Boost for your county, your town and its institutions, and the town will boost for you.

With a revival of the lumbering business, railroad prospects, improvement of road conditions, new summer beach resorts, and the employment of its working men, Tillamook county is a good place to live. Add to this its mild climate, its salt water attractions, and the scenic beauty of its mountains and sea beaches, and you have an ideal place in which to live.

The Roosevelt highway fund to be somewhat tangled up by legal constructions of certain individuals who seem to want the fund applied to road extension in the interior of the state instead of having it spent where it was originally intended to be spent. We hope the fund will finally be disentangled, and applied where it should be—along the coast on the Roosevelt highway.

Everybody is anxious for spring to manifest. They want comfortable out-door conditions, and relief from the rain and cold of the long dreary winter. They long for the song of birds, the lure of garden work, sunshine and warmth. They know that when spring has come it will be followed by summer, with all its gratuitous pleasures, such as outdoor life, excursions, and health giving power. Old and young welcome spring, and summer manifests a real and distinct pleasure.

Portland is experiencing a queer but fatal disease known as septic sore throat. The doctors seem to think that the disease is bred from sort of germ in dairy milk but thus far have not captured the germs, and the health authorities are investigating the city's milk supply. One of the victims this week was a Mr. Frank, whose father was or is connected with the firm of Meier & Frank, and a veteran of the world war. It seems to attack persons of all ages, who use certain brands of milk. How will this affect the "milk cure"?

To the Editor: Come with me this morning; we are going to visit the largest grape-fruit tree in the United States. This tree is about forty feet high and eighteen inches in diameter at the base. Leaving the tree we enter the mouth of the Ca-Jon (K-Hoon) Pass, and up thru the pass to Angle rangers cabin, over the Angle government reserve, and on up the pass to Ca-Jon camp. This is the most beautiful camp ground we have visited; it is in the pass and in an elm grove.

The Santa Fe railroad and numerous fraternal orders of the towns in the vicinity, have erected stone buildings in the form of monuments and dedicated them to the desert weary travelers. The Elks house is a beautiful structure built entirely of stone, an inscribed on the front is a large clock dial, with the face of black stone and hands and numerals of white granite. Also a large circle of black stone and the letters B. P. O. E. in white granite.

This building contains a large kitchen and dining room, with tables and seats of stone and concrete. The tables are round and six feet across an of solid concrete, with a tablet of cast steel inscribed dedicated to the travelers of the world. There are also rest rooms for men and women.

The Santa Fe railroad has a similar building but not of such huge dimensions. The Elk building was built by the lodge at San Bernardino.

Leaving the camp we continue on up thru the pass rising very fast. Arrived at the top we are several hundred feet above the mouth of the pass. We naturally would expect to start downhill on the other side, but not so, we come out upon an open broad plateau, or desert. This is the great Mojave (Mo-ha-vi) desert. We can look for miles to the north and see no hills, but to the east, west and south are mountains. This desert is covered with desert palms, from six to forty feet high, and as large as two feet through at the base. There are also desert cedar, which look like a large ball from the distance, and manzanita and sage brush. There is some desert farming done. We found alfalfa farms and a few fruit orchards. Water is the big problem down here. They have built a reservoir at Little Bear Lake which furnishes water for many thousands of acres.

We went to Hesperia on our way to Victorville and Barstow. The San Bernardino fruit growers get quite a little of their fertilizers for their orchards.

In going through the Pass you pass almost around Ca-Jon mountain. This mountain is not as high as San Bernardino mountain and more semetrical in shape. It is not cut up in canons and gorges but smooth and regular in shape.

Back home again at six p. m. Will write more next time.

As ever,
S. A. Moulton.

Obituary

MRS. EDITH L. KING

Edith L. Perkins, daughter of Myron and Emma Perkins, was born in Tillamook, Oregon, March 21, 1881, and departed this life April 2, 1922, aged 41 years and 11 days. She grew to womanhood on a farm near Tillamook, and receive her education in this county, and before her marriage taught several terms of school.

On October 1, 1899, she was united in marriage to Burton E. King of Tillamook. To this happy union were born two sons, both of whom survive her. In the year 1902 she was happily converted to God under the labors of Robert Pierce, at Ashland, Oregon, and a short time afterward was sanctified wholly, and ever after testified to the precious grace of full salvation.

Shortly after her conversion, she united with the Nazarene church, and remained a consistent and earnest worker until called to join the church triumphant.

Her illness was short, and she was a great sufferer, but was patient, and evidenced firm trust in Christ whom she had loved and served for more than twenty years. While suffering intensely, she was heard to say: "It is only by faith, and through the blood," and almost her last words were: "Jesus, Jesus, precious Jesus!"

All that loving hands and human skill could do was done to save her life, but early Sabbath morning, the chariot swung low, and she stepped in and went to join the company of the blood-washed who are singing redemption's song around the great white throne.

Mrs. King leaves to mourn her loss, a loving husband, two sons, a widowed mother, three sisters, besides other relatives, and a host of friends. Her place in the community, in the church and home, can never be filled, and many will sigh for "The touch of the vanished hand; the sound of the voice that is still."

Funeral services were conducted in the Nazarene church where nearly 450 people gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to one whom they respected and loved. The pastor, Rev. Mary T. Clink, preached the sermon from Rev. 14:13. Rev. Salmen, pastor of the Hemlock Nazarene church offered prayer, and Rev. Dark read the scripture lesson.

About 50 autos followed the remains to the cemetery, where we laid to rest all that was mortal of our sister to await the resurrection of the just. Till then, dear sister, farewell.

"We will meet you in the morning, Just inside the eastern gate."
