Early Day Subterfuges in Films. Even in the early days of film-making, ingenious subterfuges were employed to enact scenes which would otherwise have been most difficult to reproduce.

When a cinematograph film of the Spanish-American war was attempted, the "Battle of Santiago Bay" was taken in a little office under a skylight. Photographs of the battleships Indiana and Iowa, and other vessels of the American fleet, with pictures of the Spanish warships were cut out and fastened onto blocks of wood, and in this way a realistic sea battle was produced.

The coast of Cuba was painted on a small canvas about six feet square, and Santiago bay was an oil-cloth tank. Friends were pressed into service to puff cigarette smoke in on either side, while tiny explosions of gunpowder were set off from behind the picture battlements.

LIKE IDEA OF CAVE MAN

Idea Advanced That Women Desires the Tiger in Husband, but Prefer it Latent.

Granted that, as history and literature have always implied, there is a tiger latent in every male. The American tiger has, you might say, taken himself to the taxidermist and got himself beautifully mounted as a rug. The American woman then sits on the rug, in front of the fire, and digs her little heels into the helpless fur. (There is really nothing else to do with a rug.) People always find charms in what they have not, even if they would choose, in preference, what they have. The American woman wanted her rug—and got it. But her imagination was going, inevitably, to play about the image of the traditional tiger before he went to the taxidermist. She does not really want a cave man—not yet, at least; she is too comfortable as she is. But she likes to think that her man could be a cave man if he wanted to. What she really wants is the true tiger lying down in front of her to dig her heels into, knowing all the time that the tiger could bite if it chose. Chivalry consists in not choosing to bite—not in being unable to.

So you get various writers who cater to the undistinguished millions, pretending that the visit to the taxidermist was only a feint; that the eyes will roll, and the claws unsheathe themselves, and the jaws snap. The feminine reader shivers with delight at the animation of her rug; she experiences that perfect condition of eating her cake and having it, too.—Katherine Fullerton Gerould in Harper's Magazine.

Cause of Gloom. Grandmother—My dear boy, you've grown to be the living image of your father. You have your father's eyes, you have his nose, you have his mouth and— Jimmy (gloomily)—Yes, and I have his trousers, too!—London Answers.

FORD

Four Reasons Why You Should Get Your Ford Car This Month

I The unprecedented demand for Ford cars throughout the winter months has taken the entire output of the Ford plants working at capacity, indicating that the demand this spring will be far in excess of the number of Ford cars that can possibly be built.

II January was the tenth consecutive month in which retail deliveries exceeded 100,000 Ford cars and trucks. Requirements for February, the month when preparations are already under way for spring business, called for 148,407 cars and trucks—more than 24,000 in excess of the number we can possibly produce.

III Ford dealers in many parts of the country are already finding it necessary to specify future delivery dates on Ford products because there are no reserve stocks to draw from.

IV Your order placed now will protect you against delay or disappointment later on. It is the only way you can be assured of reasonably prompt delivery.

We consider it important to give you the facts, so that if you are planning to purchase a Ford car, truck or Fordson tractor for use this spring or summer you can list your order at once and take advantage of our dealer's first opportunity to make delivery.
