DAIRY POINTS

MANY USES OF THERMOMETER

Particularly Essential to Give Temperatures of Milk, Cream and of Butter Making.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hardly a useful instrument around a farm is more neglected than the thermometer. Properly appreciated, it would serve the farmer in many ways. Exact information on the temperature of the air is of importance; but there are dozens of other uses.

A thermometer should be the constant companion of the dairyman. In probably no other department of the farm can a thermometer be used to greater advantage than in connection with dairy operations.

The temperatures at which milk, cream, and butter are kept, and at which the various operations of butter making are carried on, are very important.

When milk is to be sold as such it should be immediately cooled. The reason for this is to stop the increase of bacteria as much as possible. Bacteria will reproduce themselves every half hour if the temperatures are favorable.

If milk is to be separated by the centrifugal process, it should have a temperature of about 60 degrees; if by the gravity method, it should be cooled to 50 degrees very soon after milking. The temperature at which cream is churned is an important item; 52 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit is considered about right. Butter should be stored in a cool place to keep it sweet. For all these purposes it is essential to have a thermometer, and one that can be depended upon for accuracy.

The necessity of maintaining correct temperature in an incubator need not be emphasized. The temperature is correct at 103 degrees, and it should not go lower than that, especially during the first six days. Some incubators have an electric alarm which rings a bell when the temperature goes below 103 degrees.

In the care of live stock, the clinical or fever thermometer may be found very useful. The following are the normal temperatures of farm animals: Swine, 104; goats or sheep, 102 to 103; cows, 101 to 102; horses, 99 to 100; dogs, 99 to 100. A rise of 1 or 2 degrees is unimportant if temporary; but if permanent it indicates a serious condition which needs attention. A rise of 10 to 12 degrees in animals is usually fatal.

In calling a veterinarian by telephone, it is often important to be able to give the exact temperature of the animal. A good clinical thermometer, if available, should be used according to veterinary methods.

The thermometer will tell whether the cellar or storage house is of the right temperature for produce. Apples are frequently stored in outside cellars, where the temperature is best if it can be kept at 31 or 32 degrees; but 34 or 36 degrees will give satisfactory results. If the temperature is to be higher, the fruit should be placed in storage soon after being picked, to forestall preliminary decay.

For atmospheric temperature of a room the thermometer should be hung, if possible, away from the wall and where it will not be affected by air currents from open doors or windows or from stoves or artificial heat in the cold seasons.

With constant use one becomes acquainted with the instrument, so that dependence will be placed upon it; and with constant use uniform success in operations conditioned on temperature may be hoped for.

MAKE ORCHARD WORTH WHILE
Trees Not Pruned and Sprayed Might as Well Be Cut Out and Land Planted to Corn.

Get ready for spraying the orchard trees. Better prune them first on warm days now. An orchard that is not sprayed and pruned these days might about as well be cut out and the land be put into corn. Wormy apples are neither valuable or usable at home.

"Just one kiss a week," And she smiled as she said it. "It's wicked to seek More than one kiss a week." Then she lifted her cheek And I used up my credit. "Just one kiss a week," But she smiled as she said it.

Frank Matthews says. Once upon a time there was a man who told his boss that he was being paid too much money for the work he was doing.

"What is your dog's name?" "Ginger." "Does Ginger bite?" "No, Ginger snaps."

Many a man has slipped on a wedding ring. Slipped on it is right, gargles E. J. Clausen.

"Judge, I'm down and out." "Maybe you're down," said the wise judge, "but you're not out for six months."

P. W. Barrett says, Most men like little women and little women like most men.

Everything comes to those who wait, And the lazy man waits to greet it But success comes on with rapid gait, To the fellow who goes to meet it.

NATURALLY
"My wife used to play the banjo beautifully." "Now she picks on you, I suppose."

"Be kind to animals week" should include motor cars, R. B. Miller says, since a car is the only pet many persons have around the place.
