LANDED BEFORE COLUMBUS

Every Reason to Believe That Lief Ericsson Was Real "Discoverer" of America.

Who may have been the first discoverer of America no one knows, but Lief Ericsson visited it over 400 years ahead of Columbus. A recent writer on this matter has said: "The evidence that Lief Ericsson came to the North American coast in the year 1000 and that he returned to Europe, justifying his discovery shown to the world, is clearly authentic." Ericsson is defended against the charge of being a "barbarous Norse adventurer," though he might have been all that and also the discoverer of all that. It is maintained that he explored the highest type of the Scandinavian civilization of that time, which had advanced above the decadent Roman culture of southern Europe. The facts say that Ericsson was a wise, powerful, energetic, inventive, leading "man of sagacity and far in all things." Before his discovery of America he had been converted to the Christian faith, and had been commissioned by King Olaf to proclaim the faith to the people of Greenland, which the Scandinavians had settled a considerable period before that time. It is quite reasonable to believe that the Norseman who had settled in Greenland had made voyages to America in advance of Ericsson.

ONE OF EARLIEST OF ARTS

Embroidery with the Needle Has Been Practiced as Far Back as Flaxery Records.

Embroidery is the art of ornamenting cloth and other materials with the needle. Most of the embroideries made today are usually copies of the ancient ones.

Embroidery is believed to have been applied to skins almost as soon as people and things were first employed to join pieces of skins together into garments. In Lapland the natives embroider their reindeer-skin clothing with a needle of reindeer bone, using reindeer sinew and applique of strips of hide.

Travelers say that in Central Africa, among the primitive tribes there, the girls embroider skins with figures of flowers and animals, supplementing the effect with shells and feathers.

Among the ancient Greek textiles exhumed from Crimæa graves are both tapestries and embroideries now preserved in the Hermitage at Petrograd. One of the embroideries is attributed to the Fourth century, B. C., and is in colored wools on wool.

Colonists Suffered Cold.

The houses of the early colonists in America were not proof against the bitter cold of winter. One volume tells of icy blasts that blew down Cotton Mather's great chimney so fiercely that this noted divine recorded the fact in his diary. He speaks of a "great fire that the juices forced out at the end of short billets of wood by the heat of the flame on which they were laid, yet froze into ice on their coming out." Judge Sewall wrote 20 years later: "An extraordinary Cold Storm of Wind and Snow. Bread was frozen at the Lord's Table. Even though it was so cold yet John Tuckerman was baptized. At 9 o'clock my ink freezes so that I can hardly write by a good fire in my wifes Chamber." Cotton Mather tells in his pompous fashion of a cold winter's day four years later: "This dreadful cold, my ink glass in my standish is frozen and split in any very stove. My ink in my pen suffers a congelation."

Old Flour Makes Best Bread.

Flour (According to scientists) improves with age the older flour producing a larger and finer loaf. Freshly milled flour do not produce the best of which they are capable. A great advance was made in the milling art by the introduction of a method for treating flour in the mill whereby such freshly milled flour at once took on the properties of a properly aged flour, so that the flour could then go to the consumer in condition superior at once its highest baking value. This state of affairs is brought about in flour by treating it with chlorine, and the general result is known as "maturing"—i. e., the general effect of "maturing" flour—a whitening effect, together with greatly improved baking qualities. The yellow coloring matter of flour is carotin, which is also what gives carrots their color. Chlorine oxidizes the carotin, which then loses its color.

A Word in Extenuation.

A man who had several times sought the help of his minister to secure employment was lounging near a railway station as the pastor was hurrying to catch a train.

"Excuse me, sir," said the unemployed in a trembling voice.

"So you are out of work again," said the minister severely. "It seems to me you get tired of a new employer very quickly."

"Don't misunderstand me, sir," pleaded the man. "It can never be truthfully said that I get tired first."

Bad Memories.

"Ah," sighed the various-faced passenger, "how little we know of the future and what it has in store for us."

"That's true," another passenger said. "Little did I think when some 30 years ago I carved my initials on the desk in the old country school that I would some day grow up and find to become famous."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Mid-year examinations are over and this semester has started. Many new students have entered the freshman class—quite a number are out of town students.

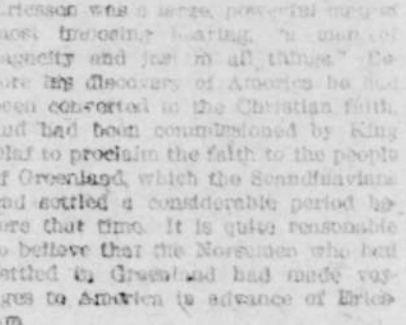

There will be two games this week. The first between the high school and Company K, is Wednesday evening, Jan. 24, at 8:00. The girls will also play, the teams will be called the Red and Black. The second game which is the first game of the conference will be between the high school and McMinnville, on Jan. 27. Coach French is going to try this year for the conference. His chances for success are even better this year than last.

A local institute was held here Saturday, January 20, at which various problems of the teachers were discussed. A luncheon was served by Miss Ryders Catering Service.

The Zeta Gamma have elected their officers for the coming semester. They are: President, Ramona Hallow; Vice President, Lillian Coast; Secretary and Treasurer, Noah Richards; Editor, Cordella Outfield; Sgt. at Arms, Lewis John-

Drink More Milk

MILK IS SOMETIMES REGARDED AS FOOD FOR THE CHILD ONLY. IT IS FOOD FOR THE ADULT—FOOD FOR THE AGED ALSO. IT CONTAINS MOST OF THE ELEMENTS ESSENTIAL FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF THE HUMAN BODY AT ALL PERIODS OF GROWTH. IT IS IN EASILY DIGESTED FORM.

You can well afford to drink more milk because it is the cheapest food in the world in comparison with its value. The milk we sell is straight from the farm—from tested cows—shipped and kept under the most sanitary conditions.
