Local merchant says he has done so much charging that he feels like a soda water clerk.

Job was a patient man—but he never had tire trouble in the hot sun. What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to tell his wife he had been sitting up with a sick friend?

Health Hint: Never experiment with the horsepower of a mule's foot.

Our favorite pest today is the simp who thinks a loaded cigar is a joke. Remember 'way back there when they used to sing "On the Banks of the Wabash"?

Fable: Once upon a time there was a man who stated that he never said a cross word to his wife. Moral: When he got mad he was dumb with rage.

Even the vegetarian has no time for a dead beat.

The stamp sticks to the job until it is done. Son, emulate the stamp!

There are many in the world who never keep a promise, let alone a secret.

Life is never dull for the school teacher because she has a lot of fresh little things before her every day.

If you think that people give up easily, you might try passing the collection box at the church.

After glancing over some of the new light, we have come to the conclusion that the glasses which have a rare sense of humor.

They are now using balloons for advertising purposes. Appears as if that would be a good way to put one over.

Latin is a dead language, and so is: "Come on, boys, let's have another!"

The merry little auto speeder is a wonderful booster for the casket makers.

A man may continue along the even tenor of his way—unless he has bass aims.

Beware of the man who does tattooing. He may have designs on you. A lot of genius has sprouted from seedy looking individuals.

If Mary had a little lamb at some of these city cafes, it would cost her a week's wages.

The secret is out! When the old-timers used to get cold they would snuggle up close to a mountain range.

After a man has quarreled with his wife he thinks the lion tamers' job is an easy one.

It's an odd man who never strives to get even.

signs of activity will be placed under arrest. There is little sympathy for the organization here and it is said this is the first time they have invaded the Bandon community since the time "Doc" Leach was deported some ten years ago.—Bandon Western World.

In this day of a crying need for more homes the responsibility fixes itself on the speculative landlord, of which North Bend has a number. These land owners have held onto their holdings believing that others would improve their property thereby making their own vacant property valuable and then they could dispose of it at a price that would pay them excellent returns on their investment.

invest money in vacant property sits back and kicks because the town does not go ahead fast enough to suit him, is a mighty poor specimen of humanity to have around. There are numberless instances of the kind above referred to in North Bend. If a majority of these owners would go a little farther and invest their money in homes to house the people the city would grow rapidly and all would prosper.

It is a plain case of avoiding responsibility which everyone owes the community in which he lives. Let those who can improve their property do so now at a time when it will do the most good. If they are unwilling to do this let them sell their holdings at a fair price and give the man who has a different view of the situation a chance to help develop the community.—Coo's Bay Harbor.
