AMERICAN LEGION

Former Service men in Pennsylvania have received $40,000 in claims from the Government during the last month through the efforts of the Pennsylvania American Legion.

A special board of inquiry has proclaimed Julian N. Stahischmidt a hero. He was killed when he tried to stop a runaway tank during the American Legion's Memorial Day parade in New York. A medal in recognition of his valor has been presented to his mother.

A hero of the world war, five times wounded at Chateau Thierry, but without work and with no prospect of Government compensation to which he was entitled, Daniel Webster of Philadelphia, Pa., committed suicide and would have been buried in a potters field had not the American Legion given him a decent burial.

Paddling down the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, two members of the American Legion post at Chillicothe, Mo., will travel by canoe to the Legion national convention at New Orleans, La., in October.

An orphans' home for the children of world war veterans will be built by the Pennsylvania American Legion. A survey is now being made to ascertain the number of children for whom accommodations must be made.

For the first time since the United States declared war, the flag of the German Republic was displayed from the German Embassy at Washington, July 4.

Forty Nebraska world war veterans, decorated by the American and allied governments for extraordinary heroism, will be the guests of honor at the convention of the state American Legion posts to be held in York, Neb., Sept. 18-20.

Disabled world war veterans who have taken up homesteads on a 3,500 acre tract of land in Minnesota have refused to accept the Government's suggestion that the various plots be named for the great battles of the world war. "Our wounds and ailments are sufficient to remind us of our experiences," they say.

Under a modification of the New York Veterans' Relief Act, dependents of disabled ex-service men in hospitals are eligible to $15 a month benefit if the veteran is being maintained in the hospital by the Government.

Several thousand Iowa Legionnaires will come to the national American Legion convention next October in five special trains, according to a representative of the Iowa department, who visited New Orleans to make arrangements for parking fifty-seven Pullman cars in which the Iowans will live while in the Southern city.

The S. S. "President Pierce" will carry 200 members of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary to France, sailing from New York, August 5th. The party of former service men, their wives, sisters and mothers and Belgium, returning September 8th, via Montreal. A few receptions and public in the chief cities to be visited but these will not in any way interfere with the personal business or pleasure of any member of the party.

Detailed information concerning the trip may be obtained from "Second Annual European Pilgrimage," care of The American Legion Weekly, 627 W. 43rd. st., New York City.

Only 2,500 of the 5,000 world war veterans believed to be eligible for aid have applied for it under the recently passed New York state law which set aside $1,000,000 for disabled unemployed veterans. The state authorities have asked the American Legion to bring the act to the attention of its members in order that as many needy men as possible may benefit.

Declaring his claim for disability was disregarded by the U. S. Veterans Bureau, Garland E. Carr, colored war veteran at Washington, D. C., bored a hole through a wall of the building in which the Washington bureau is housed, stuffed paper into the room and then touched a match to it. He wanted to destroy the bureau's records, he said. He is being held for mental examination.

When The Tinker Came Along

Remember when you used to watch the "tinker man" mend the holes in your mother's pans? Solder was the metal used—and solder is a product of lead.

Countless other products of lead add to the comfort and convenience of your daily life. In your automobile, for instance, there is lead in the battery, bearings, glass of the headlight lenses, the rubber tires, the paint, and in the rubber mat on the step.

But more important than all these is the use of white-lead as the principal factor in good paint. The more white-lead any paint contains, the greater its protective power and its durability.

We, therefore, use straight "lead-and-oil" paint, made of the well-known "tried and true"

Dutch Boy White-Lead

and pure linseed oil—for both interior and exterior work. Any color desired obtainable.

Now is an ideal time to have that interior or exterior job done—"Save the Surface and You Save All." Let us estimate on your work—no obligation incurred.

keep friction where it belongs

Friction consumes power and develops heat and wear.

Sometimes friction is utilized. In the automobile the friction of the clutch transmits the power of the engine to the rear or driving wheels, the friction of the tires and the road surface propels the machine, and the friction of the brakes stops the car. Friction should be confined to the parts named (the clutch, the tires and the brakes), if possible.

Lubricating oil used in the automobile to prevent friction between all moving parts in direct contact has friction within itself. This friction has to be overcome by and uses up engine power. The heavier the oil the more its internal friction, the less power it leaves for useful work.

Increasing Power, Speed and Gasoline Mileage

It may be proved that as much as 20% of the power at the driving wheels may be lost through the use of an incorrect oil.

The ideal oil is the thinnest oil which will keep the bearing surfaces separated and at the same time offer in itself the least frictional resistance to the engine power going to the driving wheels.

In addition, this oil must have stability to resist engine heat, and it must be pure.

Zerolene meets the conditions perfectly. Made from selected crudes by our own patented high-vacuum process, it has great "oiliness," which causes it to cling to bearing surfaces while offering in itself a minimum of frictional resistance to the engine power; it has great stability to resist engine heat, and it is pure.

Zerolene reduces friction, and permits the development of the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.
