first week of the term. The Sheriff's office is being kept busy serving processes prior to the convention of court, and next week promises to be a busy one around the court house. Following is the court docket for the ensuing term.

FIRE CHIEF ATTENDS CONVENTION AT VICTORIA

Fire Chief Coates left Tillamook last Saturday, on his way to attend the big coast convention of firemen, now in session at Victoria, B. C. At Portland he met the California delegation, and was present at a banquet given them by the Portland firemen. He then proceeded to Victoria with the California and Oregon delegations. Chief Coates is president of the Oregon fire fighters association, and has high standing as a fire fighter in the Northwest, and to his enthusiasm and knowledge much of the efficiency of the Tillamook department is due, not overlooking the excellent corps of trained fire fighters who have charge of the work here. Mr. Coates does not receive one cent for his official work as chief, and follows the work out of pure interest in the protection of property.

CHANGE IN LAW IS NOT LIKED

The change in the game law, which went into operation Feb. 21st, 1921, deprived the counties of the old 5 per cent commission on all licenses, and placed the agency for license in the hands of the deputy game wardens, and the county clerk is now under no obligation to handle licenses, and does so solely to accommodate applicants. Prior to the passage of the last game and fish law, the county clerk had deputies all over the county who issued licenses under his authority, and such people were used to applying direct satisfaction was given as to the fact to the county clerk and his deputies. Not only are the people generally dissatisfied with the creation of two commissions, where formerly there was but one but they resent the raise in price from $1.50 to $2.00 each for hunting and fishing licenses. It was claimed that the additional license fees were to start new fish hatcheries, but we hear of no move to create any new ones anywhere in the state. A better solution of the case is that the commission wants to put more high salaried men on the payroll, and make the people pay for it.

HEAVY WORK ON BAYOCEAN LINE

About One And One Half Miles Yet To Be Completed

Work is being prosecuted on the Tillamook-Bayocean auto road. About one and a half miles still remain to be completed, and entails the blasting of much rock, the removal of large trees and other heavy work. The force of eight men who are camped at the old ship yard, are finishing up on the point at the ship yard, and have begun work on the further point west of the ship yard. The big digger is used to clear away the rubbish along the line, and automobiles can now travel nearly to the shipyard. Owing to the wet weather, not much more actual construction may be expected, but much work may be done this winter in clearing away trees and blasting out jutting points on the line of survey. When completed, this will be one of the most attractive roads leading out of Tillamook, connecting as it will with Bayocean resort and the sea, and circling the bay shores. It should be a very popular road with the summer people, in that it gives Tillamook the shortest route to the seashore and beach.

MYSTERY OF DEPOT ENTRY CLEARED BY CONFESSION

On the evening of August 31st last some one entered the S. P. depot at Garibaldi, and pulled open a drawer and otherwise scattered things around. The doors were not opened however, and though there was considerable investigation by the Company's detectives and by the Sheriff at the time, the matter passed on as one of the mysteries of the time. In addition to entering the depot building, a large truck which stood on the platform was thrown down an embankment. Nothing was removed from inside the building.

Recently, a young man by name of Illingsworth was arrested by the authorities charged with having moonshine in his possession, and placed in jail. The boy was suspended at the time of being the one who entered the depot at Garibaldi, but a special agent of the company was unable to get an admission from Illingsworth. Since the latter's confinement in jail on the bootlegging sentence however, Sheriff Aschim became more and more convinced that Illingsworth was the man wanted on the S. P. charge, and early this week the sheriff closely questioned Illingsworth, who finally confessed that he removed the grate from a window in the store, and entered the office from below. The boy who is in his teens stated that he was drunk while the act was committed, and that he did not take anything from the building.

JURY SAYS "NOT GUILTY" CASE STATE VS. WILLIS

Emil Willis, whose home is in McMinnville, but who has been staying for some months past with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Langley of Garibaldi, was arrested last Tuesday by Sheriff Aschim and Deputy Perkins on a warrant charging him with unlawfully operating a still near Garibaldi.

Willis was arraigned last Wednesday before Justice Stanley and demanded a jury trial. On Thursday the trial occurred in the Circuit Court room at this place. County Attorney Goyno appeared for the state, and Attorney Webster Holmes for the defendant. The case occupied a good share of the day, and a number of witnesses were examined. The main reliance of the state was upon the testimony of Billy Zuercher now serving a sentence for bootlegging, and Roy Smith, who recently completed a sentence for the same offense.

Several citizens of Garibaldi and Cove testified in favor of Willis. The jury, which was composed of Geo. Haskins, P. J. Brown, Dave Martin, John Erickson and Claude Ackley returned a verdict of "not guilty."

NATIVE SON RETURNS AFTER ABSENCE OF 17 YEARS

Robert R. Smith, who was born near Cloverdale in this county 41 years ago, is back to the county of his birth after a lapse of 17 years and is renewing old acquaintances. He is a son of Jasper Smith, who lived on South Prairie, and who will be remembered by all old timers on the Big Nestucca and by others.

The visitor is a carpenter and resides in Portland, and saw some changes in Tillamook when he arrived Tuesday, after his prolonged absence. His father was one of the early settlers in the Nestucca section.

Geo. Hunke and wife of Portland, who spent several weeks with Mr. Hunke's sister Mrs. Rose Wilkes, stenographer in the County Agent's office, left for home Wednesday morning.

Stanley Coates motored to Cochran Wednesday on business connected with his office.

FERRIS OF THE ALDER VALE CREAMERY BRINGS HOME FIRST PRIZE FROM OREGON FAIR, WHILE HUGH BARBER LANDS FIRST AT SACRAMENTO

CHEESE SAID TO BE MOVING BETTER WITH ABOUT 9000 BOXES IN STORAGE

County Cheese Production Said To Be About Twelve Per Cent Over That Of Last September

CANNERY MAY BE PERMANENT

Carload Of Berries Canned Already With Six Cars As Prospect

Messrs. Hadley and McGulre, the former from Woodburn, and the latter from Newberg have leased the Graves canning outfit at this place, and are canning Evergreen berries for the outside markets. To date they have put up about a carload of the berries, but the rain has interfered somewhat lately with the berry picking. They planned to put up about six carloads this season, but should rain continue, they will fall far short of that estimate.

The new firm is thinking seriously of going into a general canning business here on their own account, and if they do, will can all kinds of berries and vegetables. They may later look into the clam canning business provided they can get assurance of enough clams to make it pay. They also expect to ship in and can apples this fall, after the berry crop is out of the way.

FISH HATCHERY ON TRASK HAS NEW MANAGER

Mr. E. R. Pollock, formerly in charge of the Alsea fish hatchery at Tidewater, Lincoln county, has been transferred to the hatchery up the Trask river, where he has assumed his duties. With him came his former assistant at the Alsea hatchery, Mr. Webb, who will be associated with the new manager. The men have begun taking salmon eggs for the purpose of ripening, but the work is not proceeding very fast for the reason that some heavy rains must first come before the salmon arrive in the upper river in any numbers. Thus far about 400,000 eggs have been taken, and when the run begins actively the hatchery will be kept busy. The hatchery is in complete readiness for the fall work. Mr. Pollock comes highly recommended from his former station as a hatching expert.

John and Jos. Wunderlich, the former a well-known implement dealer of Hillsboro, were in the city Monday. Mr. Wunderlich sold a lot of hay here last year from his North Plains farm.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fitzpatrick September 24th, 1921, a daughter.

Secretary Haberlach of the Creamery association reports that Tillamook county has won the first five prizes at the Oregon state fair, the first two at Spokane for Washington State Fair and the first at Sacramento for California State Fair.

At Salem the scores, name of cheese maker and factory were as follows: 1st, Reed Ferris, 97 Alder Vale factory; 2nd, Harry Hogan, 96 1-2, Long Prairie creamery; 3rd, Hugh Barber, 95 1-2, Holstein creamery; 4th, Marion Hopkins, 94 3-4, East Beaver Cheese Co.; 5th, Floyd Cutberson, 94 3-4, Maple Leaf creamery. At Sacramento, Hugh Barber, Holstein Factory, first, at Spokane Tillamook maker first, name unknown yet; Hugh Barber, Holstein creamery, second.

It is not known whether there were any other Tillamook entries except the above.

Cheese is moving off better, storage stocks now being about 9,000 boxes. Mr. Haberlach states that about next week some of the factories can pay off July balances. It will be some time before any payments are made on August cheese, as most of this is being held for higher prices for winter trade.

Cheese production is about 12 per cent over last September, with production holding up well. Cold storage in the country total forty-six million lbs. against sixty million lbs. last year.

Geo. Dooley of Banks has been in the city several days, the guest of Mr. Pollock and wife. Mr. Dooley is Mrs. Pollock's father and is a pioneer of the Greenview section of Washington county.

F. A. Beltz who has been with the Tillamook Lumber company for some time past, went to Portland Wednesday by the Cadillac route, on his way to his old home in Utah.

Mrs. Dr. Glaisyer and children went to Bellevue Wednesday where they will join the Doctor and proceed to Salem to attend the state fair.

Walter Woods of Bay City passed through town Monday on his way to Pacific City, where he will do some carpenter work for Mr. Beals.

Sales manager O'Connor of the Portland Planing mills was in the city Wednesday and Thursday on business.

Rev. O. M. Heater who has been working in the interests of the Adventist church in this county the past few weeks, returned to Portland Wednesday.

THE DUCK SEASON OPENS OCT. FIRST

Hardware Stores Report Heavy Sales Of Guns And Ammunition

The duck season begins October 1st and lasts until January 15th. Four local companies of duck hunters who have preserves on the bay, are already feeding on their grounds and it is said that there are now thousands of sprig tails on the bay—more in fact, than have been noted here for several years past. Later on the Mallards will come in, and following them usually, are the green-wing teal. Canvas backs are said to be about the only edible duck that eats fish, and are not regarded so much for their food value as he other kinds. But the best table fowl of the wild species, is the black brant, which is smaller than a goose and larger than a Mallard duck. The latter come in on the bay between the first of November and the middle of December, and are very plentiful. They also stay late.

The hardware stores report the sale of many guns and much ammunition, and from present indications this season will be excellent for wild fowl on the bay. Most of the geese are to be found on Netarts bay, as that body of water is more on a line with the flight of the birds along the coast and the shooting down there is said to be fine during the season.

The law provides that ducks and geese and other edible wild fowl must not be hunted earlier than sun rise nor later than half an hour prior to sunset, and fines are heavy for violation of the law. The duck limit is 25 in one day and 30 in any seven consecutive days.

NEW COFFEE HOUSE TO BE CONSTRUCTED

Ground is being filled in and leveled ready for a new building on the corner of Second Avenue and First street, which will soon be under construction by Wm. Hill for Charles Vogler, the baker. Mr. Vogler owns a quarter block which includes an old building on the above corner. The new building will be used for a saleroom for bakery goods, and an up-to-date coffee house will be installed. The lots will be made attractive with flowers and a nice lawn, and the building, which will be a frame one, will be modern in every way, states Mr. Vogler.

OVER THE CASCADES THROUGH INLAND EMPIRE

J. L. Lawson and wife returned last Saturday night from a week's motor trip through the Cascades to Bend, thence thru central Oregon via Bend, thence thru central Oregon via home.

Mr. Lawson described Bend as a lively city. Both big sawmills are running on full time, and train loads of lumber are moving daily. The wheat crop in the Inland Empire is exceptionally big this year, and is moving to market.

Hundreds of tourists through the roads and the mountains in the scenic Cascades are full of campers from all parts of the east and northwest. While camped near one of the lakes in the Cascades two hunters opened up a muskadee near camp, and killed two deer.

The apple crop in the Hood River section is the largest had in years, and big crops of all kinds seem to be the rule east of the mountains.

MASS MEETING DISCUSSES LAWS

PROHIBITION WORKER CALLS TO CITIZENS FOR HELP IN CURBING BOOZE

SPEAKER CLAIMS FIGHT JUST BEGUN

Wants Help Of People For Public Officials

At a community mass meeting held at the M. E. church last Tuesday night, Capt. F. B. Ebbert, associate counsel Pacific Coast department Anti-Saloon League of America, spoke on the theme of "The Unfinished Battle."

Capt. Ebbert prefaced his address by saying that "while we are supposed to have national prohibition at the present time, really, the great battle between the saloon and anti-saloon forces had just begun."

He outlined in forceful language the stupendous fight that led up step by step, to the enactment of the Eighteenth amendment, then showed how the Volstead act was secured, and the government machinery set in motion to enforce the measure. "Half hearted citizenry, thinking the fight all over, had relapsed and from various motives had fallen; into a spirit of apathy, while, while the saloon advocates had stubbornly and criminally kept up the fight to make the amendment a joke in the eyes of the people."

The speaker waxed eloquent in his appeal "for such vigorous and exacting enforcement of the law as will make the 18th amendment effective."

What was necessary in this as well as all other communities, was a stout and unwavering public sentiment behind the executors of the law.

The work of those who are opposed to the saloon is by no means finished. "The fight must go on, until the saloon element is thoroughly subdued, if all the jails of the country are filled with the law breakers and criminals."

"The heads of the department of Justice are determined to make bootleggers and whiskey runners pay for their lawlessness. They have no sympathy for the class who violate the law, and will put on the screws harder and harder."

He stated that the rum power had resorted to falsehoods in the press, and that millions of money was being spent to make prohibition laws ineffective.

In conclusion, the speaker warmly praised County Attorney Goyno, Sheriff John Aschim, Justice Stanley and City Recorder Stranahan for their fearless enforcement of the law.

"Get back of these officers, and give them your unqualified, hearty support," urged the speaker.

Capt. Ebbert held a conference prior to the mass meeting, with County Attorney Goyno, Sheriff Aschim, Justice of the Peace Stanley and Mrs. Stranahan, city recorder. Several ministers of the city were also present, including representatives of the city press. Capt. Ebbert said the Anti-Saloon League stood ready to help in any way, and that the government agencies for the enforcement of the prohibition law, also were ready to assist at all times.

BIRD SEASON NOT TO OPEN

A misunderstanding seems to exist regarding the open season on chins pheasants. Members of the local Fish and Game club recently received a communication from the game commission of Oregon, stating that there is no open season for pheasants in Tillamook county, and advising that any violation of the law will be promptly dealt with.

The reason for refusing an open season in this county is given that the pheasants don't seem to thrive here as in other localities, and if they were allowed to be killed off, even for a 15-day period, most of those now in the county would fall prey to hunters.

Two shipments of the birds have been released here during the last year by the game commission.
