CREAMERY ASS'N DIRECTORS MEET

SMALL AMOUNT SOLD DURING LAST MONTH

STORAGE NOW AMOUNTS TO 5,590 BOXES

Matter of Increasing Capital Stock to Larger Amount is Considered At Meeting

The directors and stockholders of the Tillamook Creamery association met in this city, Wednesday, Dec. 7. The meeting was called to order by Wm. Maxwell, president. All directors were present, except those from Beaver, Elwood and Neakowin. The minutes of the last meeting were approved. Report of inspector Christensen read showing October cheese inspected as follows: 18,216 triplets; 4,280 Young Americas; 1,808 three pound cheese; 2 five hundred pound cheese, and 2,817 Longhorns. Of the above only 41 triplets were seconds.

Deputy Dairy & Food Commissioner Tinnerstet reported having made 63 inspections. 48 dairies scored. Four factories and 59 dairies visited. Patrons cooling milk 43, not cooling, 19. All 59 herds had been tested for T. B.

The secretary read letters and reports and telegrams on cheese conditions. His report showed the following cheese in storage, Los Angeles, 4,855 boxes; San Diego, 584 boxes; San Francisco, 151 boxes; total storage 5,590 pounds. He also stated that he had reduced price 1c on July storage cheese and that Los Angeles had taken 1,071 boxes yesterday. Otherwise sales for four weeks in Los Angeles had been only 78 boxes this, due to the fact that dealers had generally been loaded up before and because local prices were so much higher than Wisconsin that sales of Tillamook cheese were curtailed.

Motion was made and carried that Secretary should write daily Portland papers to the effect that Tillamook should be excepted when they mention all of the dairymen of Oregon as being affected by the troubles of the League.

Secretary was asked for prices at which feeds were being sold and he gave the following list: Oats, corn and barley $39 a ton, $1.90 a sack; Oats and barley, $37 a ton, $1.85 a sack; corn, any style, $40 ton $2.10 per cwt.; wheat, re-cleaned, $2.46 per hundred lbs.; middlings $43 per ton, $2.10 per sack; mill run $25 out of car; mill run otherwise $27 ton, $1.15 sack; oil meal, $2.75 sack; flour $1.65 sack; barley and oat feed $32 ton, $1.40 sack; scratch feed, Albers, $2.75 sack.

Stockholders meeting of the association was called. Meeting called to order by Wm. Maxwell, president. At the stockholders meeting which followed, the matter of increasing capital stock was taken up. Secretary explained matter of more adequate financing, and that $250 was hardly sufficient for the business of the association. Motion made and carried that $25,000 be fixed as the capital stock of the association, and that sixty per cent be subscribed now.

FORMER NEWSPAPERMAN IS BACK IN HARNESS

As a side issue to the insurance game, Rollie W. Watson, former owner of the Tillamook Herald, has been assisting lately in the Herald office as a printers devil. It has not been stated how long his apprenticeship is to last, but judging from past performances it has been predicted that the former Herald editor should be in first class shape soon.

POLICE COURT PROCEEDINGS

Henry Donaldson paid a fine of $10 for alleged speeding last Saturday night within the city limits.

One of the Cadillac stages between this place and Portland, caught fire Wednesday morning between Newberg and Rex and was destroyed. No one hurt.

NEW RESIDENCES ARE BEING BUILT

A number of new residences have been added to Tillamook's dwelling area during the past summer and fall, and judging by other localities which have already begun to work out building programs for the ensuing year Tillamook will not be found far behind many of its neighboring towns.

It is believed that the price of hard ware is due for a tumble in the spring, and that has been one of the building preventives of the past few years. Lumber is considerably down and the cost of other building material it is believed by contractors, will be lower next year than at this time.

The need for more houses to rent is one of the crying needs of this and other communities. Right here, one of the needs is a big apartment house, where workmen and others having a weekly income, may be housed at a reasonable cost per month.

Among the new buildings which have been constructed in this city during the present year, are the following:

F. E. Pangburn, bungalow on east Fifth street; S. C. Feldschau, bungalow, west Third street; W. J. Reichers, bungalow east Third street; F. R. Cardiff, residence on west 4th street; Frank Redpath, residence on West Fifth street; C. B. Stanley, residence west Fifth street; J. W. Hyde residence on west Fifth street; new church building society of Nazareth on Third street and Third avenue; Charles Vogler's new coffee house, corner First street and Second avenue; Herman Sanders bungalow on Sixth street, between 5th and 6th avenue east.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS

In the matter of the estate of John Theiler, deceased; order made to sell personal property of said estate, dated November 17th.

In the matter of the estate of John Larson, deceased; order approving final account. Total value of said estate amounts to $25,000, which goes to the heirs who are: Camilla Nielsen Reichardt, a resident of Usserud, Denmark, and Marie Wilhelmine Neuman, a resident of Copenhagen, Denmark, the latter aged 66 years. An order of the court discharges John A. Nelson, administrator and exonerates his bonds men.

$25,000 RANCH CHANGES HANDS

Henry Woods has just sold his 60 acre dairy ranch west of town to a brother of John Naegli, for $25,000. Included in the sale is a herd of dairy cows, containing some registered cattle.

Portland to get new $30,000 apartment house.

AMERICAN LEGION ELECTS OFFICERS

OFFICIALS ELECTED THURSDAY NIGHT FOR COMING YEAR

MEETINGS TO BE HELD ABOUT COUNTY

Society of 40 Hommes 8 Chevaux Is To Be Instituted by Members of Local Post.

Dr. J. E. Shearer was elected commander of Tillamook post of the American Legion on Thursday evening. Victor L. White of Tillamook, Emilie Woolley of Hemlock and Bert F. Ross of Wheeler, will serve as vice commanders during the next year and Henry Heisel will be adjutant and finance officer. Ira W. White and R. C. Patterson are new members of the executive committee. Other new officers elected are H. S. Mann chaplain and A. F. Wallace sergeant at arms.

Beginning immediately, meetings will be held each week on Thursday evening with frequent assemblies at the south and north ends of the county. This is a departure from the routine that has heretofore prevailed in the local Post and it is expected to create new interest in the veterans' organization. The Oddfellows hall at Beaver will be the scene of the meeting to be held on Thursday, December 22nd.

Other features of interest will be added to the Post activities as soon as it is possible. Among them will be a vulture of the 40 Hommes and 8 Chevaux, which has developed into the playground of the Legion and of which E. J. Elvens, department adjutant of the state of Oregon is the National leader. Several Legionnaires of this county have taken the 40-8 work and a number of others have expressed a desire to take the arduous voyage.

A MOONSHINE ADVENTURE

Clark Smith and A. P. McCulloch were arrested Wednesday night by officer Stark on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. As the officer approached Smith, the latter discarded a bottle on the sidewalk, but enough of the contents was saved and analyzed to show not only "one half of one per cent," but 48 per cent of alcohol. Both men appeared before the city recorder Thursday and McCulloch was fined $50 and Smith $60. Smith went to jail for 30 days, and at last accounts McCulloch was seeking to get the amount of his fine, in default of which he will get 30 days in the hoosegow.

Oregon will receive $310,749 of federal road appropriation.

BUDGET PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Council met last Monday night and passed the expense budget for 1922, as agreed upon by the joint council and citizen committee. At the meeting held Monday night, the firemen voluntarily tendered a reduction in their monthly salaries of $10 per month for the ensuing year, beginning January first. The city police volunteered a similar cut in their monthly salaries, to be effective the first of the coming year. The foreman of the street cleaning department also volunteered a similar reduction of 10 per cent in his salary for 1922.

The administration, it is understood, expect to keep strictly within the budget estimates next year, and say that they are confident there will be no deficits at the close of the year. In fact, they hope to have some money over on the right side of the ledger at that time.

The peddler's ordinance was read a third time and passed. It provides that peddlers of produce of any kind, goods, wares and merchandise, not made or produced in Tillamook county, shall be taxed $5 per day for selling their wares within the corporate limits of Tillamook city.

The bills were noticeably smaller in aggregate than usual, at this meeting, and warrants were ordered issued for their payment.

HUNDREDS OF WATERFOWL SLAIN BY HUNTERS SUNDAY

From sun up in the morning, until sundown, of last Sunday, the roar of shotguns was incessant. It was a great day for duck hunters, and hundreds of ducks fell close to this town and many limit bags were reported. The bombardment at times, caused several veterans of the late war to hark back in their minds to the sputtering fire on picket lines in France, when men were hunting something besides ducks. The retrievers were kept busy all day, and the old saying: "As busy as a bird dog," was verified by actually seeing the dogs in action. Many hunters are camping their game, and roast duck and fried duck and stewed duck is a common article in the family larder of the average Tillamooker almost all the season through.

AN ADVISORY BOARD OF THREE CITIZENS HELPS COUNTY COURT DECIDE ON NECESSARY EXPENSES FOR COMING YEAR.

SEA SCAVENGERS ARE PROTECTED

The sea gull is a scavenger by nature. It has a very watchful eye, and is ever hungry. They follow ships for the remnants of the meals which the cock heaves overboard with prodigal hand. They seem to know when dining hours occur, and nothing escapes them. The gull is not a song bird, and on account of its filthy habits of gobbling up all kinds of offal, is not much respected by bird lovers in general. Moreover, when it attempts to sing—or rather when it is suspected of trying to sing—its efforts usually end in a rasping screech, like unto a complaining buck saw in a pitch stick. As a song bird, it would deserve to be classed down about the letter "Z". It is in a class with the low down buzzard and the vulture.

But on account of its good offices as a scavenger, it would cost the human biped with a gun, who doesn't like its looks, and who despises its squeaky tones, the sum of $25 to kill one of them in this state, and the government adds another $25 fine for such an offense; so protected by both state and government, this bird of evil habits and untoward appearance, is free to come and go at will.

CASE OF JOHNSON VS. BURNS DECIDED IN FAVOR OF BURNS

Judge Bagley has just decided the case of Johnson vs. Burns in favor of the defendant, the decision having been made in chambers at Hillsboro, on December 2, 1921.

This case attracted much local attention during the last session of circuit court at his place, and lasted several days. At the conclusion of the trial, Botts & Winslow, attorneys for the Johnsons asked for time to prepare and file written briefs in the case, and Webster Holmes and Sidney Johnson, attorneys for Burns were given time to reply. The case was taken under advisement by the Judge, who made his decision on the date above stated.

Briefly the history of the case is as follows:

E. D. Johnson and son Harry M. Johnson, about a year ago, bought the Burns dairy farm near this city together with the stock and personal belongings, for a net price of $39,000. The Johnsons paid down $5000 in cash, assumed a mortgage of $5,000 held by the state land board and a mortgage to Frank Burns of $14,000. The contract provided that should any of the arranged payments become due and remain unpaid, the contract should automatically be forfeited. Default was made and Burns notified but the Johnsons still remained in possession of the premises and demanded from Burns $9,000 to relinquish possession; this Burns refused. Burns then brought suit to eject the Johnsons and get possession of the land and personal property.

After this suit was filed, the Johnsons gave up the land and personal property, but sued Burns for $8,000 alleging that the land was not worth more than $25,000. They also alleged that the defendant and others had misrepresented the value of the land. The case occupied several days and was stoutly contested by the attorneys. Many witnesses were examined on both sides of the case and the trial created much interest in the community.

Columbia River highway paving completed from The Dalles to Rowena plant.

The county budget for 1922, was finished at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Sitting with the Judge and County Commissioners were Henry Crenshaw, Chester Holden and W. H. Christenson, advisory board. Following is a synopsis of the budget for next year: Roads and highways $207,000; Market Roads, $30,000; State tax, $161,495.70; School tax $40,000; High school tuition tax, $13,000; Cruising burnt and damaged timber, $20,000; interest on bonds, $8,000; salaries county of ficers and court house and jail expense, $45,980; Total amount of budget $574,789.70. Estimated receipts from officers $14,000, leaving $560,789.70 in taxes for 1922 to be raised.

The tax roll for 1922 will show about $15,000 less than that of last year. Last year a levy was made to take over the county fair grounds, consisting of $22,000, and $18,600 for lien warrants, which accounts for some of the difference. Provided the fee income of the various county officers comes up to the estimate, the real amount to be raised by levy would be $560,789.70.

Road Improvements for 1922 Road district No. 1, Coast road $17,500.

Cooperation with state on highways $17,500. Bayocean road, $20,000. Red Bird cut off $17,000. Juno crossing $7,500. Trask fill $6,000. Tinnerstet bridge $7,000.

LUNG MOTOR HELPS IN CRISIS

A man named Anderson Fugh, who recently had pneumonia at a local hospital, was treated at a critical stage of his illness with the city lungmotor, operated by Fireman Glenn Terry, and responded to the oxygen treatment and is now up and around. The city has two of these useful appliances, and most cities have them where they have proved their value in hundreds of cases of electric shock, near drowning and pneumonia.

Considerable baled moss gathered in this county recently has been shipped to Portland and other points. The moss is sold to nurseries, mattress factories—California being a large buyer of our coast moss.

GETS WRONG END OF COW'S HORN

Taking "a horn of wine," originated with the Saxons, who used to drink big stoups from cow's horns, and some times they took a "horn" too much, and had to be dragged to their couches, "dead to the world," as the slang goes in these times. Many bibulous persons have in the past fearlessly used the term "let's take a horn," without stopping to inquire as to the origin of the term. But listen!

One day this week, Gottfried Jost, a dairyman who lives out west of town, was out caring for his dairy herd, when an innocent cow suddenly threw up her head with the result that one of her horns entered Mr. Jost's mouth, penetrated the roof to a point near the tonsils, inflicting a painful wound. The wounded man came to town and received medical treatment, and his is the first case on record, so far as physicians have any knowledge, of a man being injured in that manner. To sum up, he took the wrong end of the horn, and there was no "schnapps" in it, either.

All Snarled Up
